

RALPH
McGILLCome Back,
Little Sheba

From the Manchester Guardian, which had it from the pages of the London News Chronicle, we learn that the novelist John Steinbeck wrote a letter to Adlai Stevenson, once governor of Illinois, twice presidential nominee of the Democratic party.

Extracts were published. We assume Mr. Steinbeck released the letter since the origin of publication was England, where presently he is in residence. Mr. Steinbeck wrote:

"Mainly, Adlai, I am troubled by the cynical immorality of my country. I do not think it can survive on this basis, and unless some kind of catastrophe strikes us we are lost."

"A strange species we are. We can stand anything God and nature can throw at us save only plenty. If I wanted to destroy a nation I would give it too much, and I would have it on its knees, miserable, greedy, sick."

This theme is, as the Guardian noted, a familiar lament.

But Gov. Stevenson has not uttered it in so plaintive a tone, sadder even than that of the cuckoo, more plaintive, even than that of the nightingale. (Thou wast not born for death, immortal bird.)

Dedicated Reader

It grieves one who was so dedicated a reader of "The Grapes of Wrath," to suggest that Mr. Steinbeck might better be keening from Connecticut or even Miami Beach, than from the village green in rural Sussex, where he now has his being.

This is our reaction, even though we agree with Mr. Steinbeck that cynical immorality is epidemic in America, even as he says. But we wish to borrow Mr. Rudy Valle's megaphone and, raising it to our lips and pointing it in the direction of Sussex, cry, "Come back, Little Sheba." (Sussex: a county in the south of England on the English channel. Population (1938) 831,580; divided into two administrative counties: East Sussex, 829 sq. mi., pop. 566,680; and West Sussex, 628 sq. mi., pop. 264,900; rivers Arun, Ouse, Rother, Adur; sheep raising (Southdown breed), farming and fisheries.)

Cry it from America, not Sussex, Mr. Steinbeck. We understood "The Grapes of Wrath." It first notified a nation that human beings were being defeated by machines.

America is not being made rotten with wealth. It is being sapped of strength because neither political party is making an honest attempt to debate the issues. It is not unhappy merely because it has possessions.

Nation Drifts

The nation does drift. It is fat. Like all overweight persons, it dreads action. But, it is neither fair nor correct to say the nation is rotten. It has responded to everything asked of it in war and in the tense years which have followed. It doesn't debate the issues today because leadership does not communicate well. We can yet respond.

We are not sick of a surfeit, but of a paucity of public dialogue. Our President says the generals do not know what they are talking about. But he does not remove the generals.

We are not ill of a full stomach, but of a diet of lotus blossoms. The writer who once had something to say in a novel is writing hand-wringing letters to Adlai Stevenson from Sussex.

And in Russia Mr. Khrushchev is trying to ruin his people with more consumer goods.

But let us assume, for a moment, Mr. Steinbeck is right. As the Guardian said, if this be true it cannot be dismissed as a purely American concern. We are the first mass consumption society in the world, but we will soon be the only one. Indeed, continued the "Guardian's" leader writer, if American critics are right, "we in Britain face a sad paradox: we have just arrived at the borders of the promised land—only to be told that the milk and honey are tainted."

Come back, Little Sheba. We need prophets crying in the marketplace reminding us that the Kingdom of God is within us.

A Tearful Mommy
Finds Lost Wanda

By WARREN BOSWORTH

"Hi, mommy," the little girl mumbled in a tiny voice just above a whisper.

The youngster's mother bit her lips, trying to fight back the tears. Finally, the words came out.

"Come on, Wanda, let's go home," she said as the two walked hand in hand out of the Fulton Juvenile Home, ending the riddle of Atlanta's missing little girl who didn't know her name Wednesday.

Earlier in the day the 4-year-old lass was spotted by Atlanta Police Sgt. J. F. Johnson wandering along Campbellton road near Fort McPherson during a cold drizzle.

Sgt. Johnson took the child downtown to the station when she couldn't tell him her name or where she lived. She kept saying her daddy's name was "Santa Claus."

Later she was transferred to the juvenile home for safe-keeping.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Rosemary Brown of 1812 Valley Dr., East Point, said she had left Wanda and two younger children in the care of a teen-age Negro maid about 10 a.m. when she went to work.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Brown left her job as a waitress at a Peachtree road restaurant and went home to check on the children.

"Something just told me to go home and see about them," she said.

WANDA, MOTHER HEAD HOME TO EAST POINT

Arriving home the maid told Mrs. Brown that Wanda had been missing most of the day. She said she hadn't called because there is no telephone in the Brown home.

Mrs. Brown checked with the East Point police. They said they had no report of a missing child but that they would check with the Atlanta police. The missing girl was Wanda.

"Wanda is going to a nursery the first thing next week," Mrs. Brown said.

Cardinal
Stepinac
Dies at 61

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI)

—Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Roman Catholic primate of Yugoslavia and one of the last three princes of "the church of silence" in Communist countries, died on Wednesday at his village home in Krasic. He was 61.

A sudden attack of pneumonia ended the Cardinal's life. He had been ailing for weeks but only on Wednesday morning his physician had pronounced him better.

(At Vatican City, church officials said Pope John XXIII was "deeply moved" by the death. They said he sent a telegram of condolence to church authorities in Belgrade and was praying for the cardinal.)

Yugoslavia's seven million Catholics started a week of mourning.

The cardinal's death brought an end to a lifetime of struggle—against poverty as a child, against the Allies as a Hungarian soldier in World War I, against the Nazis during World War II and against communism after it.

It also ended a battle of wills

(Copyright 1960 by the New York Times Co.)

PARIS—President De Gaulle and his government ordered sweeping civil and military reforms for Algeria Wednesday to block any possible repetition of last month's European insurrectionary uprising in Algiers.

The European Territorial Organization, or home guardsmen, was abolished. So was the army's psychological warfare section. Both were either involved in the Algiers outbreak or sympathetic to it.

Algeria's police administration, many members of which were in close association with European extremist movements, is to be completely overhauled.

3 GENERALS OUT

Prefects, or local governors, in the territory are to regain powers that to considerable extent had been placed in military hands at the time of the May, 1958 uprising in Algeria that brought Gen. De Gaulle to power.

Three French generals were removed from their commands in connection with the government's action against those involved in the insurrection attempt or opposed to De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

The three generals, the highest yet to be officially named in the sanctions taken against unreliable military elements in Algeria, are Maj. Gen. Jacques Faure, Brig. Gen. Henri Mirambeau and Brig. Gen. Andre Gribuis.

About one in five, according to a survey released Wednesday by the Atlanta Police department.

Estimates are that 204,000 cases will be booked this year by Atlanta officers.

That is one-fifth of the persons residing in the metropolitan area. Of course, more than half the cases are expected to be in the form of a summons to court on traffic violations.

Silent Mystery Satellite Found Circling Earth,

Missile?

By JOHN W. FINNEY

(Copyright 1960, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—An unidentified, silent satellite has been discovered circling the earth in a near-polar orbit by U.S. tracking stations, the Defense department announced Wednesday.

The identity and origin of the mystery satellite—which has been dubbed "The Dark Satellite"—is not known despite nearly two weeks of tracking. The prevailing belief at the Pentagon, however, is that the object is the final stage of the multi-stage rocket that launched a Soviet payload into orbit around the moon and the earth in early October.

This belief was reflected in the Defense department announcement, which said the object "may be of Soviet origin."

NEAR-POLAR ORBIT

The announcement said the satellite was "in a near polar orbit"—the same course followed by the Discoverer satellites launched by the Air Force from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

The announcement added, however, that "this object is slightly smaller than the U.S. Discoverer carrier rockets, of which six are now in orbit in a somewhat similar path."

The satellite was first detected late in January by the Navy space surveillance system, known as SPASUR. The discovery set off considerable speculation and discussion within the Pentagon about its origin and purpose.

SPACE 'BIG BROTHER'

The highly secret excitement that ran through the Pentagon sprang partly from the fact that it was the first time an unidentified manmade object had been definitely discovered in space.

More importantly, there was no assurance that the silent object was not a Soviet reconnaissance satellite surveying the

Governor
Endorses 2
Mental Bills

By JACK NELSON

The Vandiver administration endorsed two more mental health measures Wednesday, but rejected a third one.

Approved were a substitute commitment bill and a resolution calling for another interim legislative study committee. Rejected was a resolution which would create a permanent mental health committee in the house.

The substitute commitment bill was worked out by Gov. Vandiver and members of the now-defunct mental health study committee.

Members of the committee introduced a bill which would make sweeping changes in commitment procedures and the handling of mental patients. The governor raised objections to several sections of the bill.

However, Gov. Vandiver and his legal aides, working against time to secure enactment of the measure before the Legislature adjourns, have cured what they considered flaws in the bill and have endorsed it as a substitute measure.

The House Hygiene and Sanitation Committee endorsed the substitute without a dissenting vote late Wednesday. Rep. Culver Kidd of Baldwin, who was chairman of the interim committee, said he will ask the Rules Committee to put it on the House calendar for consideration Thursday.

The two resolutions which would

Of Union City Chief

By MARION GAINES

Three Union City councilmen carried their fight to fire Police Chief P. H. (Doc) Houston into Fulton Superior Court Wednesday and obtained an order that in effect directs the entire populace of the battle-scarred hamlet to settle down and cause no "unwarranted commotion" at future council meetings.

Signed by Judge Jephtha Tanksley, the court order also enjoins Union City Mayor W. H. Thornton and City Clerk Morris Russell from paying Houston his $325-a-month salary as police chief.

The controversial Houston has been twice fired by the city council—at its Jan. 5 and Feb. 2 meetings—and twice re-hired by the mayor. The council members who voted to fire Houston said it was for several reasons, particularly the shooting of a Negro at the city hall during some "horseplay."

Houston was not stripped of his police powers by Judge Tanksley's order. Instead, Tanksley ordered Houston and Thornton to show cause at a hearing March 15 why a temporary injunction against Houston's serving as chief—as requested by the three councilmen—should not be granted.

In the meantime, the judge said.

Rayburn Rips President for Missile Lag

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Speaker Rayburn charged Wednesday that the Eisenhower administration has not made "anywhere near the progress" it should have in the missile race with Russia despite the billions voted by Congress for defense.

He said he did not know what was wrong. "I don't know whether our engineers and scientists have not been turned loose or what," he said.

"It doesn't do any good to be second in anything," especially war, he asserted.

BACKS VINSON

Rayburn also commended to every American a warning Tuesday night by chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee. Vinson, calling for drastic sacrifices, said that for the past decade U.S. defense has been measured in dollars rather than military needs.

Rayburn volunteered his remarks at the news conference he holds daily just before the House meets. He also permitted them to be quoted directly, although his statements usually are for background purposes and are considered "off the record."

"LAID IT ON LINE"

The speaker said Vinson really "laid it on the line" in his speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Then Rayburn added that he agreed with Vinson, declaring: "I am not satisfied at all with the progress that has been made with the money we have appropriated for defense."

Rayburn spoke out during a lull in congressional hearings into the controversy over this country's defense program and Soviet missile strength.

Chairman Johnson (D-Tex.) suspended hearings of his combined Senate Preparedness-Space Committee until Allen W. Dulles, Central Intelligence director, can appear to clear up "confusion" about Russian missile strength.

TWINING'S STATEMENT

The confusion centers around the statement by Gen. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that he saw no Central Intelligence estimates of any missiles that Russia actually had on launching pads last year.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) has said the CIA this year boosted its estimate of Russia's "on launcher" strength. Implicit was the idea that Dulles' CIA knew last year that the Soviets had some intercontinental missiles on the launching pad.

Additionally, some Democrats said after hearing Dulles behind closed doors Jan. 29 that he supported their charges that Russia had taken a Jangorous rocket lead over this country. In contrast, Twining has painted a much brighter picture of this country's position.

Payola Probe Hits $117,664 Junket

Ex-Gov. Clement, Pat Boone Are Named but Not Accused

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional payola probe Wednesday spotlighted a disc jockeys' convention last May with evidence that some of the nation's top record companies picked up $117,664.95 of the tab.

This turn of the investigation, punctuated often by hearty laughter, started out with a name-dropping report that included the former governor of Tennessee, Pat Boone and his wife and band leader Count Basie. None was accused of any wrongdoing.

DISC JOCKEY QUIZZED

The House Legislative Oversight subcommittee turned to the May 28-31 convention after quizzing a former Cleveland disc jockey about $12,000 he received over his $20,800-a-year salary at radio-TV station KYW.

The witness, Wesley Hopkins, 33, was fired by KYW because of charges that he received payola — under-the-table money for plugging records. He insisted to the subcommittee that he had never received payola but got the extra $12,000 for "listening fees."

The inquiry into the convention of 2,000 disc jockeys at Miami Beach, Fla., started out with a detailed report of expenditures by record companies read by Edward E. Eicher, special service director of the Americana Hotel, where the convention was held.

PICKED UP TAB

Eicher said "certain record companies did pick up the tab" for the room rent of some of the disc jockeys at the convention "but certainly not all of them."

Then Eicher caused a stir by saying the record companies also paid the room rent for Boone and his wife "and the governor of Tennessee and his wife." The present governor, Buford Ellington, said he did not attend the convention.

ary last year, told newsmen he attended the convention and made a talk. He declined comment on Eicher's testimony that his room rent was paid by record companies.

A LIGHT SIDE

At the first mention of a Tennessee governor, subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark.), who had been asking questions, looked quizzically at his fellow committee members, and observed: "Maybe I'd better stop now."

That brought a roar of laughter in the hearing room.

Eicher volunteered a further word "in defense of the governor of Tennessee," as he expressed it.

DRINKS COST MOST

"The governor found it a most dignified and proper convention, as did many others of the prominent persons who attended," he said.

Eicher got another hearty laugh when he was asked about one expense item showing the tab for bar bills at a combination breakfast-barbecue far exceeded the food costs.

"Bourbon costs a little bit more than eggs," Eicher said with a grin.

RECORD FIRMS PAY

For example, he testified, some 2,000 bottles of bourbon were consumed at an eight-hour Count Basie recording session that started at midnight during one night of the convention.

Eicher listed 19 record firms, 12 of them from New York, which he said spent $108,164.95. His list did not account for the balance of the $117,664.94.

He said the convention, held jointly with the second annual International Radio Programming Seminar, was sponsored by the Storz Stations of Omaha.

RADIO MAN TESTIFIES

Eicher was followed to the witness stand by Stan Richards, who identified himself as a former disc jockey at radio station WILD in Boston.

He said he attended the Miami convention as a guest of the late Lester Leeds of United Artists of New York.

Richards said, "I didn't see anything wrong with this. I didn't consider it payola."

Van Rie on Trial In Divorcee-Killing

By ARTHUR EVERETT

BOSTON (AP)—Dutch ship's officer William Van Rie, 31, went on trial for his life Wednesday with a kiss and a wink of the eye for his loyal wife.

He is accused of murdering a pretty American passenger as the climax to an extra-marital romance aboard a slow boat from China.

The selection of the all-male jury to try the handsome blue-eyed radio operator of the Dutch freighter Utrecht was accomplished quickly in Suffolk County Superior Court. In addition to the 12 regular jurors, two alternates were chosen.

DISDAIN OPINIONS

Jurors were sworn only after they answered in the negative the following question by Judge Frank J. Murray: "Do you hold any opinions that would prevent you from finding this defendant guilty of a crime punishable by death?"

Van Rie seemed relaxed and jaunty as he stood trial in connection with the death last Sept. 18 of Lynn Kauffman, 23, divorcee daughter of a Chicago manufacturer.

The state charges she was slain by Van Rie following a torrid romance during the 44-day voyage of the Utrecht from Singapore to Boston. Her 100-pound, 5-foot-2 body was consigned to the sea and washed up later on a bleak island in Boston Harbor.

CHIDES LAWYER

To newsmen who asked the tall slender seafarer how he felt as he faced trial, Van Rie replied: "Marvelous, marvelous."

In an aside to his lawyer, W. Langdon Powers, Van Rie smiled and remarked: "Don't be so nervous."

During the tedium of the jury-picking process, Van Rie sat erect in the prisoner's box just inside the rail of the seventh-floor court room.

Occasionally, he shot to his feet or briskly raised his right arm to assist the prospective jurors in identifying him when they were so requested by the court.

WINKS AT WIFE

Once Van Rie turned around, winked his left eye and flashed a warm smile, his white, even teeth gleaming, at his wife Nella, 31, she was seated in a spectator seat about 10 feet from him. He wore a neat dark suit, white shirt and white tie. His curly brown hair appeared freshly trimmed.

Mrs. Van Rie, the defendant's childless wife of less than two years, is here from the Netherlands to lend her husband support in his legal ordeal.

The couple had two minutes together before the trial began. They kissed and embraced. Mrs. Van Rie told newsmen afterward: "He said I was more nervous than he was. I am sure he is innocent."

Kremlin Turns Down U.S. Offer of Atom Ban

(Copyright 1960 by the New York Times Co.)

GENEVA—"No thresholds," said Semyon K. Tsarapkin Wednesday, "No thresholds."

With that bit of atomic-age jargon, the Soviet diplomat again underlined Moscow's opposition to a new Western plan for a limited ban on nuclear tests, a plan that will be put on the conference table here in a matter of days.

The Western plan, originated by the United States and agreed to with some reluctance by Britain, calls for a ban on all forms of nuclear tests except underground blasts below an agreed "threshold."

The "threshold" idea would exclude from the treaty underground tests below the explosive equivalent of about 20,000 tons of TNT. The United States believes that these "small scale" tests cannot be detected with a reasonable degree of sureness.

The information here was that the U.S. delegation, which had been awaiting instructions on the plan for more than a month, had received word that the plan was ready.

Elvis Presley

It's Almost Over--- And Elvis Is Glad

GRAFENWOHR, Germany (UPI)—Acting Sgt. Elvis Presley smiled Wednesday because it's almost over over there for him.

"I'm glad it's over," the rock 'n' roll singer said of his two-year Army career.

Presley won't return to the United States for his discharge until next month. But he wears the Army draftee's "short-timer" label as happily as his chevrons.

"I didn't get a re-enlistment talk," Presley said, warming his hands over an Army camp fire. "I think they knew better than that."

Possibly the Army of the United States was as pleased about its soon-to-be-lost jeep driver as Presley was.

His two-year hitch went almost without a hitch. But, said Elvis,

"there was a constant pressure on both the Army and me, although nobody in the Army gave me a hard time."

Presley said all his problems were civilian. He said he'll have to decide if rock 'n' roll has waned in popularity and whether to change his hip-swinging style.

C of C Endorses Egleston Housing

Asks Aldermen to Approve 2 Sites for Public Projects

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution Wednesday night recommending that the old Egleston Hospital site be rezoned for public housing, Chamber Vice President Ivan Allen Jr. said.

The Atlanta Aldermanic Board voted in December not to rezone the site. It is located on Forrest road, NE, and was formerly the home of Henrietta Egleston Children's Hospital. Aldermen will reconsider the zoning Feb. 25.

The Chamber of Commerce said it would send copies of the resolution to members of the aldermanic board.

FOR BANKHEAD TOO

The Chamber, in taking its first public stand on the issue, also recommended that the project off Bankhead Highway, NW, on Field street be given an affirmative urban renewal vote.

The stand was recommended by the Chamber's area development committee.

Some aldermen voted against rezoning the Egleston site on the ground that Negro housing in the area would endanger real estate values for the surrounding neighborhood.

EXPECT MIGRATION

Other objections were that a Negro housing project there would speed the migration of Negroes east toward Little Five Points, Druid Hills and DeKalb County, and that a housing project would be contrary to the area's natural tendency toward industrialization.

The Egleston project would have 350 housing units. The Bankhead project on Field street, near Hightower road, would have 650.

He Trips On Perfect Crime

A 32-year-old man who formed the idea of a "perfect crime" from reading detective magazines has been indicted by the DeKalb County Grand Jury on charges of falsely impersonating another and cheating and swindling, Decatur police said.

L. L. B. Mothershed said Benny Napier Spence of a Dahlgren street, NE, address, had been released under $1,000 bond after the indictment.

INVOLVES TAG

Atlanta Detectives N. W. Flanagan and R. E. Nickerson said the same procedure which Spence was charged with using in an attempt to fleece $90 from a Decatur service station operator also had been used in Atlanta.

Mothershed said he was told the plan was to watch a service station and identify a regular customer through a check on the license plate. Then, he said, a telephone call was made to the station, the caller explaining that he was the customer, that he had been arrested in another city and needed money for an appearance bond.

The Decatur service station operator recalled that the customer named had left the station only a short time before the call, Mothershed related. He said the caller insisted that he had been arrested in Marietta on a charge of drunk driving and needed $90.

WENT TO SEE

Mothershed said the operator was asked to give the money in a package to a taxicab driver who was to deliver it to a brother of the arrested customer. He added the operator called the Marietta police department, found that no such person had been arrested and then called police.

Mothershed said he accompanied the cab driver—who was not involved in the scheme—to Atlanta and arrested Spence when he came for the money. He said Spence told him he had read of the scheme in a detective magazine and "wanted to see if it would work."

14-Man Panel Named to Train Chest Recruits

A 14-man committee to recruit and train 103 volunteers to review the budgets of the 57 Community Chest agencies to determine their 1961 needs has been named, Harry S. Baxter, chest vice president and budget committee chairman, announced.

Members of the budget executive committee are Elliott Goldstein, 1959 budget chairman; Joseph Meade and Jack Spalding, vice chairmen, and Robert W. Biccum, Eugene Branch, Charles K. Cross, Robert Ferst, Byron Harris, C. N. Inman, W. W. Manus, Robert Regenstein, Frank Shackelford, James M. Shepherd and Edward S. White.

The group will name 89 additional committee members to represent all segments of the community, and to schedule annual visits to Red Feather agencies, Baxter said.

Buck Turner Pleads Guilty In 3 New Cases

W. D. (Buck) Turner, convicted in April of robbery and given an 8-to-40 year prison term, pleaded guilty Wednesday in Fulton Superior Court to three other indictments and received sentences that will run concurrently with the 1959 robbery term.

Judge E. E. Andrews accepted Turner's guilty pleas to indictments charging (1) larceny of an automobile; (2) two counts of assault with intent to murder, and (3) two counts of robbery.

Turner was sentenced by Andrews to serve 8-to-10 years each on the assault and robbery indictments and five years on the auto larceny charge. The judge set the new terms to run concurrently with the 8-to-40 year robbery sentence Turner is already serving.

Turner was convicted last April of the Feb. 12, 1959, robbery of an Atlanta delicatessen — a case in which he was indicted with two other men, James Meriwether and James T. Pyles.

Chessman Plans Appeal for Mercy as a Last Resort

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An attorney for convict-author Caryl Chessman said Wednesday he would appeal for mercy from California Gov. Brown as a last resort if other legal maneuvers failed. Chessman, "red light bandit" who has fought for almost 13 years to avoid execution, has made his 14th appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

$25 Million Mt. Gilead Center Okayed by Joint Plans Board

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Plans for erection of a $25 million combination shopping center and housing development on a 325-acre tract at the Lakewood avenue extension and Mt. Gilead road were approved Wednesday by the joint Atlanta-Fulton County Planning Board.

At the same time, the board turned down the proposed $21 million Ben Hilltown shopping center planned for a 75-acre tract in the same area, fronting on Campbellton road east of Barge road.

Board members said they felt the development planned by the Continental Development Corp. was preferable and that two huge centers almost side by side could not be operated successfully.

Sponsors for the approved center said they plan to spend more than $6 million on a shopping center to occupy some 80 acres of the tract. In addition, 30 acres of apartments are planned along with some 350 single-family dwellings. The tract includes the old Meadowbrook Golf course.

Sam R. Young, board chairman, said the members also voted against an ordinance proposed by Alderman Jimmy Vickers to require advertising of rezoning hearings in a daily newspaper of general circulation. At present, such hearings are advertised in a daily without general circulation.

Board members also approved 17 other petitions, turned down eight and held four for further study. Other petitions turned down affect sites at Gordon road and Westland boulevard; Moreland avenue near Custer avenue; Bolton road near Collins drive; Powers Ferry road near Roswell road; Hollywood road near Proctor creek; Campbellton road and

Raises Asked By Teachers At Rome

Constitution State News Service

ROME—Floyd County teachers have adopted a resolution urging the governor and Legislature to do "everything possible" to adopt a professional teacher salary schedule based on training and experience.

At the same time Wednesday it was revealed that a group of social workers in 38 counties around Savannah have written the governor imploring him to explore "every possible means of continuing the public school system."

The Floyd teachers said the $200 annual raise proposed by Gov. Vandiver is not enough to meet cost of living increases. They said that their action was not connected with that of a group that asked for $1,000 yearly raises, however.

The south Georgia social workers, in their letter to the governor, wrote that some of the results of closed schools could be that many students will never return to school.

Why Endanger State 4-H Center?

Robert Arnold, chairman of the Board of Regents, has proposed that if necessary the children of Georgia take money out of their own pockets to buy land for a prison so that the state will not use property for such a purpose near the magnificent 4-H Center at Rock Eagle.

We will support those boys and girls in such an undertaking if the latter does become necessary.

But we think the leadership behind the move, which seems to have powerful support for building a prison there, has brought Georgia to a sad state of affairs when such proposals are made.

The parents of farm boys and girls send their children to that camp each summer in confidence it will be well-run and safely managed. With the record of escapes from prisons in the state, no parent would feel safe with his son or daughter at the camp with a prison but a few miles away.

What has got into the heads of the men who are so hellbent on destroying much of the potential of the magnificent 4-H Center into which so many Georgians and Georgia business firms have gladly made substantial contributions?

Must Georgia always do some preposterous damage to some of her assets? The 4-H Club Center has been largely financed by the youngsters themselves and friends who have erected cottages there. It is a happy place and a rewarding one.

The 4-H Club officials are silent because they know what might happen to them if they publicly opposed the Legislature. They may well be. We have heard some of those who had determined to ram this thing through say they would punish the regents and the Legislature by cutting appropriations if opposition continues.

What kind of blackmail is this? What kind of leadership is it which will threaten the state's greatest asset—her University System—if the regents do not abandon their efforts to save the land and the 4-H Club center?

Surely common sense will not decide a prison for dangerous criminals belongs near the 4-H camp, built with such love and sacrifice.

But if it does come to the point where the children of Georgia have to take money from their pockets to buy the land we, as a contributor to the camp, will join them.

There is time for the fathers and mothers of 4-H boys and girls to let the Legislature know what they think about the incredible proposal.

FBI Is Potent Force In Dynamiting Probes

It is good to note the quick action by the FBI in the recent Little Rock bombing case. Those guilty of former bombings there have been tried and are in jail. The FBI assisted in those investigations, too.

It may interest potential users of dynamite to kill and terrorize that the FBI receives reports of all stolen dynamite. The purchase of it is being regulated. In time there will be adequate legislation covering it.

All this is to the good.

We must always contend with lawlessness. But when vicious men attempt to terrorize a city and kill people with dynamite bombs, then we have a direct challenge to our system of law and the courts.

It is good to know that the FBI has a list of hate groups; that it checks thefts of dynamite and that its men are available for immediate use in running down those inhuman persons who are so depraved and degraded as to be willing to use dynamite for the purpose of intimidation or murder.

College Age-Limit Law Proves Self-Defeating

Has Georgia's college age-limit law caused great harm to the state's program of higher education?

Many educators, casual observers and hundreds of students who have been turned away say that it has. Apparently their views are correct as pointed out by Rep. Chappelle Matthews of Clarke County, chairman of the House University System Committee.

Several legislators, including Rep. Colquitt Odom of Dougherty and Rep. Quimby Melton of Spalding, are also unhappy about it. Saying it has not served its purpose, Rep. Odom proposes a law to repeal it.

Some of these harmful effects, as outlined by Rep. Matthews, will have long-range repercussions on the Georgia economy. It has resulted in a terrific loss of college students over the age limits who otherwise would be improving themselves in their professions and thus a consequent loss to business, industry and education.

The adult education program and night school courses have been greatly reduced in a major retreat from a major effort to make higher education available to everyone who can take advantage of it.

Arbitrary age limits are contrary to the whole philosophy of education.

We agree with the tightening up of admission regulations at overcrowded units of the University System as well as stepped-up scholarship requirements. But to deny educational opportunities to those who would profit from it is self-defeating in the extreme.

The committee's full report will be awaited with interest.

Jim Peters Survived Lions' Den Admirably

A delegation of parents interviewed James Peters, chairman of the State Board of Education, in an effort to enlist his help in keeping public schools open.

They report that he told them Roy (I Ain't Been To Church Since) Harris had "tried to feed me to the lions" but the lions didn't choose to eat him. This would indicate Mr. Peters believes Mr. Harris had "leaked" to the papers the letter in which Mr. Peters said the end of the resistance road had been reached.

Mr. Peters repeated that the end of the road had been reached in legal resistance to the court's decree and that the loss to the state, in its young parents and teachers, would be too great to endure if the schools are closed. The private school plan won't work.

Mr. Peters, who remains calm, assured and possessed of the courage of his integrity, does not believe in integration. But he does put his state and its children first, as a chairman of its educational board should.

It is a refreshing change to see complete intellectual honesty in the state's political leadership.

New Version Improves 'Unmarked Patrol Bill'

To say that the "unmarked car bill" comes from a Senate committee so worded as to keep markings seems contradictory.

But there is good sense in the compromise.

The measure as reworded calls for markings smaller than those on the customary cars and the assignment of one such car to each of the state's 34 patrol posts.

The "unmarked car" is not a revolutionary idea.

The plain-clothes man long has been a vital part of law enforcement.

Of course, there have been impersonations of officers. No law is foolproof.

But the patrol car with less conspicuous markings will have a deterrent effect on reckless and careless drivers.

Funds are in sight for 50 additional troopers. Placing on duty of cars with small markings will serve as a helpful and economical supplement.

Nation Should Heed Rep. Vinson's Warning

Rep. Carl Vinson of Milledgeville, in receiving the top award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars in recognition of his contributions to national defense, leveled a deserved blast at the administration for its inadequate support of the military forces and their programs.

As chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, the congressman is in position to know of which he speaks.

There is no room for comfort in his examination of defense policies. This country lags in the space race. The administration has refused to spend millions of dollars Congress has appropriated for additional manpower in the armed forces and for other means of shoring up our defenses.

Along with Sen. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Rep. Vinson is convinced that it is a mistake to believe the only way possible would be a nuclear one. The administration is paying far too little attention to building toward a more balanced means of defense which would include the resources with which to cope with a non-nuclear war should such combat become necessary.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn yesterday endorsed Rep. Vinson's warnings.

While a balanced budget is a worthy goal, overemphasis upon such an objective at the expense of the nation's military strength is dangerous business indeed.

Seriousness of Closing Public School Doors Termed Second Only to Locking Churches

Atlanta — As the mother of three young children I am heart-sick at the thought of the probability of no public schools for them and others.

The seriousness of padlocking the doors of public schools in our state would be surpassed only by the padlocking of the doors of churches and synagogues. In that eventuality our state would appear closer to Nazi Germany than to democratic America.

The majority of Georgians, when the chips are down, will vote for public schools at any cost—if they are permitted a democratic chance to vote at all.

Error in French Draws Criticism

Atlanta—In your excellent editorial titled "Dancing to Harris Tune Becomes Quite Difficult," there is a serious error in the French statement attributed to France's King Louis XIV.

The correct expression is L'Etat, c'est moi. In the editorial it has been mutilated to "L'etat, c'mois," which means nothing, since the word "mois" means month and the "c" preceding it is without significance except when followed by a verb beginning with a vowel (usually "est"). The word etat is usually spelled with a capital E when it designates a political state and when it means "condition" or state in the sense of "condition," the small e is used.

French historians can find no evidence that the great Sun King actually said "L'Etat, c'est moi," but they all agree that he could have said it because the expression is so characteristic of his political concepts and behavior.

EDWARD A. JONES.

Atlanta—I am in accord with your sentiments on General de Gaulle and Roy Harris. In the one instance, I agree; in the other, I applaud. But I cannot condone the violence you do to the French language, which I love. Please, if you must quote from it, quote correctly: Louis XIV is reputed to have said, "L'etat, c'est moi," meaning "I am the state!" He most certainly did not say: "L'etat, c'mois," which, if it meant anything at all, might mean "The state, this month."

Carry on the good fight, in English or in good French!

Special Privileges
Of Officials Blasted

Ellaville—The many slogans which have been used to picture Georgia as an outstanding state, especially the one recently used on the chief executive's stationery under Marvin Griffin, "It's great to be a Georgian," is an insulting, ridiculous and disgusting farce and a mockery toward the wisdom, justice and moderation of the State Constitution.

Where is the wisdom and justice in a law that gives special privileges to state officials while denying such to other citizens?

In Georgia I am ashamed that we have one class that has a special law to suit their needs while other citizens with the same needs go to jail.

Any nation, state or community that indulges in this sort of thing is bound to suffer the consequences.

We are reaping what we have sown.

Penalty Was Impressive

Up in the Kentucky hills the other day, when an 11-year-old girl called a 19-year-old companion a bad name, the elder called me a bad name. I rubbed flour and lard in the younger's hair. 2. Washed her mouth with soap. 3. Locked her in a closet for half an hour and threatened to throw her down the stairs. 4. Wrote on the offender's back in lipstick, "Pam called me a bad name."

When the court put the inflicter of the punishment under peace bond, the girl said, "I wasn't trying to cause trouble. I was just trying to teach her not to talk like that."

While the penalty imposed on the little girl who talked unladylike may have been severe, there is a suggestion there of what we could do about the persistent vendors of filthy literature.

GREETINGS: In the Blue Grass country, Homer Carpenter, retired Christian minister, asked, "Do you know Cleve Gregory in Decatur?"

I said I didn't believe I did. Homer amplified the query, "Cleve was a newspaperman for a long time," he went on. "Wrote politics."

The dawn broke. "You mean C. E. Gregory," I said. "Certainly I know him. His family litigated with the Lincolns over ferry rights at an Ohio River crossing a hundred and more years ago."

"That's the man," said the Kentuckian, Carpenter. "Tell him I said howdy." Likewise, Ira Mitchell of Louisville, cemeteries, to Morgan McNeel, memorials; Ed Norris of Brazil, Ind., machine design, to Atlanta A. R. Lord, machine tools; Don Jones, Westinghouse, to E. P. Eppelsheimer, same; and Jim McCloy and John Dent, railroad, to Clark Dunn, same.

JEST FOR TODAY: Dr. Troy Cobb told a joke over at Lions Zone meeting which goes something like this: A house here in Adel was being roofed with hot, black tar. A little boy in the family, as boys will, got into the tar. He got tar behind his ears, in his hair and everywhere that a little boy could get tar.

When Johnny went in the house in this fix his mother said, as she tried to clean him up, "I believe it would be easier to have another one than to try to clean you up."—Grover C. Patten, Adel News.

Democrats Replay Winning of West

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.—The winning of the West is being re-enacted here in an air-conditioned hotel lobby on the edge of the desert. The lobby looks out on noble vistas of mountains and sand but nobody here gives it a second glance. They are too busy peering at each other's name tags.

Nowhere else in the republic are more people being helped into their coats by total strangers than in the area between the front door and the patio of the Western Skies Hotel, where the Western Conference of Democrats is meeting.

People eavesdropping through the endless clamor of the public address system heard over and over again the two key phrases. One is "wait."

The other is "don't wait."

"Wait until the senator says yes," says the Johnson men.

"Wait until a later ballot," says the Symington men.

"Wait until Wisconsin," say the Humphrey men.

Only the Kennedy people say, "Don't wait." "After a Wisconsin, there won't be much room on the Kennedy bandwagon."

The Johnson forces outnumber all others by at least 3 to 1.

The Johnson pitch is being especially directed at California Democrats, a liberal set who regard the Texan with what House Majority Leader John McCormack once called "minimum high regard."

The pitch has been scaled down since Friday. One Johnson lieutenant once said grandly to a lady from California, "Can you think of a man better qualified to unify the United States?"

Now a charming old veteran of many political wars named Woodrow Wilson Bean softly asks the Californians just to "be nice to Lyndon when he goes out your way."

Another camp counseling against stampede is the Symington group, a handful headed by Rep. Charles Brown, Democrat of Missouri.

Sen. Humphrey's people are not lobbyists in the strict sense. They herd little groups of people into their suite and urge them to sit until after the Wisconsin primary.

The dean of the Kennedy five-man task force, Hy Raskin, the only man urging action here, follows a simple course in the lobby. He never talks to more than one man at a time. What does he say to them? Simply this: Kennedy is a winner and the only Democrat who can take the big Northern states necessary for victory in November.

The loneliest lobbyist here is James Doyle of Madison, Wis., the leader of the draft-evenson forces. He is, however, asking one of the most interesting and complicated questions being put around the fireplace.

"What will Johnson do with those votes when his drive fails? Can he deliver them to someone else and if so, to whom?"

Charles L. Allen

World of the Spirit Is Beyond Senses

When his newborn brother was brought home for the first time, a little boy rushed to the crib and, bending low, whispered, "What does God look like?" That is a question which all of us, whether young or old, ask. We want to "see" God with our eyes.

We want to feel the warmth of His hand pressed to ours. If we can see Him, we will believe. If we cannot see Him, we cannot believe.

We live, in this age, according to our senses. We believe those things which we can see, hear, smell, taste and touch. Living on the level of sensations, we question and doubt intangibles and invisible realities. So if we cannot see God as we see our house, our spouse, the tools in our hands or the food on our tables, then we say there is no God.

I suppose most people would agree if I suggested that our sensations have been exploited in many ways. Sometimes this is good and sometimes it brings evil into our lives. The unseen world of the Spirit is beyond our sensual understanding. Because this is true, some people say God and His Kingdom are meaningless, for no man has seen God at any time—not at least with his eyes.

Although most of us rejoice in our capacities to see and touch and smell, we should not measure life's deeper meanings according to the versatility of our senses. Many of those things which bring greater significance to our lives lie beyond the reach of our senses. Love, for instance, defies the dimensions of our senses. Deeper than the flesh are the radiant lights of love which inspire our lives. Loyalty is more than applause or songs or the bearing of arms. Loyalty to friends is of the heart and loyalty to country is a deep-flowing stream which moves quietly beneath the level of lips in motion. Truth and beauty are within us, not outward things.

So it is with the things of the Spirit. Justin Martyr asked, "Can a man know God as he can know arithmetic or astronomy?" The answer, of course, is no.

And our knowledge of God is always in part, broken pieces which human minds try to put together. But to each of us God has given an understanding that is sufficient for our needs. If we trust, according to the knowledge we have, confidence and faith will be ours. We will not demand that we see before we believe.

St. Paul wrote, "The things which are not seen are eternal" (Corinthians 4:18). I think the apostle may have meant two things. First, the things which we know with our senses are superficial and transient.

Second, there is a deeper level of experience where God speaks, but not to the ear, and touches, but not to the flesh. This spiritual world is, after all, the real world for it alone lasts forever.

Is Communist Rule On Shaky Ground?

WASHINGTON—Is another blowup in the making inside the Soviet Union—like the one which tore the halo off the dead Stalin? Why did his heirs feel they had to destroy the Stalin image which they had so long helped to create? Did they have any choice?

What kind of Soviet leadership, what kind of regime, will follow Khrushchev? Do most Russians support the Communist government?

The answers which I am going to give you come from a source not usually quotable. He has the credentials to be heard.

You would enjoy meeting and talking with 28-year-old Alexander Yurievich Kazhachyev who was born to be a Communist, educated to be a Communist, trained and chosen to be an elite Communist agent — and who loathes the Soviet Communist dictatorship with all his heart.

Eight months ago Alexander Kazhachyev was attached to the Soviet mission in Rangoon whose purpose is to undermine the present, independent Burmese government so Communists can take it over. Despite his lifelong Communist indoctrination, he chose freedom at his first opportunity. Today young Kazhachyev is living in the United States.

What impressed me most about Alex is that he is more confident than most Westerners that over the years the Communist dictatorship cannot stand against the accumulating demand and pressure of the Russian people for a better life and for political liberty.

"But isn't Premier Khrushchev in very firm control of the situation?" I asked him.

Car Slams Into Pole, Kills Rider

Injured Driver Blames Second Auto

One man was killed late Wednesday and another injured when the car they occupied struck a utility pole on "dead man's curve" on Jonesboro road, SE, police said.

The victim was identified as Rodney L. Barber, 32, of 3631 Wascanna Rd., SE, an employee in the produce department of a supermarket at College Park.

Patrolman W. R. Stewart said the driver, Eugene Warren Fincher, 31, of 1002 South East Point St., East Point, also an employee in the College Park supermarket, was admitted to Grady Hospital with a broken arm and other injuries.

Stewart said the car was headed south in the 3300 block of Jonesboro road, failed to negotiate a curve and struck a pole. He said several other persons also have been killed at the same spot, which is known as "dead man's curve."

The automobile was demolished, Stewart said.

Fincher was quoted that he was driving Barber home and an oncoming car forced him into the post.

Stewart said Fincher was charged with striking a fixed object and disorderly conduct-manslaughter.

U.S. Probing Tax of Bryan Sheriff

SAVANNAH (AP) — The federal government is conducting an investigation of the federal tax affairs of Bryan County Sheriff Kyle D. Smith, it was officially announced Wednesday.

The disclosure came in a public statement of William C. Calhoun, U.S. district attorney, in which Calhoun criticized the behavior of another Bryan County official.

Calhoun objected, he said, to the actions of Harold B. Warnell, clerk of City Court and Superior Court in Bryan County, in failing to cooperate properly in the investigation.

Calhoun said Warnell had "taken the Fifth Amendment" when asked questions about "public affairs" delved into by the investigators.

The U.S. attorney said a federal court order will be sought, if necessary, to compel Warnell to answer certain questions. The questions relate to the sheriff's investigation.

Calhoun said Warnell himself was "not under investigation."

A few days ago there was a postponement of the trial date for Sheriff Smith at this term of federal court on a charge of beating a Pembroke man.

Clarence McD. Hamilton Sr. of Pembroke charged the sheriff attacked him with a blackjack. This the sheriff denied. The trial at this term was postponed because of illness of the sheriff.

Stockholder Challenges Oil Company

A court hearing has been set for March 4 on an Atlanta woman's petition charging that an oil prospecting firm, in which she is a minority stockholder, has lost some $1,000,000 through "reckless" investments in "dry holes" and other "speculative" ventures.

The petition filed in Fulton Superior Court by Mrs. Herbert Porter, 2554 Peachtree Rd., NE, asks that the United States Oil Co. be placed in receivership and its remaining assets distributed among the stockholders.

Atlanta Wiley Moore Jr., board chairman, and seven other directors of the oil firm were named as co-defendants in the petition of Mrs. Porter, widow of the one-time publisher of the defunct Atlanta Georgian.

The petition charges the directors, and particularly Moore, have "unlawfully, improvidently and improperly" invested in stocks of competitive firms and in worthless oil properties.

As a result, the defendants have incurred "excessive and exorbitant debts," the petition said, and have kept the firm's affairs secret from the minority stockholders.

Beside Moore, the directors of the Atlanta-based oil firm were named in the petition as Joel Clayton, Rodney Boyd and L. A. Rosenberg, all of Atlanta; J. R. Eubanks of Marietta; Ray Trogdon of Toccoa; Hugh T. Kemp of Columbus, and Ruford Hogan of Dudley.

State GOP Will Meet in Atlanta April 15

The Georgia Republican Party has called a statewide convention in Atlanta for April 15 and 16.

William B. Shartzer, state party chairman, said the meeting will climax a series of county and district conventions over the state. It will feature the election of party officers, final selection of delegates to next summer's national GOP convention in Chicago and the drafting of new party rules.

Ranking national Republican leaders will appear on the state convention program at the Municipal Auditorium and the Atlanta Biltmore. Sinclair Weeks, former commerce secretary and U.S. senator from Massachusetts, will be the keynoter, and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield will speak at a fund-raising dinner Saturday night, April 16.

Shartzer also put in a plug for his party, predicting great things to come.

"The people of Georgia, caught up in the maelstrom of social revolution have by implications from their state leaders have only the Republican Party to look to for a well anchored haven of normalcy," he said.

He apparently was referring to statements of Gov. Vandiver and other officials, all Democrats, clares war on the South" through the adoption of too strong a civil rights platform and the selection of too liberal a standard bearer.

The 5 Faces of Life Insurance

Did you ever stop to figure the unique advantages your life insurance brings to you and your family?

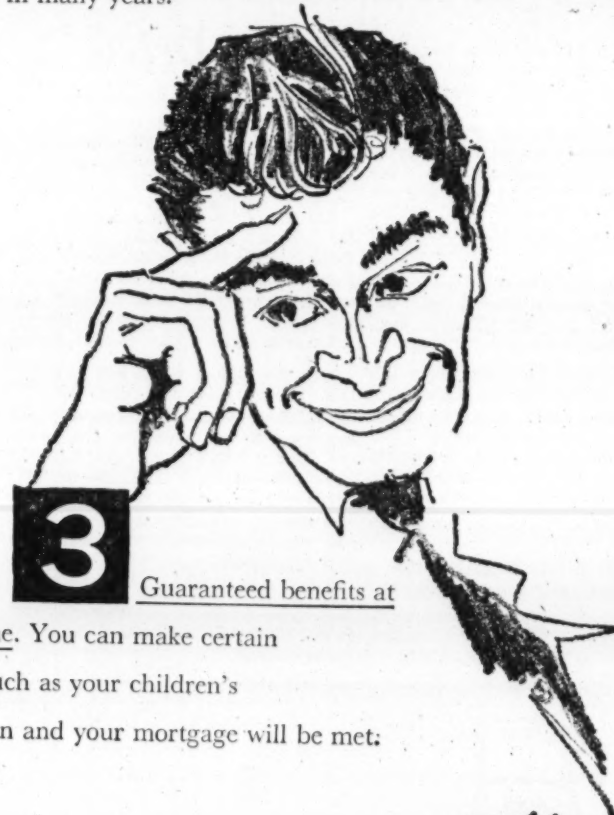

Peace of mind at the stroke of a pen.

You guarantee your family an amount of money far greater than you could possibly save in many years.

Guaranteed protection at any given time.

You and your family know, in advance, exactly how much money will be available in an emergency.

Guaranteed benefits at big-expense time. You can make certain that specific expenses such as your children's education and your mortgage will be met.

Experienced money management.

Your insurance can be so arranged that you and your wife are relieved of the burden and risk of money management.

Guaranteed income when you're set to take it easy. Your life insurance can build an income which neither you nor your wife can outlive.

Life insurance, in addition to providing for family security, plays an important role in our national growth. Savings, through life insurance, help provide the funds for new schools, new factories and the new jobs a growing America needs. The money saved and used in this way also helps in the continuing fight against inflation.

Sikes, Conner Told to Repay $13,185 Fees

FOLKSTON—The commissioners of Charlton County have formally demanded that Sheriff James O. Sikes and Ordinary Cecil Conner pay the county $13,185 for discrepancies in traffic court fines and fees during 1959.

The commissioners filed the demand with Sikes and Conner following an "extensive audit" which showed numerous irregularities in the two officials' accounts of fines and fees.

Sikes and Conner were notified, the commissioners said, that "legal action would take place without further notice unless some payments are forthcoming immediately."

When the Journal-Constitution disclosed a month ago that irregularities had been found in the accounts, Sikes and Conner said they only involved "honest mistakes."

One of the "honest mistakes" was the processing of a large number of cases in which arrests were never made. Both officials told a reporter at the time they would repay the county a total of $2,730, the amount of fees they received for such cases in 1959. These cases were confirmed by the audit.

The special audit, made by Dubose and Dubose, Certified Public Accountants of Waycross, cites "illegal cost charges" amounting to $6,617; fines and forfeitures which were not entered properly on the docket, $1,020; and amounts paid Peace Officers' Fund on non-prossed and suspended accounts, $2,818.

The commissioners said the auditors are now checking the county's fine and bond forfeiture records for several years prior to 1959.

The sheriff and the ordinary recently discontinued a practice of jointly financing the county's traffic enforcement program. They said they stopped this practice on "legal advice."

Fines and forfeitures in Charlton have been totaling close to $100,000 yearly, with fees of about $40,000 going to the sheriff and $30,000 to the ordinary.

In a prepared statement the Charlton commissioners said Wednesday that they met in December with the sheriff and the ordinary and questioned them about the irregularities.

According to the commissioners, Sikes and Conner agreed, through their attorneys, to pay the county a total of $5,548—$2,730 for the cases where no arrests were made and $2,818 for amounts paid on the Peace Officers' Fund. The two officials also agreed to study other alleged irregularities and file a written report with the commission by Jan. 30, 1960, the commissioners said.

The commissioners said that Sikes and Conner have failed to file a written report.

Convicted Slayer Dies on Gallows

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (UPI)—Marvin McKee, 20-year-old convicted murderer, died on the gallows early Tuesday for the killing of a taxi driver last summer. He was the first person to be hanged in Canada since last June and the eighth to pay the death penalty since the conservative government came to power in 1957.

ATLANTA MECHANICS CHECK CONVAIR JET AFTER RECORD FLIGHT
Four-Engine Planes Cruises at Speeds Above 615 Miles Per Hour

Delta Jet Sets Record Across U.S.

An Atlanta pilot, at the controls of Delta Airlines' new Convair 440, set a new transcontinental jet flight record of three hours, 31 minutes, 54 seconds Wednesday.

T. P. Ball, the pilot, called it a routine flight. The new mark becomes official when filed in Washington.

The flight time, clocked by observers of the National Aeronautic Assn., eclipsed a mark of 3:58:55 set January 4 by a Douglas DC-8 on a flight from Los Angeles to Miami, Fla.

Ball's flight was from San Diego, where the plane was delivered to Delta, Tuesday, to Miami. He said the Convair shot up to a 33,000-foot altitude after takeoff and stayed there during the entire 2,538-mile trip. Top ground speed was 750 miles per hour, over Houston, Tex., and the plane averaged 655 miles per hour.

Delta plans to put Convair 440s into operation May 1 and will have all 10 of the planes on hand by midsummer.

Until that time, the plane will be used for training purposes in Atlanta. Delta said the plane had a "provisional license" that was due to become permanent when it goes into passenger service.

Grocery's Hi-Fi Eavesdrops On Burglars, Alerts Owner

WATKINSVILLE—A "hi-fi" burglar alarm broadcast a play-by-play account of two thieves in action here early Wednesday and led to the arrest of two men.

The burglars lost their car to boot.

It happened at Roy Crowley's Grocery Store. Crowley has a microphone concealed in his store. The mike is hooked to a loudspeaker at his bedside.

So when the speaker suddenly blared out the mumbblings and fumbblings of two men during the wee hours of the morning, Crowley knew exactly what was happening. He jumped out of bed and ran to the store. The two burglars fled into the woods, leaving their car behind.

Officers traced the car and arrested Ernest C. Kile, 28, and Patrick Arthur Roberts, 18, in connection with the case.

Foreign Aid Paying Off, Expert Says

OXFORD—The United States buys more with its foreign aid dollars than Russia can because our motives are different, a state department economist said here Wednesday night.

"We are buying good will," Dr. Harold K. Charlesworth said, and buying it cheaper than Russia can.

Dr. Charlesworth was the final speaker at Emory at Oxford's sixth annual World Affairs Institute. In addition to Charlesworth, the following speakers appeared at the all-day meeting, which was devoted to the subject, "The Future of Asia."

N. B. Menon, first secretary of the Indian Embassy; N. Saqub Kahn, private secretary to the ambassador from Pakistan; Dr. Timothy T. Mar, a retired diplomat who represented the position of Nationalist China; Dr. Rollin Chambliss, sociology professor at the University of Georgia, who has just returned from a year of teaching in East Pakistan; and C. William Cardin, administrative assistant to Rep. Edgar Heistand (R-Cal).

Dr. Charlesworth has recently returned from Indonesia, where he was project economist on an International Cooperation Agency (ICA) mission.

Charlesworth said the United States is spending only $4 billion a year on foreign aid, and only a third of it is for non-military uses.

In discussing his recent work in Indonesia, Dr. Charlesworth said that before now there were no physicians trained in Indonesia. Now they are teaching their own, and these, he said, are all U.S.-oriented because the United States has provided the means of training them.

$439,253 Awarded in Land Cases

Two Atlanta firms, whose property was condemned by the City of Atlanta for expressway purposes, have been awarded a total of $439,253 by separate juries which heard the cases in Fulton Superior Court.

In one case, the jury deliberated for about four hours Wednesday before returning a $109,235 award in favor of the Georgia Railroad and Banking Co.

In the second, Whitman's Laundry was awarded a $330,000 settlement which City Attorney Jack Savage described as probably the largest ever made in a condemnation suit involving the city.

The Georgia Railroad case stemmed from condemnation of two parcels of railroad-owned land near Decatur street in the Moore street-Terry street (SE) area. The property was condemned by the city as right-of-way needed in construction of the Memorial drive-Baker street leg of the downtown expressway connector.

TOO FAT?

Boy Tells Of Bossing 3 Bandits

A 17-year-old Negro Wednesday told police he bossed a four-man shotgun robbery ring but did not actually participate in the holdups "because I was too fat and people would know me."

Detectives N. W. Flanagan and R. E. Nickerson said the youth, Joseph William Gaiter of a Kerry Boulevard, NW, address, and two companions, Herman Gilstrap, 17, of a Central Avenue SW, address, and Henry Grady Smith, 18, also of Central Avenue, were held at city jail for suspicion of robbery.

A fourth youth, 16 years old, was wounded by police following the latest holdup early Wednesday in a service station at 10 McDonough Blvd., SE, and was admitted to Grady Hospital.

Negro Patrolmen D. E. Brown and H. H. Hooks said they saw the youth armed with a sawed-off shotgun fleeing the scene of the robbery and ordered him to halt. They said he pointed the shotgun at them and they opened fire. A bullet struck him in the arm.

Detectives said the four had admitted armed robberies at fruit stands on Hemphill avenue, NW, and Lee street, SW, as well as the service station. They said Jacob H. Eberhart, employee of the station, opened fire with a pistol and the group ran without getting any money.

All four have previous arrest records, detectives related. They said Gaiter described planning the robberies but said he did not actually enter the places "because I was too fat and they'd know me if they saw me again."

FRANK GRAHAM ON PROGRAM

Mrs. Roosevelt To Speak At Emory Parley Feb. 26

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Ralph McGill and Dr. Frank Graham will speak at a three-day world affairs conference at Emory University that begins Feb. 25.

The conference, sponsored by the Emory International Relations Club, will be attended by students from similar clubs and the Collegiate Council of the U.N. throughout the Southeast.

The IRC conference will open with a dinner at the assembly room of the Church School Building at 7 p.m. Feb. 25. Dr. Graham, special representative to the United Nations, will speak.

LUNCHEON TALK, TOO
Mrs. Roosevelt, a representative of the Collegiate Council of the U.N., will speak at 3:30 p.m. Feb. 26, at Glenn Memorial Auditorium.

Earlier, she will speak at a luncheon of the United Nations Council of Atlanta at 12:45 p.m. at the Atlanta Athletic Club. This program will formally mark the affiliation of the Atlanta council with the American Association for the United Nations, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is chapter committee chairman.

MCGILL TALK, FEB. 27
Mrs. Roosevelt will be accompanied by Clark Eichelberger, AAUN executive director, and Joseph Sills, CCUN national field secretary.

The Atlanta U.N. Council, headed by Mrs. William Green, is restricting luncheon tickets to members of specified organizations until Feb. 15.

Teen Gang Terrorism Is Foreseen

Abram Warns City To Act Now

Juvenile gangs may turn downtown Atlanta into "another midtown Manhattan," Crime Commission Chairman Morris Abram said Wednesday.

He predicted that the central core of the city will be terrorized by gangs committing rape, murder and robberies within the next 20 years unless the community takes steps now to orient to urban life the 1,000,000 newcomers expected during that time. He estimated 750,000 of the newcomers would come to Atlanta from rural areas, unable to quickly adjust to urban life without help.

MEANS REQUIRED

"It's pretty easy to adjust to urban life if you have education, skill or money," Abram said, "but if you don't eventually you will wind up maladjusted, hating the police, a menace to society." Abram noted that history "shows that every major city in the country with a large population growth, particularly of people not used to city life, has had a juvenile delinquency problem." He said Atlanta doesn't presently have the problem to the same degree as other large cities.

"However," he said, "in some sections in Atlanta it is serious enough to cause alarm."

FORCED EXODUS

Abram said that unless the community plans to control youth gangs, the downtown area during the forthcoming big population growth would become uninhabitable for residential living, forcing citizens to flee farther into the suburbs.

Abram said that formation of a central community council to help "urbanize" newcomers from rural areas, as has recently been suggested by Dr. Philip Welter, chairman of the Fulton County Advisory Council on Illegitimacy and Adoption, might solve the problem.

Abram addressed the Atlanta Exchange Club at the Athletic Club.

No Policy Against Negro Police, Columbus Replies After Challenge

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Negro attorney appeared before the Columbus safety board Wednesday and demanded a statement of board policy on the hiring of qualified Negro applicants for the police force.

Albert Thompson, Columbus' only Negro lawyer, said he understood it was the Police department's policy not to hire Negroes since several Negro officers were dismissed over a year ago in connection with allegedly handling stolen goods.

Thompson said 8 to 10 Negro applicants have come before the board in the past year and none have been hired. He wanted to know if race or color had any bearing on the board's decision. Chairman Billy Brescia said the board considers all applicants, and will hire qualified Negro applicants when there is an opening for them on the force.

Grotewohl Sees Treaty Progress

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany's Premier Otto Grotewohl indicated Wednesday the Reds will do nothing drastic in Berlin as long as there is a prospect of a summit conference yielding to their demands.

Grotewohl told parliament he expects the coming East-West summit meeting to "make progress" toward the conclusion of a German peace treaty and the exclusion of Western defense forces from Berlin—two major goals of Soviet policy.

Georgia Rhodes Scholar Appeals to House to Save Schools

A soft-spoken, 21-year-old Georgia Rhodes Scholar carried the open-schools campaign directly to the House floor Wednesday.

It was the first time during the current session that anyone had spoken in the House on the open-schools side.

The Rhodes scholar is Robert Edge, a University of Georgia English and music major who is the only student of a Southeastern college to win a Rhodes Scholarship this year.

Edge, who lives in Lawrenceville, was introduced by Gwinnett County Rep. Earl Storey.

"Let me make an appeal to you which is personal as well as that of many of the people of Athens and Lawrenceville," the young man declared at the end of his brief talk.

"As our legislators, fight for the preservation of the Georgia way of life as long as possible, but take all measures you can to present the closing of our public schools," Edge asked.

"An interruption in this has consequences unimagined by many. The training of our state must not be suspended. We have confidence that you and the other leaders of our state will not allow our school system to fall into ruin," he concluded.

The House, which has yelled and whistled several segregation-all-the-way speeches applauded the student politely.

Overriding Of Vetoes Is Pushed

House Body Okays Special Session Bill

A bill to ease the process by which the General Assembly can override a veto by the governor Wednesday received a "do-pass" vote from the House Special Judiciary Committee.

Rep. John Sheffield of Brooks County, who is a strong supporter of former Gov. Marvin Griffin, is the author of the measure, which so far has drawn "no-comment" answers from Gov. Vandiver.

Under the Sheffield bill the speaker of the House and the president of the Senate would poll their respective bodies when 50 days have elapsed after each session to see if they want to reconvene to act on a veto. If 51 per cent of the members desire it a special two-day session would be called. A vote of two-thirds of the membership would cancel out the governor's veto.

"The present machinery for overriding a veto is cumbersome," Sheffield said. "It would take a three-fifths vote to get back in session unless there's a state of emergency and the governor calls a session. There's no plan for polling the members. This makes polling them automatic after each session."

FULL-TIME JOB

Mayor's Bill Offered for East Point

A measure which would require East Point's mayor to be a "full time executive officer" was introduced in the House Wednesday by Fulton County legislators.

The bill apparently is aimed at some past officeholders who, according to East Point sources, didn't devote as much time to the job as they should.

The "full time" provision, however, doesn't mean that the mayor can't have any private business, as some critics of the measure have claimed.

DEFINES VETO POWER

It has a proviso that the mayor "may at his discretion devote such reasonable time as he deems necessary to carrying on and maintaining his normal business or profession."

The bill also spells out that the mayor has no voting power in council except in the event of a tie. It also defines his right of veto on all measures except on impeachment proceedings against him.

The bill was among five East Point measures introduced in the House. The others exempt civil defense personnel from the city civil service system, annex property on the city's south border in Land Lot 126 of the 14th District, authorize the city to close Bryan and E. Forrest avenues, let the city's attorneys get pay for representing city governmental agencies and define the city's taxing powers.

OTHER AREA ACTIONS

In other legislative actions affecting Metropolitan Atlanta areas Wednesday:

1. The House passed four Cobb County bills affecting the municipalities of Acworth, Powder Springs, Smyrna and Kennesaw. All except the Smyrna measure affect city limits. The Smyrna bill calls for a referendum on a city manager form of government.

2. Two bills affecting Clayton County municipalities also passed the House. One defines the Forest Park mayor's right of veto. The other sets out voting regulations for Riverdale residents.

3. The Cobb County delegation introduced a bill amending Marietta's city charter to take in some subdivision areas, allowing the mayor and council to define the city's wards and putting the mayor's salary at $8,000 when no city manager is employed by the city.

4. Fulton Sen. Charlie Brown introduced a bill in the Senate to require that plaintiffs in Superior Court here must be prepared by registered engineers or surveyors.

5. Sen. Brown declared that he will call for a public hearing on a bill to allow placarding of slum property in Atlanta before he allows it to pass the Senate. Brown said he has received many requests for a hearing on the bill, which was introduced in the House Tuesday.

6. A bill to expand the Fulton-Dekalb Metropolitan Planning Commission to cover Clayton, Cobb and Gwinnett counties was introduced in the House with the signatures of all legislators from the counties involved excepting Gwinnett.

Gwinnett Reps. Earl Storey and Handzel Morgan are waiting for approval of the bill from their county commissioners.

NO INDICATION
But if the President received any assurance that America would one day bridge the gap between United States and Soviet missile development or space-exploring super-booster engines there was no indication of it either in his questions or in his departure statement.

No launchings were attempted during his visit, but a Polaris missile which he inspected was fired Wednesday night, some seven hours after his departure.

Court Bars Union City Chief's Pay

Houston is not to collect any pay from Union City "except such as may be lawfully due him."

The court action, aimed at determining whether the Union City council or mayor has authority to hire and fire policemen, was brought by Councilmen Shannon Davis, J. N. Hose and W. E. Donaldson.

STORMY SESSIONS
Harold Dyche, the other council member, has generally sided with the pro-Houston forces at the stormy council sessions that have seen capacity crowds pack the town's tiny city hall and engage in public debate over their top lawman.

The interim order Wednesday apparently took note of the tendency for Union City council meetings to erupt into free-wheeling arguments on all sides.

Mayor Thornton and Houston were enjoined by the interim order "from interfering in any manner whatsoever with the orderly and peaceful transaction" of city council business "by instigating or promoting disturbances and commotions."

It was added that "nothing in this order shall be construed as depriving any citizen of the right of his presence or his freedom of speech at such meetings."

HITS "INTERFERENCE"
But, the order stipulated, no one "shall interfere" with the "orderly and peaceful conduct" of council business by "unwarranted commotion or disturbance."

In the petition itself, which will be heard March 15, the three councilmen noted that Houston was fired by council Jan. 5. That action was vetoed immediately by the mayor, who rehired Houston because of an "emergency" situation. (The town had no lawman.)

The council on Feb. 2 overrode the mayor's veto and again fired Houston. The council then hired James B. Bryant of Newnan as police chief, the petition said, but the mayor "refused to administer the oath" to the new man and retained Houston.

COUNCIL'S POWERS
Citing sections of the 1908 General Assembly act setting up Union City, the petition contended such hiring-and-firing powers are "vested exclusively in the city council."

Despite the council action, the petition said, Houston continues to act as police chief and, with the "tacit approval" of Mayor Thornton, "instigated and created a disturbance" that disrupted last Friday's special council session.

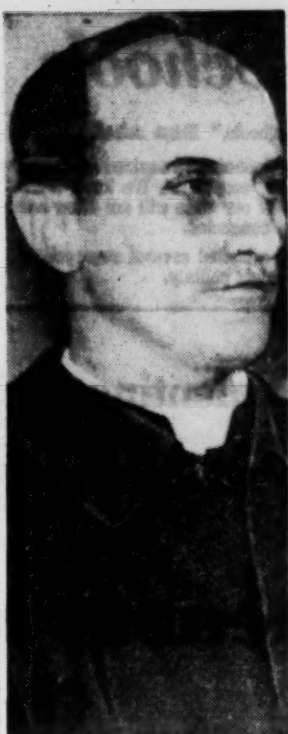

Union City is in a "dangerous and anomalous position created by the continued assumption of authority" by Houston, the petition said, and citizens are left "endangered as to their lives and property" by the situation.

Johore Crowns 1st New Sultan In 65 Years

JOHORE BARU, Malaya (UPI) —The 65-year-old Sultan of Johore, who has spent most of his life in the shadow of his illustrious late father, was officially crowned Wednesday in a ceremony of Malay pomp and splendor.

Jet bombers roared overhead and a 21-gun salute boomed as celebrations began all over Johore State.

The new Sultan of Johore is a member of the royal family that dates back to 1133 A.D. He succeeds his colorful father, Sir Ibrahim, who became head of state in 1895 and remained in office until his death last year.

between the prelate and Yugoslav President Tito whose regime sentenced him to 16 years in prison in 1946 on charges of collaborating with the Nazis—charges he vigorously denied.

Tito ordered him freed in 1951 but only on condition the cardinal live quietly in the Croatian village of Krasic, his home. He had been archbishop of Zagreb, near Krasic, since he was 36 years old.

Cardinal Stepinac's death left Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński and Josef Cardinal Mindszenty as the only two Catholic cardinals still in Communist countries. Cardinal Wyszyński still exercises his functions as primate of Poland, but Cardinal Mindszenty has been in asylum in the U.S. legation in Budapest since the Hungarian uprising of 1956.

Cardinal Stepinac had been ill on and off since he was in prison.

Newspapers earlier this week reported Cardinal Stepinac's condition was "giving cause for grave concern." Then Wednesday morning the doctor said the prelate appeared to be rallying and might be up and about by the end of the week.

Why Salt Mines?
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 300 million years ago, says the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, a vast inland sea extended from what is now Lake Erie south across Ohio to West Virginia. It deposited salt up to 300 feet thick in some places and this is now the basic ingredient for about 14,000 manufacturing and industrial processes.

Mystery Satellite Circling the Earth

United States like the long predicted "big brother in the sky."

Until Wednesday the discovery had been regarded as so secret that the Navy did not tell the House Space Committee about the development when describing its space surveillance system before a closed committee meeting early this week.

NO RADIO SIGNALS

Identification of the satellite has proven difficult because it is not transmitting, like all other satellites to date, any radio signals. Nor was there any indication from the U.S. intelligence network of any launching attempt in the Soviet Union that would explain the presence of the satellite.

Through the memory unit of the space surveillance system, which keeps track of the course of all satellites in orbit, it was possible to establish that the satellite was not one already launched by the United States or known to have been launched by the Soviet Union.

Discussion turned to the possibility that the "dark satellite" might in fact be the final stage of the Lunik III launching rocket fired by the Soviet Union last Oct. 4. Several bits of evidence seemed to support this now generally accepted possibility.

BELIEF SUPPORTED

In the first place, the final stage rocket would have gone into orbit, just like the Lunik III payload, in a highly elliptical path that would take it out beyond the distance of the moon and then close in to earth. Under the drag of the earth's upper atmosphere and the gravitational tugging of the moon, the orbit would be changed so that the rocket and payload would come ever closer to earth in their orbits.

The Soviet Union has announced that the payload finally would come so close to earth in its orbit that it would burn up in the earth's atmosphere in April. Presumably the final stage rocket is following much the same course.

Furthermore, in the orbit around the earth the Lunik III payload is following a near polar path taking it over the North and South Poles. This supported the belief that the unidentified object was the final rocket stage following the same orbit.

"SEEING EYE" REALIZED?

The size of the object, nearly as big as the upper stage on the Discoverer rockets, also seemed to support the view that it was the final stage of the Soviet moon launching rocket. The upper stage of the Discoverer launching rocket is 19.2 feet long and 5 feet in diameter.

The discovery was a prelude to a day which military and civilian space officials and space lawyers have been predicting would inevitably arise, when nations would launch silent "seeing eye" satellites into orbit to observe the movements of potential enemies.

The United States has under development two such satellites—one known as Samos, which will use photographic devices to survey enemy dispositions, and the other known as Midas, an early warning satellite, which will detect missile launchings by infrared techniques.

The advent of "silent satellites" poses difficult and delicate military, diplomatic and legal questions.

From a diplomatic standpoint, there is concern that space will be appropriated for military purposes before international agreement can be reached to reserve space for peaceful exploration. From a legal standpoint, there are unresolved questions of the rights of any nation to utilize space for its own militaristic purposes.

From a military standpoint, there is a need for a system to detect such "silent" satellites, to establish their purpose and identity and to make sure that they are not confused with an incoming ballistic missile, thus accidentally triggering off a nuclear war.

36-Mile Gale Pounds at Atlanta As Rains, Hail Slam Into Georgia storm which struck the city between 2:45 and 3:30 p.m.

Rainfall was "spotty and variable" across the state, according to Dave Miller of the U.S. Weather Bureau in Atlanta.

Atlanta recorded .78 inches of rain during the day. Preston, a south Georgia town in Webster County, recorded 3.76 inches of rain in two hours during the height of the storm there Wednesday, Miller said. Nearby Americus had 1.03 inches of rain during the same period.

Stormy weather was general throughout the southeast Wednesday as a squall line of high winds and thunderstorms, accompanied by hail and rain, passed through Alabama into Georgia and onward into the western Carolinas.

The weatherman says the turbulent weather which rocked Atlanta and north Georgia Wednesday will give way to fair skies, lower temperatures, and blustery winds Thursday.

Extremes of 38 and 50 are predicted along with winds expected to hit gusts up to 40 miles per hour. Friday's forecast calls for more fair skies, diminishing winds, and colder weather. Extremes of 22 and 34 are expected.

Wednesday's extremes in Atlanta were 38 and 56.

2 Mental Bills Are Endorsed create mental health committees have been in the House Rules Committee since being introduced the first day of the session.

Dr. John H. Venable, health department director, and Peyton Hawes, member of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Mental Institutions, conferred with Venable Wednesday and requested him to have the interim committee bill reported out.

Dr. Venable said the governor agreed to support the interim committee bill with amendments reducing the size of the proposed committee and restricting its period of work.

The governor opposes the permanent committee bill and it probably will die in the Rules Committee.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This can really be one of the strangest of days and you would be wise to study carefully and doublecheck whatever arises. Keep poised.

Aries (March 21 to April 19): Morning brings many temptations to buy things. Economize. P.M. Utilize all that excessive energy for fun that will be very profitable in time. Taurus (April 20 to May 20): Simply ignore that associate who is acting in such an unusual fashion. Gemini (May 21 to June 21): If you are less than perfect with your work this a.m., there may be rather serious results.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21): Since you cannot decide just how to amuse yourself this morning, do not take any chances of spending unwisely on something worthless. Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be off to the constructive endeavors that bring rich rewards. P.M. Bring home goodies. Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): A private worry could curtail your activities seriously in a.m. Work relaxed.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Be loyal to far-seeing associate who wants to help you instead of going along with fast operator who wants to capitalize on your ignorance of facts and methods. Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Act in such a way today that you do not lose prestige. Be wide awake to new and improved methods. Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Get into the world of outside activity and meet people, study current trends. Find the ideal new outlet for your talents.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be certain you comprehend the valuable advice being given you by an expert. Avoid that individual with inflated ego. P.M. Read the great philosophers and increase own wisdom. Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be neutral where some situation needs adjustment between an associate and a higher-up. Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20): Persons in different financial brackets to yours will be helpful.

Christ Had Riches in Poverty

QUESTION: I find it hard in these days of the high cost of living to keep up with the Joneses. We haven't had a new car in three years, and I haven't had a raise in four years. You say we are to "be content." But how can we be? —D. P.

ANSWER: There are two ways of being rich — have a lot, or want very little. The latter way is the easiest for most of us. Many people make themselves miserable by wanting more than they can ever have. They suffer from "thingsitis," the insatiable desire for more, better and newer things.

Jesus was the most satisfied man who ever lived, and he had less. "The foxes had their holes and the birds their nests, but the Son of man had no place to lay his head." He had learned the secret of adjusting his wants to his needs.

E. Stanley Jones tells about a poor man who had an overnight guest and as he showed him to his humble bedroom in the hay loft he said, "If there is anything you want, let us know, and we'll come and show you how to get along without it." We don't need to learn how to get more but how to get along with what we've got and get on with the business of really living.

Judge Has a Heart, Immigrant Learns

That Sinus May Be Just a Stuffy Nose

MEMPHIS (AP)—Most persons who think they have sinus miseries actually don't, an Atlanta specialist says.

"More than likely, it's an allergy or just a simple case of a stuffy nose," Dr. Lester Brown told the mid-South postgraduate medical assembly. "That's true in the majority of 'sinus' cases — particularly in this region."

Vertigo, or dizziness, is another affliction which many persons frequently complain about and often do not have, he said.

DIZZINESS COMMON

Dizzy spells are commonly caused by tension or nervousness, Brown said, adding that only 10 per cent of the patients who consult doctors about dizziness have anything seriously wrong with them.

Dr. Brown is an associate professor at the Emory University School of Medicine.

More than 100 "new" viruses that plague mankind have been uncovered by scientists in the last decade and each of the newly discovered viruses causes a different kind of disease, "and some cause more than one," said Dr. Horace L. Hodes, pediatrician-in-chief at New York City's Mt. Sinai Hospital.

MOST NOT POTENT

"The biggest problem facing medical science in controlling these viruses is that the diseases caused by them are not curable by antibiotics," he said.

Fortunately for the public, Dr. Hodes added, most of them are not potent, causing definite sickness but rarely death.

Dr. Alan J. Johnson, assistant professor of medicine at New York University's College of Medicine, told delegates that he and two other physicians are making much headway in an experimental study on the destruction of blood clots.

"With the use of streptokinase, we are trying to perfect a method which will not only destroy blood clots in humans but will prevent the clot from reforming," Dr. Johnson said.

It's Birthday Of Gray V-P Stephens

Thursday is the birthday of Alexander Stephens, Georgia-born vice president of the Confederacy.

"Little Alec," as he was known to his contemporaries, was born on Feb. 11, 1812, entered public life as a Georgia legislator in 1836, and died in the office of governor of Georgia—his whole life spent fighting for the ideals he believed in.

He entered Congress in 1843, later became a friend of Lincoln's and fought for the salvation of the Union—"with honor." He argued against Georgia's secession, but, when his state left the Union, he joined its cause wholeheartedly.

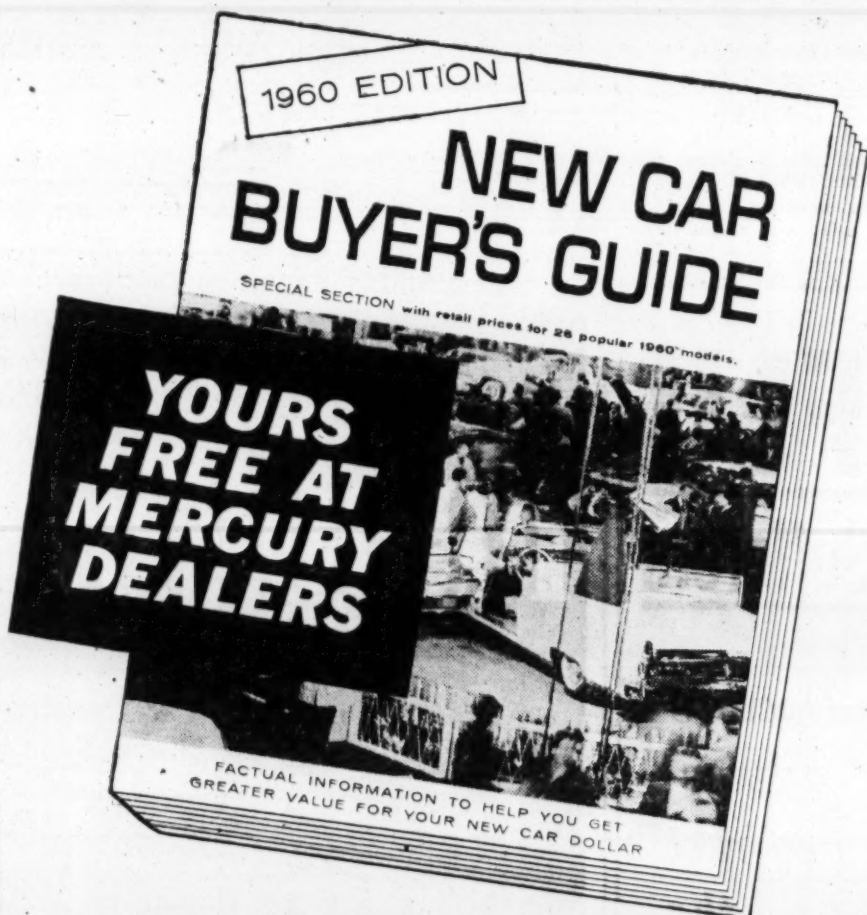

He was a delegate to the first convention in Montgomery from which sprang the Confederacy, and there was elected its vice president.

He was one of three Confederate peace commissioners in 1865 who met with Lincoln and Seward and tried to find some way for an "honorable" conclusion to the war. This failing, he left Richmond for his home in Crawfordville, Taliaferro County. He was imprisoned at the war's end, but was soon paroled home.

In 1866 he was elected senator, but was refused his seat. He was elected to Congress in 1872 and spent a decade in the House.

He resigned in 1872, but could not stand inaction. Inaugurated governor of Georgia in 1883, he took office in a wheel chair, but died after a few months in office.

Bill Allows Church Use For Schools

Would Pave Way For Private Classes

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Georgia churches could pull out of their parent church organizations — and possibly use their buildings for private schools in the integration crisis—under a bill introduced in the House Wednesday.

Worth County Rep. David C. Jones said his bill has two purposes:

1. To protect local churches from possible integration orders by national church-governing bodies, and

WEEKDAY USE

2. To let local churches use their church buildings during week days to operate private schools when and if Georgia's schools are closed.

Jones said the bill would be replaced later by a more detailed measure.

Basically what the present measure provides is that a local church could petition a county superior court to let it withdraw from the national church organization on grounds that the national body had adopted policies "contrary to its social beliefs."

WOULD STOP DISCORD

The superior court petition would also allege that for the local church to maintain its ties with the national body would be against its beliefs and "that such withdrawal will prevent discord and strife."

Jones said he had been requested by the lay organization of the Methodist First Methodist Church and its board of stewards to introduce the measure.

He explained that his community is especially interested in having the church building available for private school purposes in case Georgia's schools are closed.

But he added that there have been some indications that the Methodist Church governing body might prevent its church buildings—titles to which are in the parent body—from being used for private schools.

"We just want to get things in order so that if they do attempt to step on us, we can pull out," Jones explained.

A similar bill has already been passed in Alabama, he said.

"If we do have to operate private schools, we would want to put one in operation as quickly as possible. I hate to say it, but our church body is in the way."

Jones said his community is ready to get a private school set up within 20 days and educate children who are both financially able or unable to pay for private schooling.

Bill Bars Sitdowns at Restaurants

Rep. Francis W. Allen of Bulloch County Wednesday introduced a bill in the House apparently aimed at preventing the type of anti-segregation lunch counter demonstrations that have been occurring in North Carolina.

Allen refused to say specifically that it is a segregation measure.

But the effect of the bill would be to make it a misdemeanor for persons to fail to leave the premises of certain establishments when asked to do so by proprietors.

Allen did say his bill would "eliminate such incidents as we are seeing in North Carolina." He said it would provide business people with machinery for keeping their establishments open "in the face of attempted sitdown strikes by customers" and that it is aimed at "undesirable patrons of service and mercantile establishments."

Lunch counters in Charlotte and other North Carolina cities have been closed as a result of Negroes' attempting to be served in "all-white" sections.

Gov. Vandiver declined to comment on the bill at his news conference Wednesday, pointing out he hadn't read it and wasn't familiar with its provisions.

Another new bill offered the House Wednesday would permit a defendant's past criminal record to be put before the court once a guilty verdict had been returned.

The information about the defendant's background would be available to the trial judge for determining the severity of the sentence. Both prosecutor and defense attorney would be permitted to present evidence on the past criminal record, once the guilty verdict was in.

Reps. Arthur Bolton and Quincy Melton of Spalding County sponsored the bill.

REPRESENTATIVES VOICE VIEWS ON NEWSPAPER VENUE LIBEL BILL

By BRUCE GALPIN

A bill opening newspapers to prosecution for libel in any county in which they circulate was defeated by the Georgia House Wednesday.

Frankly aimed by its authors at the Atlanta dailies, the bill was voted down 76 for, 59 against—27 votes short of the required majority.

Rep. Wimbric Walker, son of Telfair County sheriff and political leader John B. Walker, urged passage of the bill to impress newspapers with their "responsibilities."

RAPS CARTOONS

"You know what I'm talking about," Walker told the members. He asserted that most law-makers at one time or another had felt "the whip of misguided editorials."

He said recent editorial cartoons had made lawmakers appear like "a bandit... a goon... for sin and against 4-H Clubs."

Walker said his father, who was paralyzed last year by gunshot during the performance of his duties, had been "victimized" by the Atlanta press.

CALLED SUSPICIOUS

"Four months later," he said, "... the Atlanta newspapers shot down my father again."

He referred to an article in the Sunday Journal-Constitution describing the shooting, its consequences and the Walkers' political careers.)

"The Atlanta newspapers are suspicious of any elected official in Georgia who has served several terms," Walker continued.

Under present law, he noted, the Atlanta papers can be sued for libel only in Fulton County. He said Atlantans had been so "brainwashed" by the newspapers that they are not likely to render fair verdicts.

RESIGNED JOBS

"If you vote against this bill you are, in effect, saying the people of Fulton County are better qualified to decide these cases than the people in your home county," he concluded.

(Wimbric Walker and his brother Jack M. Walker both resigned their jobs with the state in 1956 after newspapers reported they represented the Walker Concrete Pipe Co. in sales to the state.)

CHARGES BIG LIE

He complained at length about the Atlanta papers' reporting of the Legislature's voting last year to continue a $10-a-day raise enacted the year before.

By calling it a raise, Floyd asserted, the paper was practicing "the big lie."

He described Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., as "an organization designed to tear down the county unit system and integrate the state."

Rep. Charles Gowen of Glynn, who identified himself immediately as the father-in-law of Journal editor Jack Spalding, said he did not think the Atlanta Newspapers were the real issue.

"The thing we must have in this country is a free press,"

Gowen declared. "You can't tie the newspapers and have a good government."

He added, however, that "I think the Atlanta newspapers have done a good job recently exposing some things that have been going on."

SEES INTIMIDATION

Gowen said the bill was "an effort to intimidate the press."

Rep. W. C. Parker of Appling pleaded with members not "to crucify and jeopardize the papers back home because some times we don't agree with the Atlanta newspapers."

Referring to an Atlanta Constitution expose of paying contract irregularities in his home town of Baxley, Parker declared: "I hate to say it, but they exposed the true facts about my home town."

PLANS RECONSIDERATION

"Let's let our people back home know what's going on," Parker concluded.

After the bill's defeat, Floyd served notice he will ask for reconsideration.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a House bill clarifying the method of retracting newspaper libels. The bill provides for retraction in the next regular issue.

OTHER ACTIONS

In other actions Wednesday, the House:

1. Refused to go along with a conference committee report on the insurance code revision. It voted 121-10 against the compromise because it contained a provision that insurance companies could file fraud claims against recipients of medical benefits after a two-year lapse.

2. Passed a bill requiring all cigar and cigarette vending machines to be licensed.

3. Raised the salary of Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford from $14,000 to $16,000.

Senate Approves Drive On False Driver Permits

By GENE BRITTON

The Senate Wednesday passed a bill to crack down on the counterfeiting of Georgia drivers' licenses.

Already approved by the House, the measure also would make it a misdemeanor for one person to impersonate another in order to pass required examinations and obtain a license for the other person.

Sen. Carl Sanders of Augusta, who presented the bill in behalf of the Georgia Department of Public Safety, said there are "some people walking around with two or three drivers' licenses in their pockets."

Sanders told the Senate some counterfeiters have been able to duplicate official licenses so that they "look just as real as the real ones."

Another Department of Public Safety bill won unanimous Senate approval and was transmitted to the House Wednesday. It clarifies existing law by providing for a $10 fine for a first traffic offense as a minimum and providing that judges may increase the amount at their discretion.

The upper house worked briskly through a long calendar Wednesday, giving its approval to all but one of the bills before it.

A proposal to give the State Highway department authority to grant exceptions to weight, height and length restrictions for vehicles using the state's highways was defeated, 19-18.

Sen. John Green of Lakeland, who offered the bill, said he will ask for reconsideration Thursday.

A minor squabble developed over a bill to repeal a law which makes it a misdemeanor to furnish cigarettes to minors. The repeal proposal won, 29-2, and now goes to Gov. Vandiver. It knocks from the law books an act which forbids the furnishing of cigarettes and other smoking materials to persons under 21.

STORES BURGLARIZED

Sen. Charlie Brown of Atlanta, chief advocate of the bill in the Senate, said it grew out of a study of state juvenile training schools by a House committee, which found that some of the inmates at the Training School for Girls at Adamsville had broken out and burglarized stores in order to obtain tobacco. He said the committee felt the superintendent should be permitted to furnish cigarettes to the inmates under certain conditions.

Sen. Clarence Vaughn of Conway voiced doubts that the repeal bill was justified "when some get the habit so bad they have to break out of prison to get them (cigarettes)."

Sen. Euland Clary of Thomson spoke for the bill, charging the present law is "absurd." Referring to the school children who serve as pages and run-errands for the senators, he said, "We're making criminals out of these little innocent children when we send them out for cigarettes for us."

Only Sens. Vaughn and Charles Smith of St. Marys voted against the bill.

MAY SEEK HEARING

Meanwhile, a possibility of a public hearing over a resolution to add Agriculture Commissioner Phil Campbell to the State Board of Regents arose Wednesday.

Lt. Gov. Garland Byrd said he understands Robert O. Arnold, chairman of the governing body of the State University System, may ask for a hearing. Arnold previously expressed to newsmen his opposition to the measure. If the regents' chairman does not ask for the hearing before then, the Senate Rules Committee is expected to act on the House-approved resolution Thursday.

In other action on the Senate floor Wednesday, the upper house accepted the report of a Senate-House conference committee for the settlement of the controversial tobacco tagging bill. Across the capitol, the House of Representatives also put its approval on the report, clearing the measure for Gov. Vandiver's signature.

It provides that out-of-state tobacco sold in Georgia warehouses must be marked with blue tickets and Georgia-grown leaf will be labeled with white ones.

HIGHER COMPENSATION

The Senate also passed another bill to provide higher compensation for state officials. It approved a measure authorizing $40 per diem for members of the State Ports Authority, plus actual expenses during meetings of the authority.

It approved a House bill making it a misdemeanor to refuse to relinquish party lines for emergency telephone calls. The bill also makes it a misdemeanor for a caller to break into a party line call and falsely claim to have an emergency call.

The Senate also approved a House bill outlawing the use of Georgia and Confederate flags for commercial purposes after Jan. 1, next year.

Dilworth said after the conference.

"We are just going to drop our Board of Education bill. He (Vandiver) said he'd veto it if I went ahead and put it in," Dilworth explained. "So rather than have hard feelings about it, I'll just drop it."

Dilworth quoted the governor as saying he would "take full responsibility" for killing the Board of Education measure.

"He said that he felt it would be bad to mix schools and politics," Dilworth quoted the governor as saying.

CIRCULATES PETITION

The freshman legislator sought by his measure to let Franklin Countians decide if they want to do away with the present system of having county grand juries appoint school board members.

The conflict arose when Dilworth said he found that the bills were being held in the Local Affairs Committee. Since he is the only legislator from Franklin and he authored the bills, Dilworth—under local courtesy rules—felt his bills should be allowed to pass.

He began circulating a petition among House members asking that Speaker George Smith II order his bills out of the committee by granting him the same local courtesy privileges as are granted to other House members.

WINS BACKING

Dilworth said he had 75 signatures on the petition when Rep. Joe Underwood of Montgomery County, committee chairman, told him that the advisory board bill would be favorably reported out by the committee.

Dilworth said he wanted the bill reported out Wednesday

No wonder St. Joseph Aspirin is the world's largest seller at 12¢. (And you save even more on the big 100 and 200 tablet bottles!)

When you have a headache, cold, fever or muscle pain, you want relief—fast. St. Joseph Aspirin is ready to go to work faster to ease your pain and distress—faster than all three other leading pain relief tablets!

The photograph above dramatically illustrates St. Joseph Aspirin's remarkable speed... backed up by documented findings of one of the country's leading independent testing laboratories.

These facts plainly show why St. Joseph Aspirin is the choice of more and more millions for pain relief. Costly buffering does nothing extra for you, in most cases. Published data prove expensive "prescription-type" compounds may be less effective for headache than pure St. Joseph Aspirin. And there's no reason to buy a costlier aspirin. Because St. Joseph is the world's best aspirin—fast—safe—effective—and scientifically proved to be as free of upsetting acid influence on the stomach as plain water itself!

So get the best for less. Get St. Joseph Aspirin today. Someone in your family may need it tonight.

Convict Bill Is Blasted By Fulton

Annual Cost Put At $200,000

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Fulton representatives Wednesday vigorously assailed a bill to require counties to care for their own misdemeanor prisoners—a measure they estimated would cost Fulton County at least $200,000 a year.

The bill, passed in the Senate over the opposition of Sen. Charlie Brown of Atlanta and Sen. Douglas Carlisle of Macon, is in a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

COUNTIES OPPOSED

Rep. Robert Scoggins of Floyd County, chairman of the subcommittee, said he expected to meet with the other two members, Rep. Wilson Brooks of Fulton and Rep. Daniel H. White of McIntosh, some time Thursday to consider the bill.

"We're going to act on it one way or the other before the general committee meeting next Monday," Scoggins said.

Meanwhile, James W. Keyton, president of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia, announced that his organization is opposed to the bill "as it will work a hardship on every county in Georgia."

'NO PLACE FOR THEM'

Fulton Commissioner Jim Aldredge said the Fulton County board strongly opposes the bill because at least a third of an annual flow of 6,000 prisoners to state institutions comes from Fulton.

"We are set up to take care of about 350 prisoners at our three work camps," Aldredge said. "Many of the others that we have been turning over to the state are unable to work or require specialized treatment for some illness like dope addiction. We simply don't have a place for them and we feel that it would be a tremendous burden for the county to take on."

Aldredge said Fulton County pays "the lion's share" of state revenues and he feels that misdemeanor violators sentenced by Fulton courts are "citizens of the state as well as the county."

CITES FITNESS

Bill Fights Age Factor In Hiring

Moving to the aid of great numbers of would-be workers who, he said, are being discriminated against because of age, Rep. George Bagby introduced a bill in the Georgia House Wednesday to make it "unlawful and against the public policy" to hire and fire people on the basis of age rather than job fitness.

The bill has the support of organized labor, Bagby said. It provides that employers may not set up "any rule or policy" for discharging employees or rejecting applicants upon any age limit "more than 21 years or less than 65 years."

"The elements for employment shall not be determined by age but by mental and physical fitness and by the experience and trustworthiness of the employee or applicant," the bill states.

Bagby said he realizes a weakness of the measure is the lack of a provision for punishing violators. But, he added, "I feel this should be a matter of public policy—one on which the legislature should express itself."

Club Opposes Christ Statue

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—The Gatlinburg Garden Club is opposing the proposed erection of a 100-foot statue of Christ here.

The club has written Mayor W. L. Mills that the huge statue would be unattractive to nature-loving tourists who visit the Great Smoky Mountains.

Ronald Ligon of Nashville has purchased a site near here for a proposed biblical garden. He said the garden would feature "the tallest statue of Christ in the world."

Little Rock Puts All Detectives In Bomb Hunt

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—All Little Rock police detectives were assigned Wednesday to an investigation of a fresh outburst of integration-tinged bomb violence here.

The 24 detectives were augmented by FBI agents as they tried to find out who threw a bomb Tuesday night at the home of Carlotta Walls, 16, a Negro student at mostly white Central High School.

No one was hurt and damage to the six-room house was light. Spokesmen wouldn't say what luck the investigators were having.

NUMBER QUIZZED

Their only comment was that a number of persons had been questioned but none had been arrested.

The girl attended classes as usual Wednesday.

She confided to friends that she was nervous, but there was nothing to indicate she was considering a transfer from Central.

Four other Negro pupils at Central and three who attended Hall High School also went to classes.

'SENSELESS ACT'

Civic leaders deplored the bombing.

One of them, W. F. Rector, president of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, called it "a senseless act which is already being blown up all out of proportion by the press over the entire nation."

Amis Guthridge, an attorney and segregationist spokesman, said he was "certainly surprised because it's been so calm and quiet."

Gov. Faubus, who kept the high schools closed during the 1958-59 term to avoid integration, was not available for comment.

At Washington, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), called it "a very terrible thing."

Fulbright added: "I'm very surprised and very disturbed. I thought that spirit had been eliminated as a result of the conviction of the four bombers in the other case."

He referred to three dynamite bombs which caused extensive damage but no injuries here last Labor Day.

Since then the city has been outwardly peaceable.

2 Sisters Die Miles Apart --- But at the Same Instant

HONESDALE, Pa. (UPI)—The Schoonover girls were born what seems a long, long time ago in the Lake Como area north of here.

Charlotte was born 80 years ago—her sister Rachel a year later.

They grew up tied closely by sisterly relations—even after they married and Charlotte became Mrs. Ellison and Rachel became Mrs. Sterner. They spent their summers together with their

Soviet Boss In India to See Nehru

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev starts talks Thursday with Prime Minister Nehru at a critical point in India's border dispute with Communist China.

Many Indians are looking to Khrushchev for a solution to the deadlocked dispute that has prompted people in this neutralist nation to question the peaceful professions of Peiping.

Nehru has done nothing to encourage such a feeling. And some newspapers have warned against it.

BIG WELCOME

Large crowds were expected to welcome Khrushchev at the beginning of his five-day visit en route to Indonesia, Burma and Afghanistan.

He was scheduled to arrive early Thursday.

Some want to see the man they hope can bring peace on India's northern borders. Others want another look at a colorful visitor who made a flamboyant tour of India in 1955 with Nikolai Bulganin, since ousted as premier.

DAUGHTERS ALONG

Khrushchev took off from Moscow in a Soviet turboprop airliner accompanied by daughters Julia and Rada and a large delegation of officials. He stopped over for the day at Tashkent, capital of Soviet Uzbekistan.

Costly Maneuvers

NURENBERG, West Germany (UPI)—Last week's Wintershield maneuvers caused at least $1,200,000 in damages, German defense officials said Wednesday. More than 60,000 German and American troops took part in the exercises.

104 Go to Prison For Plot on Castro

By R. HART PHILLIPS

(Copyright 1960 by the New York Times Co.)

HAVANA—A military court in La Cabana fortress across the bay from Havana late Wednesday imposed prison sentences of from 3 to 30 years on 104 persons convicted of conspiracy against the Castro regime. Thirty-six of those on trial were acquitted.

This is the largest mass trial so far heard by the Castro government.

The sentences also ordered confiscation of all property of those convicted, a number of whom are wealthy and members of prominent families of the island. This is in accordance with legislation approved several weeks ago by the Cuban revolutionary government.

SEIZED IN AUGUST

All these prisoners were arrested last August when the so-called "Trujillo Conspiracy" was frustrated by the Castro regime.

The maximum sentence of 30 years was given to nine who arrived on the plane from the Dominican Republic that was lured into Trinidad in Las Villas Province and captured in August.

In the gun battle that occurred when those on the plane realized they had been tricked two occupants of the plane and two Castro followers were killed.

Among this group were Luis Pozo, son of the former mayor of Havana, Roberto Martin Perez, son of the former Col. Martin Perez of the national police of the Batista regime, Lieut. Col. Jose Antonio Soto of the Batista army and five others who had fled into exile when the Batista regime fell on Jan. 1, 1959. Also captured at that time was a Spanish mercenary soldier, Alfredo Mamban, who received a 30-year sentence.

KEY FIGURE

Among those given nine years was Dr. Arturo Hernandez Telache, who was scheduled to be the president of the new government when Premier Castro was overthrown, according to the evidence. Also in this group was Dr. Armando Caines Milanes, former president of the Cuban Cattle-men's Assn. and formerly a wealthy landowner. Enrique Ovaras Herrera, a former president of the Havana University Student Federation, was among the group

Argentina's Newest Arms Rushed In to Hunt Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The Argentine navy hurried new anti-submarine warfare equipment to the Golfo Nuevo area Wednesday to intensify the search for a mystery submarine believed trapped in the Patagonian inlet.

The frigate La Republica, especially equipped for anti-submarine warfare but normally used only for training, was summoned from Mar Del Plata. It was manned chiefly by volunteers as half the crew was on shore leave.

The ship carried a supply of sonar buoys and special underwater listening devices and a special cargo of some 50 depth charges.

Press dispatches from Puerto Madryn, near Golfo Nuevo, reported the unexpected arrival there of Vice Adm. Alberto P. Vago, Argentine naval operations chief.

Naval sources at Puerto Madryn said they expected the submarine mystery to be clarified by the weekend. If it is trapped, as indicated, they said, it must inevitably be forced to the surface in 72 hours.

Dr. Finch Re-enacts Slugging of Wife

By JACK V. FOX

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Prosecutor Fred N. Whichello sat on the courtroom floor Wednesday and had Dr. R. Bernard Finch demonstrate with a revolver how he struck his wife and fractured her skull.

The 42-year-old murder defendant was still standing up well under Whichello's cross-examination which late Wednesday reached the scene in the Finch garage just before Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch was killed last July 18.

Finch displayed an earnest and enthusiastic cooperation, and the fatherly, bald Whichello instructed him to be gentle as they re-enacted the scene once more before a fascinated jury.

"JUST WENT BANG"

"I just went 'bang,'" Finch said. Whichello pointed out that the doctor had finally wrested the gun from his wife after a wild struggle.

"Why didn't you turn and run? Why didn't you throw it out the garage door?"

Finch said he didn't throw it because he was afraid Barbara would go after it again.

He said he didn't run but instead struck her because he heard maid Marie Ann Lindholm running toward the garage from the house.

DIDN'T WANT GUNPLAY

"I was getting Barbara out of the fight so I wouldn't have two people fighting me at the same time," Finch said.

Finch said he feared the maid was coming with a rifle he had showed her how to use. He said if the maid saw him standing over his wife with a gun, she would shoot him. He said he dropped the gun on the floor so Marie Ann would not see him holding it.

"I didn't want any gunplay."

The doctor said he lunged at the girl just as she came in the garage door. She had no gun. Her head hit the wall so hard it knocked in a dent.

DOESN'T REMEMBER

Whichello asked Finch why he had to virtually tackle the girl when she could have been carrying only a "long and clumsy" rifle. The doctor said, in effect, he didn't want to take that chance.

The prosecutor pointed out that if Finch had lunged against her just as she entered, her side would have hit the wall, not the back of her head.

Finch said she must have had time to turn slightly. He said he didn't remember—as Marie Ann testified—taking her head and beating it against the wall.

Whichello asked the doctor if he was angry as he and his wife fought the gun?

"SCARED TO DEATH"

"No, I wasn't angry. I was scared to death."

The trial recessed until Thursday morning with Whichello still to cross-examine the doctor on just how he fatally shot his wife and their brief conversation on the lawn just before her death.

Finch had testified at the morn-

Everlys Sign $1 Million Deal With Warners

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The singing Everly Brothers have signed a 10-year record contract with Warner Brothers that carries a minimum guarantee of nearly $1 million, a spokesman said here Wednesday.

Lester Rose of the Acuff-Rose Music Publications said the brothers, Don, 23, and Phil, 21, signed the contract in New York Wednesday. Rose is the brother of Wesley Rose, personal manager for the Everlys.

Eggs Spray Negroes In Cafe Flareup

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—An egg-throwing incident created a moment of tension Wednesday in the otherwise peaceful demonstrations here by Negro students against segregated lunch counter service.

Raleigh, the North Carolina capital, became the sixth Tar Heel city in which the demonstration mostly by college students, have been staged.

The egg-throwing incident occurred in the F. W. Woolworth Co.'s downtown store, where young Negroes stood lined up at a lunch counter which had been closed in the face of their demands for service.

The eggs hit the counter and splashed on the Negroes. They gave no reaction either to this or to jeers and catcalls thrown at them by groups of white youths and girls.

The store later closed 25 minutes before its regular time and the crowd disappeared without further incident.

McClellan's variety store shut down earlier when a crowd gathered. One other variety store and three other establishments also were affected. They, too, closed their eating sections.

Despite the explosive atmosphere, there were no reports of actual violence and there were no arrests. No police officers were stationed in the stores.

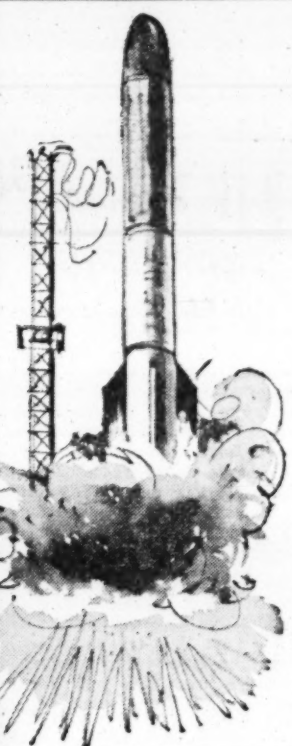

The demonstrations began last week in Greensboro. This week they spread to Winston-Salem, Durham, Charlotte and Fayetteville. Each of these cities have state-supported or private Negro colleges.

Meanwhile, State Atty. Gen. Malcolm L. Seawell suggested that municipal and college officials act against what he said was "a serious threat to peace and good order" raised by the demonstrations.

Seawell said private retail establishments have a legal right to "sell or not to sell to customers as they see fit." There is no law, however, requiring segregation in eating places.

He said college officials "have the right, and probably the duty," to prohibit any action on the part of students which threatens the peace and welfare of a community.

WANTED: Young men who dare to explore the unknown

ON FEBRUARY 11—113 years ago today—Thomas Alva Edison was born.

In his lifetime, the natural curiosity and exploratory genius of Edison brought new light and power to the world through the invention of the incandescent lamp and the creation of the electric industry.

He was granted nearly 1,100 patents. Today, many of the achievements of science are being built on the foundations of his discoveries.

It's quite fitting that Edison's birthday is observed also as Science Youth Day. The Georgia Power Company proudly joins in the tribute to this great man and joins with other electric companies and industries throughout the nation in encouraging students to prepare for careers in the sciences.

America needs thousands of young Edisons—young men with curiosity and vision, eager to explore the unknown.

Students and teachers are invited to write for the free booklet, "Edison and Other Science Experiments You Can Do." Simply fill in the coupon below.

As I See It TV Samples Feeling About Missile Race

By PAUL JONES

Several years ago, during one of the crises which have faced our country, one of the television networks did a sidewalk symposium designed to show whether the man on the street was as well informed about national issues as he was about events in the life of Little Orphan Annie.

Jones

In nine of 10 instances, the men on the street were thoroughly familiar with Little Orphan Annie's problems, but they were totally unaware of the grave problem which confronted the United States at that time.

The other day, NBC-TV called upon Ray Moore, WSB-TV's well-informed newscaster, to take a sampling of how typical Atlantans feel about "The Missile Race." The film, which was shot in a supermarket at one of the big shopping centers, will be included, along with samplings made in Los Angeles, Calif., Oklahoma City, Okla., and Riverdale, N.J., in a documentary scheduled on the network and on Channel 2 at 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

When Ray approached one male shopper in the supermarket to ask him: "Are you worried about the Russian missile threat?" the interviewee announced that he wasn't disturbed at all about the alleged missile lag. But, he told Ray, he was distressed that Atlanta didn't get the professional football franchise.

Fortunately, the majority of those interviewed were more concerned about our national defense than they were about a professional football franchise. But this outspoken football fan does, nevertheless, represent a large segment of our population.

DURING THE Project 60 special, "The Missile Race," men and women will be asked these questions:

"What do you think of our missile program?"

"Would you vote for a congressman who wanted to spend more money on missiles?"

"Do you think that Russia is ahead of us in missiles?"

"Are you worried about the Russian missile threat?"

Ray reports that most Atlantans interviewed are not satisfied with our missile program. "An overwhelming majority would vote for a congressman who wanted to spend more money for missiles. A great majority felt that Russia is ahead of us in the missile race. And about 50 per cent said they are worried about the missile threat," Ray commented.

THE SATURDAY telecast should be one of the most provocative in the Project 60 series.

Six missiles will be shown in operation during the telecast. Progress reports on more than two dozen other missiles will be presented. The Thor missile base in England will be shown in film for the first time.

Background material for the program will include films of the late Dr. Hutchings Goddard, America's pioneer in rocketry, who experimented in the late 1930s. His achievements were ignored by the United States, but German engineers used them in developing the V-2 rocket. The films were obtained from Dr. Goddard's widow.

Ray's interviews with the Atlantans were filmed by Bob Blair, NBC-TV cameraman in this area.

TWISTING THE DIAL: Dick Clark celebrates his second birthday as emcee of his own Saturday night show this weekend when Paul Anka, a young songsmith, and Annette, a real charmer, are his guests. . . . Steve Allen and his crew move to New York City for two shows on upcoming Monday nights.

Goucho Marx might not have the sharpest contestants on his Bet Your Life quiz, but Thursday night he will have one of the oldest contestants in TV quiz history. Irene Hobson, a one-time vaudeville star, will be a guest. She's 90. . . . Ginger Rogers and Wally Cox, winners of the annual Photoplay Gold Medal Awards, will take part in the Bob Hope show Feb. 22. . . . A New York research firm recently discovered that teen-agers have more sales resistance to TV commercials than grownups. The company tested 300 youngsters and 300 mothers. Almost all of the mothers unhesitatingly accepted the claims of the TV pitchmen. The youngsters were skeptical. And well they might be. . . . Domenico Modugno, the Italian singer who burned up the record shops with his "Volare," will be a guest on Dinah Shore's musical Sunday. Wonder where he's been so long?

Benet Classic Set Sunday

David Wayne will portray "Mr. Scratch"—a New England version of the Devil, and Edward G. Robinson will play the famous New Hampshire orator, Daniel Webster, in the Sunday colorcast of Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

Atlanta's Miss Cook On Colocast

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK—Barbara Cook, former Atlanta girl, who has established herself as one of the brightest new stars on Broadway, has joined the cast of the Telephone Hour colorcast scheduled on NBC-TV (Ch. 2) at 8:30 p.m. Friday, February 26.

Miss Cook, who started her career in the entertainment world as a dancer in Atlanta, appearing in night clubs and in theaters there, was originally in "The Music Man" on Broadway.

In the Telephone Hour colorcast she will be joined by the Buffalo Bills Quartet in numbers from that show. They also will perform other selections in their segment of the hour.

The cast for this particular hour will feature Dolly Bergen, the Dukes of Dixieland, the Bob Hamilton Trio, Lorin Hollander, John Raitt and the Telephone Hour Quartet, under the direction of Donald Voorhees.

A Smash Hit Repeats: 'Meet Mr. Lincoln'

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET—Although it is a repeat, MEET MR. LINCOLN is worth seeing—either for the first time if you missed it last year, or a second time.

It moves so quickly, and there's so much to see, you're bound to find something new Thursday. It draws a mood portrait of Lincoln through still photographs and drawings of the period. Altogether, there are between 400 and 500 pictures in the 30 minutes, all tied together by a narration, written by Richard Hanser and spoken by Alexander Scourby, and a score by Robert Russell Bennett.

A year ago, the chief researcher, Daniel Jones, forecast that this program could become an annual classic, a sort of "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

8-8:30 (Ch. 11)—Although The Donna Reed Show walks a well-worn plot path, it does it so nimbly as to be entertaining.

We have the Stones taking sides in a quarrel between some young married friends, and projecting the other two some's arguments to themselves. This may not sound promising, but the fun is in the lines, not the situation.

8-8:30 (Ch. 5)—"Goldie Meets Betty Hutton" is the title of The Betty Hutton Show, and it assumes we're all Hutton gluttons.

The plot has Goldie and Betty as old friends who've drifted apart, and they simultaneously try to find each other again. Their close calls—the old revolving-door bit again—are too trite to be funny, but the fun comes at the end, when they finally make contact. Through split screen, the two Betty Huttons work together on a number — "Chicken Heart Blues"—which just happens to come from a Hutton album.

9-9:30 (Ch. 11)—You get the impression, reading the rundown of The Pat Boone Showroom that it will be a pretty show. It talks about Jo Stafford, "dressed in a pretty evening gown," going to "a pretty set" to sing "a pretty ballad, 'It Could Happen to You.'"

And that's a pretty good idea of the first half of the show. The second half is mostly Pat and Jimmy Driftwood with a long medley of folk tunes about American soldiers, from the Revolutionary War to World War I. The set for this will be an interesting display of items of Americans—wagon wheels, oil lamps and such.

10-11 (Ch. 5)—The reasonable success of the premiere Revlon Revue two weeks ago has prompted the producers to continue along those lines with this edition.

Jackie Cooper takes over as host, but the set will again be a backstage affair.

Working solo spots will be long-legged ballerina Jeanmaire, pop singer Connie Francis and Lionel Hampton with his quintet.

Nancy Walker, as a stage mother, will run in and out.

scattering sunshine. Bob Crewe, the tall blond rock-'n'-roll singer who was a popular success two weeks ago, has been brought back and this time promises to sing something besides r-n-r. Two other youngsters, dancers Richard France and Dirk Sanders, will help out on Jeanmaire's number.

Sahl Drops Plans for TV Series

By VAL ADAMS

(Copyright 1960, The New York Times Co.) NEW YORK—Mort Sahl and Alan Jay Lerner, dramatist and lyricist, have dropped proposed plans for the comedian to star in "P.S. from Paris," a TV series that Lerner expects to produce in Europe. Another performer is being sought for the role.

Lerner's company, Michel Productions, has announced that its more immediate project now would be a half-hour film series tentatively titled "Harry's Girls." Joseph Stein will be the chief writer of the series about an American entertainer traveling in Europe with four show girls.

All the Lerner-produced programs will be filmed in Europe in cooperation with MGM-TV, a subsidiary of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures.

Rod Serling can go right on writing fantasy dramas for television. The Twilight Zone, a series he created, has been renewed for the remainder of the season by General Foods Corp. and the Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Recently there had been some question about future sponsorship of the series, which made its debut last fall. It is televised on Fridays from 10 to 10:30 p.m. by the CBS. In addition to writing some of the scripts,

The American Broadcasting Co. is developing a television series about Phineas T. Barnum which will be produced by NRB Associates, Ltd., in association with the network. . . . Frances Lederer and Maximilian Schell will costar with Julie Harris, whose name was announced earlier, in the mystery play, "Turn the Key Deftly." It will be televised by NBC March 6 at 8 p.m.

Collie Comes Home— After 320-Mile Trek

CROSSVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—A four-year-old border Collie named "Puppy" has returned to his former home at Crossville after a 320-mile trek from Alabama that required more than two months.

His owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stout, said Wednesday he'll never more have to roam. The Stouts gave Puppy to Mrs. Stout's sister-in-law, Mrs. Arion Jackson, who lives near Russellville, Ala., last September.

About a month before Christmas, Puppy disappeared from the Alabama farm.

Stout, an oil field worker, was driving towards an oil lease Sunday when he spotted "Puppy" heading for home.

The black and white Collie's paws were swollen from the long trip, but otherwise he was no worse for wear.

"It's a dream come true for me," said Mrs. Stout, who said she had dreamed twice that Puppy would show up at Crossville. "If he thinks that much of us, we'll never give him away again," she said.

NOT HIS USUAL HAPPY SELF

A Tired Ike Grinds Through Day at Cape

By MORRIS McLEMORE

Special to The Constitution

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—To put it plain, Ike looked like he got up too early and ate too much breakfast.

That was the impression when President Eisenhower landed here at 10:30 Wednesday. When he departed—at 1:35 in the afternoon—he was a tired man who spent the three hours on this wasteland of white sand and sandspurs listening quietly as bright, young men explained what makes the big birds fly.

The President, like most other Americans, has heard enough about how often the great, silver things don't always fly off Canaveral. And that the Russians are winning the missile race why this need is greatest and that program foolish, etc., etc.

Like many another American would like to do, the President called in somebody and said to saddle up, he was going down to see what was what at Canaveral.

Or at least that is what we presume is the reason he put in an extraordinarily strenuous day. He flew to Washington from his Gettysburg farm in a helicopter and then on to Canaveral, and returned to the White House in the brief time of eight hours.

The President was not his usual, happy self when he got off the Air Force 707 jet, and he was just more frayed when he stepped back aboard, although I overheard him say to the missile center commander, Maj. Gen. Donald Yates: "General, you did a great job."

NO DRUM-THUMPING

Yates, an intent man responsible for the test center for almost 10 years of trial, triumph and defeat, rode at the President's side in a 1950 Buick sedan, pride of a limousine fleet that must be the feeblest at any Air Force base.

Eisenhower tried hard to see what can be seen in three hours here. There was no fuss, no thumping of drums, no booming of cannon for the aging warrior chief. No honor guard snapped to for him, no ladies graced his small entourage.

There was a lot of horsepower in the 22 men who stood silently by as the President listened and, only occasionally, asked questions of his eager instructors in the new but vital science of space rocketry. Secretary of Defense Gates and Secretary of Air Force Douglas were among the silent 22, as was Maj. John Eisenhower, the President's son.

JOLLITY ABSENT

Ike's few parting remarks were what might be expected, nothing more. He said he'd been wanting to come here "for a long time," that the base was a most highly instrumented place, that the personnel shows every degree of competence one could ask.

There was no growl for the Russians to mull, no hint of change in our approach to the infinitely complicated problems of space penetration. If he has any such things to say, Ike will say them elsewhere.

And there was no atmosphere of jollity among his companions, either. Nobody was jumping out of line to shake hands with old pals or political desirables.

The bleak, windy reaches of this 15,000-acre island are run like a working ranch, and members of the President's party didn't act like duds. There was somberness, a seriousness about the occasion that impressed some of us anew with regret that the President delayed this first visit to Cape Canaveral until so very deep into his tenure.

Laborer Held In Beheading

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI). Patrick Byrne, a 25-year-old Irish laborer, has been charged with the knife beheading of Stephanie Baird after Britain's biggest manhunt in several years, police announced Wednesday night.

Miss Baird, 29, was decapitated Dec. 23 in her YWCA room. More than 12,000 men have been questioned in the search in Britain and on the continent.

Nicaragua Holds 2 In College Blast

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)—Police Wednesday arrested two young Nicaraguans for a bombing Tuesday at Ramirez Goyena College.

Roberto Castro, 20, and Leonel Lopez Pastora, 22, were accused of being members of a terrorist ring that has carried out a series of bombings here in recent weeks.

Third U.S. Atom Sub Cruises To North Pole Under Ice Cap

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy announced Wednesday the fourth trip by U.S. atomic submarines to the North Pole.

The submarine Sargo broke through the ice at the top of the world Tuesday afternoon and planted the state flag of Hawaii, from which the nuclear boat had sailed on Jan. 18.

The cruise to the pole, in the midst of arctic winter, re-emphasized the ability of American nuclear submarines—including Polaris missile subs—to take position at any season in the international waters above the Soviet Union.

The Navy announcement on the latest submarine polar trip referred only to the scientific aspects of the voyage.

It said the Sargo, like the submarines Nautilus and Skate before it, is engaged in collecting oceanographic data, including information on the "physical structure of the ocean bottom and about sea and ice conditions in the relatively unknown area."

The direct line distance from Pearl Harbor, the Sargo's home port, to the North Pole is about 4,200 nautical miles. However, the Sargo, in her explorations, traveled a longer course.

She was under the ice for 2,744 miles before arriving at the pole 14 days and 21 hours after submerging at the edge of the pack in the Bering Sea southwest of Alaska.

Lt. Cmdr. John H. Nicholson, skipper of the Sargo, planted the Hawaiian flag at the pole, and radioed the news to Gov. William F. Quinn of the new state.

The ship now is resuming its cruise of exploration in the great basin of the Arctic Ocean, adding to data compiled by the Nautilus and Skate.

The Nautilus, first nuclear submarine in the world, reached the North Pole Aug. 3, 1958. On Aug. 11, the submarine Skate arrived at the pole, then repeated her cruise in March of the following year.

Transfer of Regents' Tract Faces Tough Fight on Floor

The House State of Republic Committee, despite opposition from the Board of Regents, Wednesday passed out with a favorable recommendation a Senate resolution asking transfer of regent-owned property to the State Department of Corrections.

Row Heads W. Georgia College

Dr. William H. Row was appointed president of West Georgia College at Carrollton by the State Board of Regents Wednesday.

Dr. Row, 53, administrative dean of the college since 1950 and a faculty member since 1946, will succeed Dr. I. S. Ingram, president since the college was organized in 1933. The appointment is effective July 1, the day after Dr. Ingram retires. Dr. Ingram has

Dr. Row reached the mandatory retirement age of 67.

Dr. Row called his appointment "a challenge which we accept with humility but with determination."

"It would be difficult to find a better man for the presidency of West Georgia College," commented Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, chancellor of the University System.

After receiving the news by telephone from the regents' meeting in Atlanta, Dr. Ingram, who has seen the institution grow from a high school to junior college to senior college, called a surprise meeting of the college faculty and students in Carrollton to announce the appointment.

"I had expressed the hope that Dr. Row would be my successor," Dr. Ingram said, tearfully. The students and faculty applauded.

ROLLS DOUBLED

Dr. Ingram has been president of West Georgia College since it was organized 27 years ago. He was for 13 years principal of the Fourth District Agricultural and Mechanical School, predecessor of the college. The college enrollment has doubled in the past four years to about 750 students.

The new president holds degrees from the University of Kansas, Columbia University and New York University.

Dr. Row, a native of Kansas, came to West Georgia in 1946 as chairman of the division of language, literature and arts.

Regents Chairman Robert O. Arnold has asked Gov. Vandiver to intercede "to preserve" Rock Eagle 4-H Center near Eatonton, which is five or 10 miles removed from the proposed prison site.

Arnold told the governor he would try to raise $150,000 from 4-H members to buy another site for the prison.

AMENDMENT OPPOSED

Rep. Chappelle Matthews of Clarke County has said he will attempt to kill or amend the measure. Some counties have offered land for the prison free and the state holds better sites for its location, Matthews said.

The regents also:

large industries, to provide the group with office facilities in return for income from memberships and other sources up to $25,000 yearly. The college would also perform administrative functions and research services for the two-year period the contract will run. The object is industrial development in the South, the regents were told.

OKAYS NEW COURSES

Authorized the purchase of $11,858.39 worth of power-line facilities by Valdosta State College from Georgia Power Co. The lines are located on the college campus.

Approved establishment of new courses and curricula including: Courses leading to bachelor of science in textile chemistry and in applied biology at Georgia Tech.

Programs leading to bachelor of arts degrees in economics, philosophy, modern languages and mathematics at Georgia State.

Peiping Warns U.S. Navy Again

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday issued what it said was its 85th "serious warning" over U. S. naval vessels intruding into territorial waters.

Peiping Radio said the latest intrusion took place off the coast of Fukien province early Tuesday. It did not identify the vessel.

Senate Backs Study of Lease Of State-Owned Hotel Site

The Georgia Senate Wednesday unanimously approved a resolution calling for a review of the lease on the state-owned Henry Grady Hotel site.

Sen. Charlie Brown of Atlanta told the Senate he was asking, "solely in the interest of the state," that a study commission be formed to determine if the state could get more money out of the property.

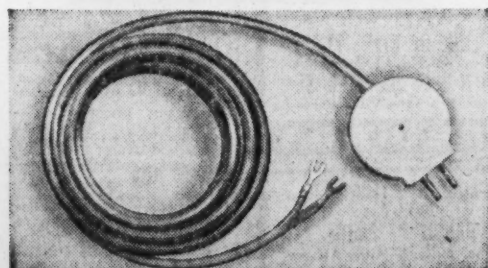

The site, former location of the governor's mansion, is under a long-term lease which expires in 1972. Brown said it nets the state about $32,000 a year now and that payments under the lease will go up to about $42,000 for the last 10 years of the current agreement.

He indicated that with downtown Atlanta property values being what they are, the land may be worth more than that.

He suggested that the commission "talk to the lessee (operators of the hotel) about the future use of the property."

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Thursday, Feb. 11, 1960 19

Annie Lou Hardy Castle View Club Plans Tea Dance

The new Castle View Town and Country Club will hold its first Valentine tea dance on Friday at the Capital City Country Club, with 800 members and their wives gathering for dancing between 6 and 9 o'clock.

The golf architect's plans of the club's 7,100-yard, par-72, golf course will be ready for inspection at the party. This course, the first of two 18-hole courses, will be ready for play next summer.

Lee Rogers, the club president, and Mrs. Rogers will serve as official hosts. They will be assisted by the vice president, Eugene A. Yates; secretary, Jack Embry; treasurer, Robert N. Groover, and their wives.

MR. AND MRS. LAMAR Q. BALL JR., have bought a new home at 3978 Pinehill Pl. With their small sons, Lamar, David and Warren, they expect to take possession early in March.

The home is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. David Kohler who are leaving on Feb. 27 for residence on Miami Beach.

A FOURSOME LEAVING during the past weekend for Florida included Mr. and Mrs. Scott Akers and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. McPhail. They are now at Fort Lauderdale and will be there until Saturday when the McPhails return home. Mr. and Mrs. Akers will go on to Miami Beach where on St. Valentine's Day they will celebrate their wedding anniversary.

MR. AND MRS. ERROLL HAY JR. left yesterday for Sea Island where they joined the former's sisters and brother, Mrs. Polly Cooley of Black Mountain, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Rush Whiteside of Philadelphia.

On Sunday the Atlantans will drive to Coral Gables, Fla., where they will be guests for several days of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eldredge.

DR. AND MRS. THOMAS H. ENGLISH will entertain at coffee on Sunday in honor of the Emory University librarians. Their guests will call between 4 and 6 o'clock at their home on North Decatur road.

Mrs. S. Walter Martin and Mrs. Guy Lyle, wife of the director of Emory's libraries, will pour coffee. Dr. English has for many years been chairman of the Emory library committee.

NEW YORKERS ARRIVING TODAY for their first visit to Atlanta are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanford who will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Collie at their home on Springwood road, Decatur, for 10 days.

The Collies have planned a cocktail party on Saturday in compliment to the visitors, their guests to call between 5 and 7 o'clock. Mr. Stanford is branch sales manager in New York of Mutual Boiler and Machinery Insurance Co.

Guests will be seated at a table sheathed in pink and centered with a heart-shaped ice carving surrounded with garlands of carnations. Pink candles in silver candelabra will light the scene, and guest covers will be marked with pink Valentines.

Out-of-town guests arriving for the wedding and in time for the party will include Joy's grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Smith of Auburn, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunlap of Corpus Christi, Texas; the Keith Alcorns of Birmingham, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Richards Kendrick of Savannah; the Sidney Stapletons of Panama City, and Ross Hodge of Greenville, Miss.

The Smith-Rives wedding is set for 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the chapel of the Northside Drive Baptist Church.

MRS. C. W. CARVER leaves Friday for Phoenix, Ariz., and a visit to her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Carver.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN DANCE have put a ring around Feb. 17 on their calendar, for that date marks their golden wedding anniversary. They had planned a celebration which had to be canceled because of a heart condition developed by Mrs. Dance.

However, the couple will attend prayer meeting at the First Baptist Church where they are devoted members of long standing. They happen to be the oldest living couple who were married at the original First Baptist Church.

Future Picassos Ignore Adult Reality!

By BARBARA BRIGHT
The Picassos and Pavlovas of 1960 may be receiving their training now in Miss Ruth Flurry's kindergarten class at Morningside School.

No longer is kindergarten just a place to send the little wild Indians to get them out of harried Mommy's hair.

Though the wild little Indians may not realize it, they're really learning.

In paint - spattered aprons, Tommy and Bev stand at their easels and draw pictures. Some look like huge splashes of color and little else - Miss Flurry calls these "designs." Others may be paintings of Humpty Dumpty or Jack and Jill or little Miss Muffet.

To the aged eye of adult experience, a picture of a house that is smaller than the little girl standing beside it may not look just right. Adults' chimneys have to stand upright, and be on top of the house.

BRUSH IN HAND

Children in kindergarten, however, are bound by no such stereotyped version of reality. With brush in hand, and the soft-voiced praise of Miss Flurry at his elbow, Tommy can create art bounded only by his imagination.

One five-year-old, working diligently on a red and green checkerboard "wall," looked amazed when his adult visitor didn't realize what he was painting.

"This is a wall and down here are horses," said John. "That's a hint."

Still the visitor looked blank. "It's a Mother Goose rhyme," he added, obviously feeling his questioner was stupid.

At last, the adult realized what was going on - "It's Humpty Dumpty!" she cried triumphantly.

As the child continued painting, a blue Humpty Dumpty was perched on the red and green wall, and yellow horses cavorted gaily beside the wall.

Crayons, finger paints, clay, cupcake holders, strings, paper plates - bits of cloth - almost any articles which 5-year-olds can handle and understand is incorporated into the children's art period by Miss Flurry.

Miss Flurry, who describes the total kindergarten program as art, leads the children in singing nursery rhymes and children's songs. The kindergarten students also learn to count, to tell the date from the calendar, and to clean up their art materials when they finish working (an important bit of knowledge which mothers can utilize).

CLEAN UP

To aid in teaching the children to clean up, Miss Flurry keeps the art materials in boxes and cabinets along the wall within their reach.

Puppet shows and ballet are other parts of their learning program.

With their cardboard figures pasted on long sticks, the children squat behind a long cardboard carton and move their puppets to illustrate a nursery rhyme or their own story of make-believe. "Jack and Jill" and "London Bridge Is Falling Down" are favorites for this.

"Jack and Jill" is also the subject for a ballet in which all the children can participate. Choosing a partner of the opposite sex, the girls and boys trudge in a circle up the hill (to fetch a pail of water). During the imaginary climb uphill, Miss Flurry plays "struggling" music on the piano. As she continues to play, the children make motions of drawing water from a well, then scamper downhill and tumble to the floor.

OWN BALLETS

The children make up their own ballets. Miss Flurry plays the music and asks them to suggest what motions will be appropriate to tell the story in dance without words.

Miss Flurry has 51 children in her two classes of kindergarten at Morningside School. A graduate of Georgia State College for Women, she received her master's in pre-school education from the University of North Carolina. She lives at 926 Williams Mill Rd.

I'm Finally Mindful Of My Limitations

A friend of mine used to say with just the tiniest touch of smugness, "Say what you want to, about me, but I know my limitations."

Like many another boast, it is misleading. It sounds like a virtue—and maybe it is and maybe it isn't. My mother, Muv, never thought so. She thought the word "can't" was the world's biggest crimpler.

"You can do anything you have to," is her watchword, her slogan, her philosophy of life.

And I hate to tell you how many precarious paths that philosophy has led Muv's adherents to stumble along. I never wanted to make an angel food cake, compose a symphony or perform a piece of major surgery and I'm glad because if the desire ever hit me, I'm scared that in line with Muv's teaching, I'd feel compelled to give it a try.

The reason I think of this is that the furniture refinishing fever usually hits me at this time of year and I'm terrified that I'll give into it. I envy the people who can call in the pros and say, "How much to refinish this table? How much to reglue this chair?"

Muv would consider that both effete self-indulgence and wild extravagance. She furnished our house in the country with junk salvaged from barns and smoke houses and the results may not have made "House Beautiful," but they kept Muv happily sanding and scraping, painting and hammering under the chinaberry tree in the back yard for 10 or 15 years. In line with her example, I have offered up the skin off my hands as a sacrifice to the patina of old pine and cherry many a time.

And the reason I know I'm trembling on the brink of the refinishing fever again is that a friend of mine is dallying with buying some beautiful old chairs which are so old and shot they come tied together in a bundle like kindling. My friend asked the antique dealer how much a restoration job would cost and I found myself saying sharply, "Oh, don't pay that! You can do it yourself." Just before I got the words, "I'll help you" out of my mouth, I choked and bit my tongue.

I'm safe so far—but not very. I've been re-reading just at lamp-turning-off time every night that delightful little volume by George Grotz, a New England furniture doctor, called "From Gunk to Glow." It's a practical little handbook (privately printed, I think, but available at book stores for $1 and at the library) and it has the additional charm of humor and personal country adventure sandwiched in between directions for using lye water and avoiding using hot linseed oil.

Mr. Grotz is by now a professional furniture refinishing man but he makes the struggle with old wood sound like a seductive occupation for even the amateur. In fact, he recommends that, or some kind of artesian service to all the city folks who weary of the tensions and strain of their jobs and yearn for the simple life. His Uncle George who was an unhappy failure as a salesman is his favorite example. His Uncle George became a furniture doctor—a happy, successful, independent one—after reading by chance Kahlil Gibran's words about work.

"If a man bakes bread with indifference he bakes a bitter loaf that feeds but half his hunger."

And one of his best illustrations of his Uncle George's new attitude is the one about the summer resident who called him in to give a price on refinishing some small tables that were badly scarred by cigarette burns and white glass rings. Uncle George gave her a price but refused to do the work.

"Ma'am," he said, "there's no point in my getting started with you. With friends like you've got, I'd only have to do them all over again next year."

Refinishing fever . . . oh, I hope I can resist it. I hope at last I'm mindful of my limitations.

SCHOOLMARM BACKED INTO MOVIE CAREER
Actress Barbara Hines Poses Prettily In Atlanta

Despite Faults, Men Are Here To Stay!

By YOLANDE GWIN

And what's wrong with men?
Everything! shout the bitter ones.

Well, they DO have some faults, according to the wives.

There's nothing wrong with them that a woman can't correct, thinks the worldly wise ones.

"Why there's nothing wrong with men, they are wonderful creatures and every woman should have one of her own," said a happiness girl peering through her rose-colored glasses.

So, inasmuch as the men sounded off recently about the faults of women, it is only in the interest of fair play to give the other side of this moot question.

"My main complaint is that men expect you to literally fall into their arms when they ask you for a date," said one unmarried woman. "And, what's more, they call at five minutes to eight and expect you to be ready at eight!"

A postdeb had this to say:

"I think the men, especially here, are conceited and expect the women to do all the calling and the entertaining. They think that we are just waiting, breathlessly, for them to ask us for a date. I think I'd rather stay home than put up with their foolishness."

But it was the wives interviewed who gave the "little things that make me mad" answers.

"Before we were married, he called me during the day, for nothing really too important, but just to let me know he was thinking of me," admitted one woman. "But you'd think he never heard of a telephone now. If he'll be late coming home or that to expect him when I see him. Then he slams up the phone without saying good-by. That might sound like a very small thing, but it's big to me."

There is something about marriage which changes a darling into a demon, say some of the wives, and they say it often and loud too.

Once she was a vision of loveliness as she trailed down the stairway to meet him for an evening out, but now . . .

"Ye gods! You're a sight in that hat, you're not really going to wear it are you?" he explodes.

Or this: "Well, from the time it took you to get ready, I would have thought you'd look different!"

Forgetting anniversaries—birthdays and weddings—is a chronic complaint against the men.

"On our first wedding anniversary I planned a dinner, just us, got a new dress and a bottle of champagne. It was to be a surprise when he came home. Well, I was the one who was surprised. He called about 5:30 and said he had to fly to Birmingham on business and would stay all night and get back the next day. That cured me. He never knew about the dinner and if we are married 75 years I'll never mention our wedding anniversary."

"If I hint enough and long

She 'Shaped Up' For Movie Role

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A pretty redhead's career as a schoolmarm admittedly required a lot of headwork. But now she's well on the way to success in another field because of physical rather than mental assets.

Barbara Hines, as pert and proper as any parent's conception of an elementary school teacher, won a key role in the movie, "Who Was That Lady?" because she had the "cutest derriere" in Hollywood.

It all started when Barbara, a fourth grade teacher in a San Fernando Valley school, deserted her homework in favor of a beach outing with her husband, Bill Abella, a former Los Angeles Rams stalwart who turned actor. A noted photographer glimpsed Barbara—from the rear—and paved the way for her to test for a part in "Who Was That Lady?", starring Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh and Dean Martin.

"It was all pretty ironic," she recalled in Atlanta. "Here my husband—who's really a most talented actor—had been working for years toward a break, and I—who'd never had any ambitions to be an actress—was given a whole new career without my even trying."

BEAUTIFUL BACK

The role primarily called for a "beautiful back" because of the key scene where she kisses Tony—and all the audience sees is a rear view. Barbara competed in the finals with 10 other girls who had shaped up—literally—for the part. They lined up behind a curtain that was raised waist-high and displayed the pertinent feature—properly covered in a clinging skirt, of course. The schoolteacher won.

After counseling with her husband and parents, as well as her school principal and supervisor, she decided to take a leave of absence to make the film.

"I was worried about the lines I'd have to learn," she revealed, "but everyone kept telling me I'd be in good hands."

When the big day came, Barbara spent hours getting made up, the "just right" coiffure—but she still didn't know what her lines would be.

KISSED TONY

"I was just told the scene—which causes all the trouble in the film—would require me to kiss Tony Curtis. Our faces were off camera—but I really kissed him."

Then she discovered that was her role. She didn't even have to learn a single line.

But its doubtful that Barbara will ever return to the classroom. The resulting publicity—and her obvious potential talent as an actress—opened up other fields to her: She was signed for a role with Dean Martin and Judy Holiday in "Bells Are Ringing," and has been approached for at least three other films, in addition to a top role in a Broadway show.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Robinson of Statesboro announce the engagement of their daughter, Nina Robinson, to Virgil Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Von-zil Lewis of Statesboro.

The young couple is planning to be married on March 2 at the Church of God in Statesboro.

The bride-elect will be a senior at Georgia Teachers' College, but is presently teaching the sixth grade in Jesup at the T. G. Ritch School.

After his graduation from Register High School, Mr. Lewis joined the Air Force for a four-year tour of duty. He is now employed by the Co-Op Stores as a bookkeeper in Statesboro.

Bridge Winners Are Announced

Bridge winners for the De-catur Duplicate Club for the week ending Feb. 4 were: N-S, Richard Sheppard, Louis Loeb; E-W, Mrs. Rosalie Roman, C. Robert Swenson.

Downtown Elks Club winners, section A, were: N-S, Campbell Napier, Herbert Elsas; E-W, Mrs. Joe Hultman, Sidney Smith; section B, N-S, Mrs. E. H. Case, Mrs. Fred Camper; E-W, tie between Richard Sheppard and Jack Turoff, Alexander Holden and Jack Baker.

Students Return From Europe

Returning last week aboard the United States Lines' America were these three lovely young Georgians who spent the past year studying in Europe as members of the Hollins College Abroad Group. The trio includes, left to right, Elizabeth Coghill Harbin of Rome; Ellen Shutze and Mary Boyle of Atlanta. Miss Shutze was listed among the 1959-60 debutantes.

Dennis, Batchelor Plans Told

Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas Dennis of Vidalia announce the engagement of their daughter, Treasure Malonia Dennis, to Ernest Hugh Batchelor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley H. Batchelor of McRae.

The couple is planning to be married at a June ceremony.

Miss Dennis is a graduate of Vidalia High School, and is now a junior at Georgia Southern College in Statesboro.

Her fiancé, a graduate of McRae-Helena High School, is also attending Georgia Southern College.

ATLANTA CAREER GIRL

There Are Worse Things Than Girdles and Heels

By JUNE WILSON

The business of being in girdle and heels for eight hours day after day gets old to the Career Girl whose job may be heavily routine, and who must constantly readjust to those working about her. If she is married, she sometimes dreams of spending a week just washing the blinds. If she is single, there are times when she frankly covets the routine and rewards of being wife, mother and homemaker.

And then it happens. She meets the professional housewife again, and her job in the office takes on new flavor. There are indeed worse things than girdles and heels... and a grumpy boss!

The housewife is not the homemaker. There's a difference. The homemaker may not hold a job outside the domestic realm, or she may have both. Either way, she creates a home... a haven for the heart. And she manages beautifully. Not the housewife.

ONE DEFENSE

The true housewife is antagonistic toward working women. It is her one defense. She is the fluff who simpers, "My John doesn't want me to work." When she says it to the married career girl, it translates: "Too bad your Herbert can't support you." To the single, she suggests there is something a bit unclean, if not unnatural, about the woman who works, and infers that since she's not married, the single girl must have something wrong with her.

If John in a masterful moment said he didn't want her to work, she takes him literally. She doesn't work... at anything. She "needs" all the labor-saving devices designed by the mind of men... for the maid to operate. To create her idea of home, she hires a decorator, or reproduces what she sees in magazines. The end product is a decorated house. A home is more than a tasteful collection of expensive, compatible furnishings.

NOT KING

And what of John? For what he gives and all the things he pays for, he gets not an aware, articulate and loving companion, nor a place where he is king. He gets a house. And a frau. And the bills. He gets TV dinners, or the thrill of cooking his own hamburger outdoors though he is bone weary at the end of the day.

The children? They get rooms of their own. This is because so much of the decorated house that is off-limit to them. They get allowances, summers at camp. But they have to learn from their friends that a real home is rumpled enough to be comfortable, clean enough to be sanitary... and what one smells like when homemade soup simmers on the back of the stove.

Creates Pajadress

ROME (WNS)—Since men refuse to return to nightshirts, designer Margherita Lentini has created the "pajadress" which she is selling to Italian women as holiday gifts for their husbands. It is a long pajama jacket that can be lengthened from year to year until it reaches nightshirt proportions.

OUTLAR

The King Gets a Crown

Gene Dahlbender Jr., outstanding Atlanta golfer for many years, will be officially crowned Atlanta Golfer of the Year at the PGA party Thursday night at Cherokee Town and Country Club.

Outlar

for many years, Dahlbender never measured up to the yardstick of greatness established at the outset.

Now 36, Gene has been winning tournaments for more than 25 years. One of the first events he recalls was a triumph over Billy Cate Jr. in the Ansley Park Junior meet at the ripe young age of 11.

"I believe at one time or another I've won every Atlanta tournament I've played in," Dahlbender replied, when asked to list his local triumphs. He might expand that to state events, excluding the Masters.

—Plenty of Silver But No Greenbacks

Dahlbender has also collected a lot of silverware around the nation. However, he failed to collect any greenbacks when he took a fling as a pro after gaining the semifinals of the National Amateur.

That's the galling chapter of the Dahlbender career. Gene tuned up for his tour of the circuit by serving as an assistant to Claude Harmon at the Winged Foot layout in Mamaroneck, N.Y.

From the days that he startled the gallery as a child prodigy, Dahlbender had been tagged as a future star. He had most of the ingredients of greatness. To face harsh reality, however, Dahlbender was a flop as a pro. He had to ring the cash register to stay in business, and in less than a year he was out.

What happened? There are many versions. Some say that Dahlbender played too much off the links; that he didn't take the game seriously.

"That's not true," Dahlbender said, discussing his unusual career. "I took the game as seriously as anyone, but I just didn't win any money. I came close. I missed the money by one stroke in eight straight tournaments; I once shot 15 under par and ran out of the money."

—Dolly Wants an Encore on the Circuit

Fresh out of greenbacks, Dahlbender was forced to desert the greens. From the plush country clubs to the front seat of a truck was quite a letdown. Dahlbender had received a fierce lash across his pride, and you didn't see him around the local layouts too often.

But golf and Dahlbender have run as an entry since his father placed a club in his hands before Gene learned to walk. After sitting out the two years according to Hoyle and the USGA, Dahlbender was restored to amateur status.

He took up right where he left off, and he's been a consistent winner ever since. Golf has afforded Dahlbender a lot of fun, fame and heartaches, and he hopes the best is yet to come.

The ceremonies Thursday night will represent a peak. "I can say in all sincerity and humility that being named Atlanta Golfer of the Year is a great thrill for me," Dahlbender said. "Having Bob Jones and Sam Snead present makes it perfect for me. Jones has always been my idol, and I think Snead is the best of the modern crop. They're the two best in my book."

Jones will present the trophy, and Snead will be the principal speaker, and Dahlbender will be the happiest guy in the house.

Dahlbender still has hopes of removing the pro scar from his pride. He's confident that he could become a winner on the pro circuit today, and he'll never be content unless he gets another chance to prove his point. Now an insurance salesman, Gene would like to find someone willing to buy a policy on his future as a pro.

You'd figure some of the local amateurs would sponsor Dahlbender. If you can't beat a guy, join him.

Frosh Coach Bell Succeeds Urban on Tech's Line Staff

Whitey Leaves The Engineers

By MICKEY LOGUE

Freshman football coach John Robert Bell has been named to succeed A. G. (Whitey) Urban as Georgia Tech offensive line coach.

Head coach and athletic director Bobby Dodd made the announcement Wednesday after Urban resigned to become athletic director at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Bell's promotion became effective immediately, and Urban will report to his new duties on March 1.

Bell had coached Tech's freshmen in 1954, 1955 and 1956 before serving one season as head coach and athletic director at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

He rejoined the Jacket staff on Jan. 1, 1959 after the SLI tour and a year as head football coach at Americus High School.

Urban is the second Tech assistant to accept a job since the 1959 season ended. Ray Graves, of course, is the new head coach and athletic director at the University of Florida.

Urban had been Tech's offensive line coach for nine years.

Speaking via telephone from Huntsville, Ala., where he was fulfilling a speaking engagement, Dodd said:

"Coach Urban's move to Louisiana gives me an opportunity to move John Robert Bell to our varsity staff. John's a fine coach. He has done well with our freshmen, and I had planned to give him a more responsible job as soon as one was available.

"I am sure that he will fit right into our setup as offensive line coach."

Bell will be working with Tech's offensive linemen. Jack Griffin coaches the offensive ends, and Charlie Tate coaches the offensive backs.

"We hate to lose Coach Urban," Dodd continued. "he has done an outstanding job for us since he joined the staff in 1951. We are happy for him that he has had this opportunity to move into the administrative side of athletics and know he is well-qualified to handle the fine position he is taking at Southwestern Louisiana Institute."

West Fulton, Fulton Meet

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Ten hours of basketball... almost a thousand shots... many thousands of dribbles... uncontained joy for fans of seven teams, uncontrolled sorrow for followers of the same number... cheers, tears, excitement, anger, delight.

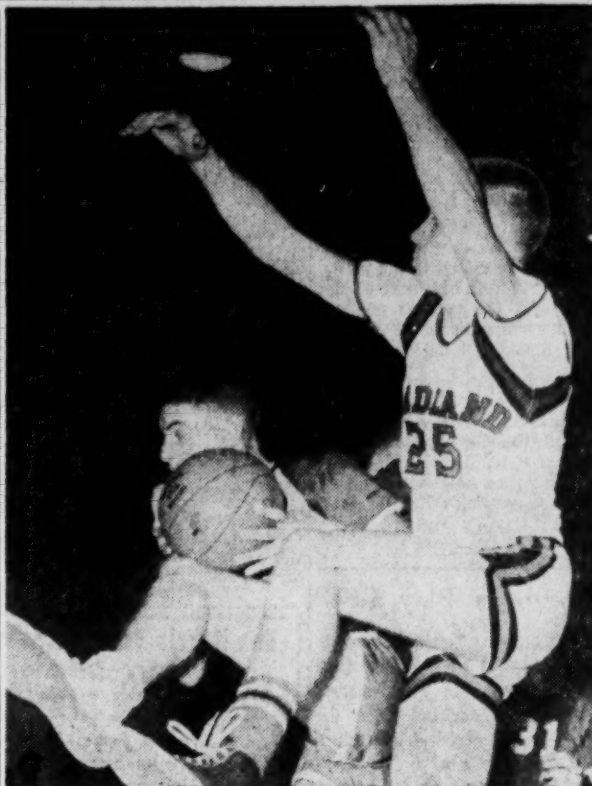

That's the order of the day and night Thursday, 12:30 to 10:30, at

THURSDAY TOURNAMENT PAIRINGS
AT ALEXANDER COLISEUM—12:30 p.m. West Fulton vs. Fulton; 2 p.m. Southwest vs. Smith; 3:30, Grady vs. O'Keeffe; 5, Fulton vs. Roosevelt; 6:30, Northside vs. Bass; 8, Brown vs. East Atlanta; 9:30, Murphy vs. George (North Fulton drew bye, plays Southwest-Smith winner Friday).

Alexander Memorial Coliseum, Georgia Tech's bubble-like sports palace where someone's bubble bursts every time the final buzzer sounds a blatant end to a game.

For this is the day the 1960 City League boys' high school tournament bounces into the Big Dome.

The Great Basket Scuffle

Headland's Allen Stith (25) and Campbell of Fairburn's Jerry Rainwater (11) can't seem to resolve just who'll go for two points with that elusive basketball. It all happened Wednesday night as Headland won, 66-44, in the 4-AA West Tournament at Hapeville. For more details, see Dick Sewell's story on page 36. (Staff Photo—Bill Young)

Battered Wilt Injured in Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers cashed in on the absence of Wilt Chamberlain for most of the game and defeated the Philadelphia Warriors 125-117 in a National Basketball Assn. game at Madison Square Garden.

Chamberlain, the league's top scorer who entered the fray with a battered face and swollen lip, aggravated the injury in a scramble for a rebound with three minutes to play in the first quarter.

The 37-year-old Bell accepted his position humbly and happily.

"I am thrilled by the challenge this opportunity presents," he said. "It will be a privilege to continue working with the fine young linemen that I had on our freshman team."

"When you lose boys like Maxie Baughan, Toby Deese and Jack Rudolph it pretty much takes the nubbin out of the corn. But we have some good boys coming back and some good freshmen coming up."

Bell feels that the players who clear the touchdown way up front often are the game's "unsung heroes."

"I think boys have a natural tendency to fight back defensively, but I believe becoming a good offensive lineman comes a little harder. But as I tell the boys, when you get inside the three-yard line it's the line that determines whether you score or not."

Bell said SLI "is a real nice school" and he thinks Urban will like it. He also had warm words of praise for Urban.

He thanked Dodd and the other Tech coaches for all they had done for him.

Urban said he made the decision

Cobb Stadium Group Gets House Approval

Fulton, DeKalb Still Snagged

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

A bill which would let the Cobb County Recreation Authority build a stadium passed the Georgia House Wednesday while Fulton and DeKalb legislators tried to reach a compromise on the Atlanta Stadium Authority measure.

The Cobb bill was a simple measure authorized by Rep. Harold Willingham which would let the already-functioning recreation authority build and maintain a stadium if it wants to.

The bill is Cobb's weapon in the current move to attract major league sports to Atlanta. There has been some discussion that Cobb has the best stadium location — just across the Chattahoochee River from Fulton.

The Atlanta bill—which aims at building a stadium at Lakewood Park—still hung on a snag created by the broad scope of the original measure.

DeKalb's legislators said they would put their foot on any bill which goes beyond the intent of the stadium authority — to build and operate a stadium.

Rep. Brooks Rep. Willingham

And they feel that the present measure does just that. It would permit the authority, besides building the stadium, a coliseum and parking facilities — to also construct and operate a music hall, exhibition hall and recreation areas.

That would let it interfere with private enterprises, they said.

Another snag arose Wednesday in a proposal by Fulton Rep. Wilson Brooks to create an advisory board to the authority whose members would include persons who would be barred from membership on the authority because of conflicts of interest.

Rep. W. Hugh McWhorter of DeKalb said a flat "no" to that idea. He said it was "not needed" because an advisory group would "just muddy the water" since it would have no power.

McWhorter said later that although he doesn't especially like the idea of naming the authority members in the act, he is willing to let it pass if the scope of the bill is narrowed down to the authority.

And Brooks said that if the

delegation can't get the bill passed any other way, he is willing to drop his proposal and accept an amendment to narrow down the scope of the authority.

A meeting is scheduled early Thursday with some representatives of the chamber, attorney Hughes Spalding Jr., who drew the bill, and other interested parties, to see if this objectionable feature can be withdrawn.

PGA Fete Tonight Hails Dahlbender

Snead and Jones Make Talks To Feature Cherokee Dinner

By JACK WILLIAMS

It'll be Gene Dahlbender night at Cherokee Town and Country Club Thursday when the veteran of the fairways is honored as Atlanta's Golfer of the Year.

More than 200 guests will be on hand to see Dahlbender receive an award that heretofore has eluded him throughout a brilliant career.

Sam Snead

The presentation will be just one highlight of the Atlanta PGA dinner. There are other big stars in the cast.

Two of golf's greatest players, Sam Snead and Bob Jones, will be there, making the affair sort of a golfing three-ring circus.

Snead, the Slammer from West Virginia, will be the featured speaker, and Jones, the famed Grand Slam winner of 1930, also will speak, and then make the presentation to Dahlbender.

The dinner starts at 7:30 p.m. Dahlbender earned the Golfer of the Year tag the hard way, winning both the Atlanta Open and the Atlanta Amateur for the second straight year. He thus became the only golfer ever to sweep both prizes twice in succession.

The parbusting amateur, who once had a fling on the professional circuit, has won practically every major championship in Georgia. He's enjoyed some of his greatest success in the popular Dogwood at Druid Hills, having won the top prize five times.

Snead arrives in Atlanta by plane late this afternoon to serve as main speaker. The Slammer is not noted as a polished talker, but his humor always makes him a favorite on the banquet circuit.

PGA President Paul Lavin will serve as master of ceremonies. Jack McDowell, pro at Cherokee, will be co-host along with Lavin.

Fireball Roberts set a new record for qualifying in a modified Ford at 150.087 miles an hour. Curtis Turner of Charlotte, N.C., was the fastest qualifier of the day in the late model division. He drove a 1960 Ford at an average of 144.346 m.p.h.

Late model qualifiers after Turner included two Atlantans, Bob Welborn in fifth place in a 1960 Chevrolet and Johnny Allen in sixth place in a 1960 Chevrolet.

MORE AUTO RACING — Four more cars, including one that won a pair of 500-mile auto races, were entered for the 1960 Memorial Day classic. Leonard A. Faas of Downey, Calif., entered the car driven to victory in 1957 by Sam Hanks and in 1958 by Red Amick.

GOLF — Accuracy down the fairways probably will be the key to the money box in the $22,500 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament, starting Thursday. Gene Littler, Ken Venturi and Arnold Palmer are favored. . . . A record field of 119 golfers, including Mickey Wright and defending champion Louise Suggs of Atlanta, take off Thursday in quest of the St. Petersburg Women's Open title. . . . Defending champions Jack Penrose of Miami Beach and Marlene Streit of Toronto defeated George Guy of Fort Lauderdale and Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C., 1-up, in the 25th National Amateur Mixed Foursomes at Delray Beach, Fla.

BASEBALL — Commitments have been obtained at Houston, Tex., on a 300-acre site for a huge county park with major league baseball and professional stadium facilities. . . . Pitcher Jack Meyer signed with the Philadelphia Phils. . . . The Los Angeles Dodgers signed Thad Tillotson, 19, a right-handed pitcher for Fresno City College and assigned him to report for spring training with Atlanta of the Southern Assn. at Vero Beach, Fla.

BOXING — Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, director of boxing for Feature Sports, Inc., said he has offered light heavyweight champion Archie Moore $200,000 to defend the crown against Germany's Erich Schoepner this summer. . . . Cus D'Amato, manager of Floyd Patterson, was found guilty of discrediting a subpoena for questioning by the New York State attorney general last Nov. 18. . . . The Gene Fullmer-Joe Giardello National Boxing Assn. middleweight title fight will be held April 20 in Bosman, Mont.

OLYMPICS — Olympic athletes practiced on ski slopes and ice rinks, but the weatherman dampened spirits by indicating a new storm may be en route to Squaw Valley. Forecaster Hal Root said another storm hovering off the coastland could drop considerable snow.

Referee Eddie Curley called a halt at 1:10 as DeMarco stood bathed in his blood, his left eye closed, his famed slugging career at an apparent end.

Moyer weighed 149½, DeMarco 148½.

The fighters accidentally butted heads at the outset of the Boston Garden main event. DeMarco was spouting blood from a deep gash at the hairline on the left side of the forehead a mere 10 seconds from the opening bell.

DeMarco, who had entered the ring more nervous than he had been seen here in previous appearances, left in utter dejection. This bout was over for him almost as quickly as it started.

NBC CONVENES HERE FOR BOWLING SUMMIT

Bowling holds a national "summit meeting" in Atlanta Thursday.

The National Bowling Council, made up of representatives of nearly every phase in the game, will hold its first Deep South convocation at the Biltmore Hotel Thursday and Friday. Purpose of the meeting, bringing together all of the sport's big names, will be to better acquaint the area with solutions to problems that frequently occur in the relatively new (to this area) sport.

Frank Baker

William H. Buschman, president of the Council, will preside over the meetings. Most of the early meetings will be closed to the public, but a "shop-talk" forum is scheduled Thursday night at 8 with the general public invited, especially league officials. ABC executive secretary Frank Baker will moderate the meeting.

In for the meeting will be Joe Paulus, president of the BPAA; Mrs. Jean Kneppath, WIBC president; A. L. Ebersole, executive secretary of the NBC; John J. Canelli, past president of the ABC; Albert Crowe, secretary of the WIBC; R. F. Benninger, chairman of the board for Brunswick; AMF vice presidents Fred Madoe and A. E. O'Leary; Brunswick's Nat Wexler and Milt Rudo; AJBC's Milt Raymer; BPAA's Howard Seehausen and Frank Lacy. —ATKINSON.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Roberts Shines; Crax Get Hurler

From Press Dispatches

The field for the big weekend NASCAR races over the Daytona International Speedway filled out considerably Wednesday with 11 more qualifiers in the late model division and 23 more—one at record speed—in the modified-sportsman division.

This brings total qualifiers to 50 in late models and 35 in modified and sportsman types.

The late-model drivers will go after $10,000 in prizes in a pair of 100-mile races Friday and then the big $38,245 plum in a 500-mile sweepstakes Sunday.

Fireball Roberts set a new record for qualifying in a modified Ford at 150.087 miles an hour. Curtis Turner of Charlotte, N.C., was the fastest qualifier of the day in the late model division. He drove a 1960 Ford at an average of 144.346 m.p.h.

FOOTBALL IN BRIEF

Dietzel Adds Pevey to LSU Grid Staff

From Press Dispatches

Louisiana State University Wednesday night added one of its former quarterbacks, Charles Pevey, to its football coaching staff.

Head Coach Paul Dietzel said Pevey, who was quarterback on the 1949 team that lost to Oklahoma in the 1950 Sugar Bowl, will work primarily with the offensive backs.

Pevey, head coach at LaFayette High School the last three seasons, replaces Carl Maddox, who resigned to become director of the proposed LSU student union building.

Dietzel said the addition of Pevey completes the football coaching staff.

GOAL TO GOAL—Former Clemson tackle Jim Padgett was signed by the Denver Broncos of the AFL. Padgett, 6-1 and weighing 230 pounds, was graduated from Clemson in 1959 after lettering two years in football and gaining the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team in 1957 and 1958. . . . Bob Thalman, head football coach at Hampden-Sydney College, was named Wednesday as freshman coach of the University of North Carolina. Tar Heel Head Coach Jim Hickey said Thalman will fill a staff vacancy created when George Barelay resigned to become an assistant at Tulane University. . . . The University of South Carolina will start spring football practices on March 21. The Gamecocks plan weekday practices and full scrimmages for each weekend. . . . Ernie Jorge resigned as offensive line coach of Navy and announced he will become an assistant to Coach Eddie Erdelatz at Oakland in the AFL. . . . William H. Sullivan Jr., president of the Boston entry in the newly formed American Football League, revealed that private funds will be used to build a new stadium in Boston. . . . Bus Meres, former head football coach at Kansas State University, has accepted the head coaching job at Drake University in Des Moines.

New Mexico University gridiron mentor Bill Weeks announced one of his former playing companions at Iowa State, Rodney A. Rust, would join him as an assistant.

Druids're Winging

Druid Hills High School girls, top-seeded in 4-AAA tournament, want it known they won Tuesday night, 51-16, from Smyrna Campbell to continue unbeaten. Linda Ellis scored 37 points for the Druids, whose only loss this season had come at the hands of The Constitution's Scoreboard Wednesday morning.

GOULD EQUALS NF SUCCESS STORY

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Today's wallflowers at the opening of Atlanta's City League basketball tournament hope to bloom into tomorrow's full-blown title contenders in the GHSA-Constitution-sponsored state bouncaganza. And bloom or not, they're an unusual bunch.

Charlie Roberts

I'm talking about North Fulton's remarkable Bulldogs, who as Region 3-AAA's Eastern Division champions, drew the only bye for the city meet at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Only John Mynatt, one of the finest outside shooters of recent seasons, ever played enough varsity basketball to mention before this season—he's a three-year regular—yet the Buckhead Bulldogs have compiled a 21-4 won-lost record.

They posted that dazzling chart with Mynatt's twin, James, who like John is a senior and stands 5-11, doing the guard chores with his brother and three remarkable newcomers of no experience, but exceptional height.

Larry Gould, 6-4 senior forward who bench-sat throughout his previous cage career, is the success story of the year. The lean fellow of great determination leads the team in scoring with a 17-point average, and in rebounding.

Bruce Bennett, a 6-6 junior who missed most of his sophomore year with glandular fever, missed the early stages of the 1960 campaign but got back into action during Christmas holidays, about the time 6-4 Frank Loomis went down with an ankle injury. Bennett, who made 18 claims in the final 61-49 victory over Murphy, has been the top rebounder since his return.

Of John Cash, 6-5 center, Coach Fred Fussell says, "I wouldn't trade him for any other sophomore I've seen in the league." Cash where on Feb. 24-27 the GHSA-Constitution-sponsored state Class AAA meet will be staged.

That's what this city bouncaganza is all about, to determine which four Region 3-AAA quintets have the right to bounce some more in the big 16-team state meet.

West Fulton's sometimes classy Owls, who play home games in a gym that could be hidden away and forgotten in a corner of the Tech showplace, and Fulton's surprising Redbirds will tip-off in the 12:30 opener.

With North Fulton's regular-season Eastern Division champs (21-4) sitting out the first day with a bye, and powerful Northside (22-2) and Brown (17-3) clashing with lower-bracket teams, the West-Fulton-Fulton melee shares the spotlight with the 3:30 and 5 p.m. Grady-O'Keefe and Sylvan-Roosevelt wrangles.

Sharing the limelight, if only for a night, in the featured 8 p.m. and 9:30 slots will be two newcomers that never before played in such a meet, East Atlanta and Walter George.

Shirley Watkins' East Atlantans have the dubious distinction of taking on Brown's state defending kings, and Western Division co-champions with Northside. Pat Stephens' George Falcons, who came close to upsetting Brown, will test Murphy's defending city champs.

Northside and Southwest, who had a battle royal Tuesday, take on lesser foes. Northside gets Bass at 6:30, while Southwest goes after Smith at 2.

Friday night's quarterfinals, first game at 5 p.m., will determine which four of the loop's 15 quintets will play in The Constitution's classic. Then come two off-days with semifinals set for Monday, finals Tuesday.

Coaches, fans and writers are putting the monkey on the backs of Joe O'Malley's Browns and to leave Tech regretfully but felt the administrative opportunity was too good to turn down.

Southwestern Louisiana Institute fashioned a 4-5-1 record in 1957, and Bell was chosen Gulf States Conference "Coach of the Year."

Bell is a native of Kingsport, Tenn. He is a Tech graduate, twice lettering in football.

Bell is married to the former Anne Gunnels Fischer of Decatur. They have three children, Nan, 6; Karen, 3, and John Robert Jr., 1.

John Mynatt James Mynatt Larry Gould David Sewell is averaging in double scoring digits, and when he, Gould and Bennett camp under the basket there is little other teams can do about winning the rebounding wars.

Fussell himself has a remarkable coaching record. His varsity teams won 111 and lost 42 in six seasons. In successive years his chart has read 25-3, 22-7, 9-14, 21-3, 13-11 and 21-4. In his break-in year of 1955 his Bulldogs won the regular-season and tournament titles. In 1956 his charges were runners-up to Murphy for both crowns, and in 1958 they copped the sub-region title.

But the Tar Heel from Rose Hill compiled a record none can match in his first five years at North Fulton. His B cage teams won 75 of 76 games, and his one eighth grade edition read 16-1.

THE FUNNYBONE—Athletic Director Red Emmert, subbing for ill cage mentor Jack Glasgow for Roosevelt's game with North Fulton: "I'm the coach but Harold Minnix (now graduated 1959 star) is serving as my technical adviser." (Roosevelt lost, 69-42).

PREP PRATTLE — Emmert and Glasgow feel their David Sewell (6-4) should have made the all-City League squad. They present this substantiating evidence: 319 points scored in 18 games, a 16.9 average, field goal percentage of 43.8, foul goal percentage of 53.3, and 13 rebounds per game. The redhead and blond have a point, eh? . . . Pickens County's Donald White, a junior, is averaging more than 25 points an outing. . . . Our soph of the year is Decatur's 6-5 John Christy, who is averaging 16.2 a game and spurred a great late-season push by Ray Thurman's Bulldogs. . . . Donald Barber, Rockmart's sparkler, hit 38 against Villa Rica. . . . Dawson County blanked Ray Pharris for the only time in his career, but the White County ace got even. Next time he hit two foul shots with five seconds left to nip the Dawsons, 45-44. . . . Billy Armistead at Gordon has two sets of twins, Stewart and Walker King, Richard and James Stogner. . . . Avondale's slick guard Ben Hargrove will have to go some to be the shot his father was.

JIMMY COYLE, 5-11 playmaker guard who averages 14 points a game, was signed by Young Harris, making him the first Gainesville player ever given a basketball scholarship. . . . Two teams almost certain to make The Constitution's AAA tournament—Baker and Savannah—posted 14-game victory skeins. . . . Americus lost five then started winning them all, thanks chiefly to 19-point average Bob Reeves, 6-1 junior. . . . Webster County nipped Schley County by three points once, couldn't do it again with 70. Schley scored 124 as Ronnie Dozier and Johnny Wall hit 35 each. . . . Dickie Caswell, Cartersville's mighty mite of football and basketball, is our idea of the most remarkable little man since Singer's Midgerts. . . . Bob Mitchell, Newton County's sensational guard, hit 24 free throws without a miss—yeh, in games. . . . Ronald Bradley's Newton teams have won 39 of 44 in two years. Stone Cooper's girls won 40 of 44 over that period. Bradley's 1960 success can be traced partly to center Bobby Hunter, transfer from Warner Robins, where his father was stationed. . . . Spencer Boyd, North Georgia College's great point-maker, set many records at Newton. In his junior year he led the Covington entry to the state meet and hit 11 of 18 long shots in his one game against Irwin County.

Television Plans Drawn For Auburn-Kentucky Clash

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—The crucial Kentucky-Auburn basketball game Feb. 20 will be televised over a statewide network.

Jeff Beard, Auburn's athletic director who made the announcement Wednesday, said arrangements have been completed with WAPI in Birmingham to originate the telecast over a special network. It will be the first event ever telecast from Auburn's sports arena.

Kentucky and Auburn are pushing Georgia Tech for the Southeastern Conference leadership.

Beard said that since the sports arena has a seating capacity of only 2,500, the telecast will give many fans a chance to see the game who otherwise would miss it.

Magazine Sees Tech as NCAA Champ Soon

Basketball analyst Jeremiah Tax, writing in the Feb. 15 issue of Sports Illustrated, predicts an NCAA championship for Georgia Tech within the next few seasons.

The two-page story is a glowing report of Tech's cage program and its coach, Whack Hyder.

Tax says that Tech cannot win the NCAA title this year "because Roger Kaiser and Dave Denton are not enough," but he foresees the Jackets as national champs "within the next few years."

Hapeville Nips Westminster; Tumlin Helps Rams Triumph

Sandy Springs and Headland Also Cop Wins in 4-AA Play

By DICK SEWELL

The return of Jimmy Tumlin took second billing Wednesday night to a spectacular comeback victory in the boys' quarter-finals of the Region 4-AA West tournament, as Hapeville nipped Westminster, 50-49, in a thriller.

Tumlin, 6-7 center for College Park, played his first basketball game in two weeks and scored 13 points. College Park whipped Newnan, 44-35.

In other tourney games at the Hapeville high school gym, Sandy Springs ripped South Cobb, 52-30, and Headland romped past Campbell of Fairburn, 66-44.

over Hapeville. In the third quarter, however, led by the shooting of Larry Cool and Bill Martin, Coach Bill Campbell's Hapeville Hornets outscored the Wildcats, 31-14.

With 22 seconds left, Cool hit on a jump shot from the side to give the tourney host a 50-49 victory.

Martin and Cool scored all of Hapeville's final-period points. For the night, Martin had 19 points and Cool 12.

The Wildcats were led by Gene Pearce, with 15 points.

Allan Stith hit for 16 and Chris Doyal scored 17 to lead Headland over Campbell of Fairburn. Larry Crawford's 15 was the high for the losing Fairburn five.

In the Thursday games, the girls' semifinals, Westminster plays Fairburn at 7 p.m. and College Park meets Headland at 8:30 p.m.

Hubbard Loses

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., (P)—Luis Manuel Rodriguez strengthened his rating as the No. 1 welter-weight challenger Wednesday night with a bristling four-round knockout over previously undefeated Carl Hubbard.

Rodriguez used left hooks to floor Hubbard in the third round for a mandatory eight count and finished him off in 1:53 of the fourth of a scheduled 10-rounder in the Miami Beach Convention Hall.

ALL OUTDOORS ORCHIDS. A LA BEEFSTEAK COULD PLEASE BOTH SEXES

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

We wanted to show Max Wilde, the old Wyoming cowboy, some genuine Florida sunshine, so we packed up and headed for Henson's Free-For-All Camp, on Lake Apopka. But someone forgot to stoke the celestial furnace and on our first night in this land of eternal summer, the thermometer plummeted to 28 degrees, with a northwest wind wailing over the lakes and orange groves. As far as we could determine, even the fish huddled on the bottom, shivering and probably expecting that this was the beginning of another ice age.

In the local papers, we could find neither an official recorded temperature, nor a low forecast—I understand that the sunshine state C. of C.'s have a ban on such information—but when Ted Henson and I looked at the thermometer hanging on Micki's slat-house door, we knew we'd have to make an attempt to save her collection of orchids, which she has gathered from the ends of the earth.

Micki's greenhouse is loaded with varieties of these exquisite flowers and she was naturally concerned. Since the orchid is a tropical plant, preferring the humid equatorial heat, they are in danger when the line of red mercury drops below 40 degrees.

I suggested building a campfire in the hot-house to get it really torrid, but she vetoed that idea. We thought of using Ted's Coleman lantern, but decided that since it was made for light and not heat, it would not put out enough BTUs to subdue the elements. Ted came up with the suggestion that we fire up his charcoal grill—a huge, hooded affair from which he turns out the most delectable T-bones and sirloins.

The lady figured that she might as well lose her valuable plants one way or another, so she gave her consent. Ted and I loaded the grill with charcoal lumps, got them going great guns, pushed the iron wagon into the slat-house and closed the door.

Nope—you guessed wrong. We didn't burn the place down. When we returned to check the greenhouse later in the evening, the temperature was well into the equatorial range, and the house was loaded with charcoal smoke. Fragrant with T-bone drippings, it smelled good enough to chew.

Micki had told me that orchids—while attached to the plant, have a most delicate perfume. This essence vanishes when the flower is separated from the stalk. However, the beefsteak odor was strong enough to penetrate past the fragile buds and establish itself in the perfume ducts—or whatever orchids have. I picked up one near the door, stepped outside into the cold air to smell it and sure enough, the sirloin smell was there.

That threw Ted and me into a dilemma.—We didn't know whether to finish cooking those orchids, or to move out the charcoal broiler and let them freeze. Better than that, we finally decided that the development of a beefsteak orchid would be something entirely new. Any guy buying one for his best gal would get just as much pleasure out of it as she did. The only thing wrong with the idea was that by the time you got her to the dinner table, you'd both be drooling so hard that you'd eat a hole plumb through your pocketbook.

Beefsteak orchids are, of course, a sort of silly notion, but you never can tell what will happen when below-freezing weather hits middle Florida. Especially if no one there will admit it.

Cards Sign McDaniel and White

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday announced the signing of relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel and outfielder-first baseman Bill White, reducing their unsigned list to three stubborn veterans.

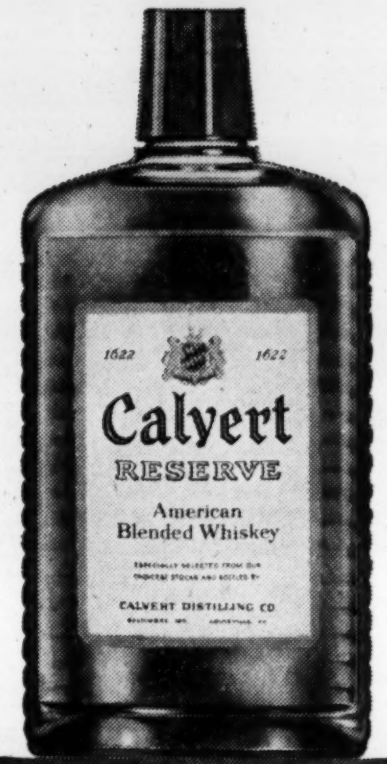

Joe Cunningham, (Vinegar Bend) Mizell and Alex Grammas are the unsigned veterans.

McDaniel, 24, a righthanded na-

Stocks Slip Anew; Mart '60's Dullest

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market lacked the steam to continue a moderate early advance and slumped to a fairly sharp loss on the smallest volume of 1960.

The 1,188 issues traded made it the narrowest market of 1960. Late in the day the market launched a rallying drive which made fair headway until it, too, fizzled as bids dried up.

The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange took an estimated loss of $1,600,000,000.

Even some of the most patient market analysts shook their heads at the erratic and indifferent performance. There was little news to prompt the list either upward or downward but many blue chips battered far below their highs, buying support would be a little more sustained at this juncture.

Among the worst losers were steels, motors, rubbers, oils and electrical equipments. The pattern was more irregular among rails, utilities, tobacco, airlines and mail order-retail shares.

NAFI Corp. drawing renewed interest because of its proposed acquisition of Chris-Craft, was the most active stock, rising 3/4 to 23 1/2, a new 1959-60 high, on 87,300 shares.

Electric Autolite was delayed in opening due to a pileup of buy orders on news the company is inviting tenders of the stock at 54. The stock rose 2 1/2 to 52 1/2.

Allen Industries gained a point on a dividend hike. Goodyear raised prices on replacement tires but the stock was off 1/4. Polaroid reported progress in developing the colored picture-in-a-minute, and the stock closed with a net gain of 1 1/2 following some gyrations. Northwest Airlines was up 3/4. A published news item said net income and revenues for 1959 will set records.

Corporate bonds were slightly higher. Turnover was routine.

U. S. government bonds were mixed. Dealings were very quiet.

Grains' Loss Snowballs

CHICAGO (AP) — Liquidation of grain futures speeded up in the final minutes of the Board of Trade and nearly all contracts posted their steepest setbacks of the week, with soybeans leading the declines.

Heavy snow such as fell Tuesday and Wednesday over much of the Midwest had imparted a slightly bullish feeling to the feed grains in previous instances. Trade opinion has been that conditions of that kind increase the requirements of grain feeding to livestock and retard movement of all grains from farms to commercial channels.

WRINKLES

By Marie Davant

NEW YORK — Chemical science has found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days wrinkles start to vanish. Many small lines around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all! "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms—brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich oils lubricate pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Clip this out.

FLAMING HEART ADDS DELECTABLE DRAMA

Today There's More Time for Heart at Home

By PATRICIA DEATON

The ever loving popular Valentine symbolized in the cards, candies, ornaments etc., that we see everywhere at this time of year, weren't always so numerous and easy to come by.

Once it was that each token of affection on St. Valentine's Day represented intense creative efforts on the part of the giver. By the time then-youthful Grandmother had decorated a card and written a verse, she deserved a box of sweets!

Today's romantic minded, however, have only to walk into a greeting card shop, choose a favorite from a vast assortment of mingled verses, shapes and sizes, and go through the simple process of mailing it.

Since we're already comparing then and now, let's think along the food line.

Grandmother would spend most of a whole day mixing her cake and testing the oven temperature with a sweep of her hand. And probably she would have passed out in a faint if someone poured flaming brandy on her pie.

Today, we are fortunate in that we don't have to start from scratch on those cakes. Again we find that by using mixes we can have perfect cakes and pies in a jiffy, especially when some unexpected guest arrives and they are bound to do just that, this weekend.

So, when those guests arrive, be different—present a flaming heart to your love on St. Valentine's Sunday—either at a brunch celebration, or at a dessert or party snack. Even though Cupid and the ladies prefer pink and frothy confections, your man will lose his heart to one flavored with a fruity sauce and presented dramatically aflame.

For a Valentine's brunch party, try flaming hearts of French toast, simply made with bread cut into heart shape with a cookie cutter, or by cutting around a cardboard heart cutout. The sauce is a tangy combination of orange marmalade, butter and liquor that tastes like the traditional sauce for crepes suzette, but is much easier to do.

Or if you prefer to present your flaming heart after dinner or at an evening party, prepare a meringue in heart shape. Egg whites, confectioners sugar and part of a lemon are all you need for this. Thicken the sauce of a can of purple plums with cornstarch, and just before serving, heap the meringue heart with purple plums, set aflame at the table.

As an alternate to this, prepare a smooth and cool Bavarian Heart with Flaming Raspberry Sauce, the dessert molded in heart shape with the aid of a 12-inch package of aluminum foil. Either of these makes a beautiful, and delicious way to say my love is burning bright.

FLAMING FRENCH HEARTS

- | | |
|------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 12 slices firm day-old bread | margarine |
| 1/2 cup milk or cream | 1/2 cup orange marmalade |
| 2 eggs, beaten lightly | 3 tbsps. sweet butter |
| 4 to 5 tbsps. butter or | 1/4 to 1/2 cup brandy |

Remove crusts from bread, cut each slice into a heart shape with a cookie cutter or a sharp knife. Dip in milk, then in eggs. Fry a few at a time in 2 tablespoons hot butter to a delicate brown. Add more butter as needed. Remove to hot platter, keep warm. Blend orange marmalade with sweet butter. Add to remaining butter in pan, heat. Add 1/2 of the brandy, stir smooth. Pour hot sauce over French Hearts. Warm remaining brandy, ignite, pour flaming over all. Serve to about six.

PLUMS FLAMBE IN MERINGUE HEART

- | | |
|--|----------------------------|
| 6 egg whites | 14 oz. |
| 1 tbsps. lemon juice | 1 cup reserved plum liquid |
| 1 1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar | 1 1/2 tps. cornstarch |
| Ice cream, about 1 pint (optional) | 1/4 tsp. nutmeg |
| 1 can purple plums (1 lb., | 1/4 cup bourbon |

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar or lemon juice until they form soft peaks. Add sugar gradually, 1/4 cup at a time, and con-time to beat until very stiff but not dry. Line a cookie sheet with brown paper. Draw a heart shape (10 inches across top) on paper. Spread meringue to cover shape and then pile around edge to form a rim about 2 inches high. Bake in a pre-heated oven (250 F.) 1 hour 10 minutes. Turn off oven heat. Cool meringue in oven for several hours or overnight. Just before serving fill meringue with ice cream, if desired. Then add Bourbon Plums Flambe. To make sauce: drain plums, reserve juice. In small saucepan, combine juice, cornstarch, nutmeg. Stir until smooth; heat slowly to boiling. Arrange plums over ice cream. Add bourbon to sauce, ignite, pour, flaming, over plums. Serves six.

|-------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 envelope unflavored gelatin | 2 tps. vanilla extract |
| 2 tbsps. cold water | 1 cup heavy cream |
| 4 egg yolks | 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen raspberries |
| 1/2 cup sugar | 1/4 tsp. cinnamon |
| Dash salt | 1/4 cup gin |
| 1 cup milk | |

To make heart shell: remove two long sides from cardboard box of foil (12-inch size). Cover them with foil. Bend the strips to form the shape of a heart, staple ends together. Place the shape on a flat piece of cardboard, draw, then cut out bottom of heart. Cover with foil. Put the sides and the bottom in place and then cover the whole shape with a large piece of foil so that it is firm and holds its form. Grease lightly.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine yolks, sugar, salt, blend thoroughly. Scald milk and pour gradually over egg yolk mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until it is smooth and thick. Add gelatine and continue to stir until it is completely dissolved. Add vanilla. Cool and stir occasionally to prevent a crust from forming. Whip cream stiff, fold into mixture. Pour into prepared shell. Chill until firm. Unmold by loosening edges of the Bavarian from sides with a spatula. Holding it firm, shake gently to loosen completely. Invert on serving plate, serve with Flaming Raspberry Sauce. To make sauce, thaw berries in advance, heat slightly with cinnamon. Add gin to sauce, warm, Ignite, spoon flaming over Bavarian.

Heart-shaped cookies with a delicate air—delicious, and not difficult to prepare. That's a fitting description for a delightful mince meat filled cookie. The delectable cookie dough is of a delicate shortbread type. It is made with cream cheese.

In Mince Meat Sweetheart Cookies, added interest comes from arranging the cookies sandwich-fashion before baking. The spicy flavor of mince meat complements the short cream cheese pastry. And modern mince meat, coming in jars and ready to use, does away with the long tedious hours of cutting and cooking of fruits and spices required in former days.

Just before serving, dust the cookies lightly with confectioners' sugar. The cookies would be a fine accompaniment for ice cream or equally acceptable when served with piping hot instant coffee—easily made in the pot or, in the cup. These cookies are without parallel. Family as well as guests will agree that they haven't tasted any better in many a moon.

MINCE MEAT SWEETHEART COOKIES

- | | |
|---------------------------|----------------------|
| 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese | 2 tbsps. milk |
| 1/2 cup butter | 1 cup mince meat |
| 1 1/4 cups sifted flour | Confectioners' sugar |
| 1/4 tsp. salt | |

Let cream cheese soften at room temperature. Cream together the cheese and butter. Mix in flour and salt. Blend in milk. Shape the soft dough into a ball. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill in the refrigerator for one hour. On a well-floured board, roll dough to thickness of about 1/4 inch. Cut into heart shapes with a cookie cutter. Place 18 heart-shaped cookies on a buttered baking sheet. Spread each heart with 2 teaspoons mince meat. Top each with another heart-shaped cookie. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 8 to 10 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cool. If desired, lightly sprinkle each with confectioners' sugar. Makes 1 1/2 dozen cookie sandwiches.

Valentine's Day, with all its love and laughter, comes bursting through February's gray days just like an arrow of Cupid's bow. The mailman brings Valentine cards and dad comes home with an elegant red heart filled with assorted chocolates.

Your contribution to the festive spirit can be a homemade cake in the shape of a heart and some extra frills as you set the dinner table.

Use your prettiest china and your best silverware, and if you own a lacy dish, use that for the chocolates. Or use the heart-shaped candy box as a centerpiece and let the family nibble chocolates with their coffee.

If you have an extra minute or two, it might be fun to make little Valentine place cards, too.

VALENTINE HEART CAKE

- | | |
|------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour | 3/4 cup orange juice |
| 2 1/2 tps. baking powder | 6 cups sifted confectioners' sugar |
| 1 tsp. salt | 1/2 cup water |
| 3/4 cup shortening | Red food coloring |
| 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar | Maraschino cherry halves |
| 1 tsp. vanilla | |
| 3 eggs | |

- | | |
|--|--------------------------------|
| 1 pkg. chocolate pudding and pie-filling mix | 3 tbsps. sugar |
| 1 1/2 cups milk | 1 baked 8- or 9-inch pie shell |
| 2 egg yolks | 1/2 cup whipping cream |
| 1/2 square unsweetened chocolate, melted | Few drops peppermint extract |
| 1/2 tsp. vanilla | Few drops red food coloring |
| 2 egg whites | |

Combine pudding mix and 1/4 cup of the milk in a saucepan. Add 2 egg yolks and blend well. Add remaining milk and melted chocolate. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat, add vanilla, and beat with egg beater if necessary to make filling smooth. Set aside. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Then continue beating until meringue will stand in peaks. Fold slightly cooled mixture very slowly into meringue. Pour into pie shell. Chill.

To decorate pie, place cream, mint flavoring and red coloring in a chilled bowl. Beat until cream holds its shape. (Do not overbeat.) Cut out 6 waxed paper hearts, about 2 inches each. Arrange on top of pie. Then spread whipped cream around hearts and over top of pie. Carefully remove waxed paper by lifting edges with toothpicks.

Inexpensive Cuts Are Good Eating

This recipe for stuffed flank steaks makes an excellent company dish.

- 2 flank steaks, 10 by 6 inches (about 4 lbs.)
4 cups dry bread cubes
3 tbsps. chopped onion
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. poultry seasoning
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup hot fat
1 beef bouillon cube
1/2 cup hot water
Parsley
1 can small white onions (15 1/2-oz. size)

1. Have the butcher score flank steaks diagonally.
2. Combine bread, onion and seasonings. Add butter and 1/2 cup water. Toss gently to mix.
3. Heap bread mixture down center of steaks (long way). Take a long side of each steak and roll over the bread mixture, fastening with skewers and lacing sides of steak together with string.
4. Brown steaks in hot fat over low direct heat.
5. Dissolve bouillon cube in 1/2 cup hot water and pour over steaks. Cover and cook over low direct heat about 1 1/2 hours or until steaks are tender. Garnish with parsley and small white onions. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Reader's Question Answered From 1891 Whitehouse Cookbook

Here are more of your recipes. I have not tested them as I am sure that if they are favorites of yours, they will be enjoyed by others.

Patricia Deaton.

I NOTICED IN YESTERDAY'S PAPER that Mrs. C. J. Duke of Stockbridge wanted an old-fashioned recipe for chocolate pie. Immediately, my grandmother's cookbook came to mind. This was the old White House Cookbook, published in 1891 by the R. S. Peale Co. of Chicago. The compiler was Mrs. F. L. Gillette with "Hugo Ziemann, Steward of the White House."

CHOCOLATE CUSTARD PIE

Her custard pie was made as follows: Beat up the yolks of three eggs in cream. Stir thoroughly a tablespoon of sifted flour into three tablespoons of sugar; this separates the particles of flour so that there will be no lumps; then add it to the beaten yolks, put in a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of vanilla, and a little grated nutmeg; next the well-beaten whites of the eggs; and lastly, a pint of scalded milk (not boiled) which has been cooled; mix this in by degrees, and turn all into a deep pie pan, lined with puff paste and bake from 25 to 30 minutes.

Put some grated chocolate into a basin and place on the back of the stove and let it melt. (Do not add any water to it.) Beat one egg and some sugar in it; when melted, spread this on top of a custard pie. Lovers of chocolate will like this.

This recipe I purchased from a colored cook on one of the Lake Michigan steamers many years ago, and it is, without exception, the finest puff-paste I have ever seen.

FINE PUFF-PASTE

Into one quart of sifted flour mix two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and a teaspoonful of salt; then sift again. Measure out one teaspoonful of butter and one of lard, hard and cold. Take the lard and rub it into the flour until a very fine, smooth paste. Then put in just enough ICE WATER, say half a cupful, containing one beaten white of egg, to mix a very stiff dough. Roll it out into a thin sheet, spread with one fourth of the butter, sprinkle over with a little flour, then roll up closely in a long roll, like a scroll, double the ends toward the center, flatten and reroll, then spread again with another quarter of the butter.

Repeat this operation until the butter is used up. Put it on an earthenware dish, cover it with a cloth and set in a cold place, in the icebox in the summer; let it remain until COLD; an hour or more before making out the crust. Tarts made with this paste cannot be cut with a knife when fresh; they go into flakes at the touch.

You may roll this pastry in any direction, from you, towards you, sideways, anyway, it matters not, but you must have nice flour, ICE WATER, and very LITTLE of it, and strength to roll it, if you would succeed.

I trust that Mrs. Duke has hearty, calorie-ful eating on this pie. It really sounds out of this world, doesn't it?

We do enjoy your food pages, and find the weekly ads so helpful to budget.

ONE OF YOUR READERS HAS ASKED FOR THIS RECIPE: CANDY ORANGE SLICE COOKIES

- 2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup flour
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup chopped candy
orange slices

Sift flour and salt together, mix with nuts and orange candy. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar and beat well. Then fold in other mixture. Drop by teaspoonful onto greased cookie sheet. Bake in 325-degree oven until light brown.

These cookies are good either plain or iced.

ICING

Cream 1 tbs. butter, add 1/2 pkg. 10X sugar and enough orange juice to make right consistency to spread. Spread on cookies after they are cool.

These keep well and you may like to double the recipe.

ONE OF YOUR READERS ASKED for an old-fashioned egg custard recipe. Here is a real good one.

OLD-FASHIONED EGG CUSTARD

- 3 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
2 cups hot milk
1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Beat eggs, sugar, cinnamon and milk. Mix well and pour into unbaked pie crust. Place in hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 minutes to bake bottom and sides to prevent a soggy crust. Decrease heat and cook at 325 degrees until silver knife inserted at center will come out clean—about 30 min. The custard must not boil at any time. If it does it will be watery.

20-Minute Cookies Are Easy

Magic 20-minute cookies are party-pretty cookie confections you can make in 20 minutes. They are so simple to prepare that the teen-age set will want to learn the secret.

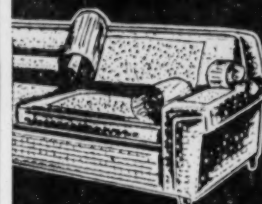

MAGIC 20-MINUTE COOKIES

- (Makes About 3 Dozen Confections)
- 1 (9-oz.) pkg. condensed mince meat
1/2 cup (1/2 15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
1 1/2 cups (4-oz. can) coconut
1/2 cup coarsely chopped almonds
Whole almonds
Maraschino cherries

Break condensed mince meat into small pieces in a mixing bowl. Pour sweetened condensed milk over mince meat; mix well. Blend in coconut and chopped almonds. Ifop by teaspoonful onto a buttered baking sheet. Garnish with whole almonds and cherries. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) for 10 minutes until lightly browned. These cookies taste like candy kisses.

Refreshing Salad Accents Dinner

Heart-shaped boxes of candy tied with red ribbon bows and slender florists boxes commemorate Valentine's Day from a gentleman's point of view. In reciprocation, dinner can be a special affair featuring HIS favorite foods.

This refreshing salad will accent a juicy steak or the imposing prime rib roast he's likely to order. The "heart" of the salad is a juicy canned pear half, slightly flavored and lightly tinted to enhance the creamy cottage cheese, pineapple and nuts that surround the pear half with a lacy frame.

There's much to be learned from the adage that the way to a man's heart is given in the pages of a well-used cookbook. This advice should assure you of success on this Valentine's Day and on through the year.

VALENTINE PEAR SALAD
1 can (No. 303) pear halves
1/4 cup cinnamon candies
1 tbs. vinegar
1 lb. cottage cheese
2 slices pineapple
1/4 cup chopped nuts
Endive

Drain pears. Add cinnamon candies and vinegar to syrup; heat. Pour over pears, chill. To serve, place one or two pear halves core side down on salad plate. Shape with fingers to form hearts. Surround with 1/4 cup cottage cheese. Stud cheese with pineapple cubes and chopped nuts. Outline salad with endive. Makes 4 salads.

AN EXOTIC FIRST COURSE INDIVIDUALLY SERVED—SHRIMPS FANTASIA
Fold Shrimps and Seasonings in Gold or Silver Foil, Bake and Serve

For a Lovely, Exotic First Course Prepare Delicious Shrimp Fantasia

A first course with an exotic look and taste! Shrimps Fantasia is easily prepared in gold or silver foil and will look lovely on the table when guests sit down to dinner. With this recipe you'll make your reputation for serving something new and delicious. And you'll be impressed with this single and quick "hostess" recipe.

SHRIMPS FANTASIA
1 lb. medium-sized shrimp (about 21 to the pound)
Green pepper strips
1/2 cup melted butter
1 tiny clove of garlic, crushed
1/2 tsp. grated onion
4 tbs. lemon juice
2 tbs. honey
1 tbs. fresh ginger, grated, or 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
1 tsp. salt
Freshly ground pepper
1/2 tsp. ground mustard
Few drops of Tabasco

Remove the shells and devein the shrimp. Have ready pieces of gold or silver foil, 7"x8". Arrange 5 shrimps in a row on each, decorating with small green pepper strips. Prepare a sauce as follows: Add the garlic and onion to the melted butter, gently saute for 2 minutes; then add all other ingredients. Pour over the shrimp, dividing evenly. Close each package by overlapping two foil ends over shrimp and twisting opposite ends. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Serve each person with a package to be opened at the table and decorate the plates with watercress or parsley.

Try Entree In Tempting Exotic Fruit

A meatless entree is a welcome change, especially when the entree is filling and delicious. "Avocado Egg Scallop" is a pleasing combination of hard-cooked eggs in a delicately flavored curry sauce.

It is served in luscious avocado half shells. The semi-tropical fruit is at its best now and, because of an exceptionally large crop, is economical.

Serve tasty half shells in various ways.

AVOCADO EGG SCALLOP
3 tbs. butter
3 tbs. sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tbs. finely chopped green onion
1/4 tsp. curry powder
1/4 tsp. paprika
1 cup milk
4 diced hard cooked eggs
2 Calavo avocados
Buttered bread crumbs.

Melt butter and blend in flour, salt, onion, curry powder and paprika. Add milk and cook and stir until mixture boils and is thickened. Stir in eggs. Cut each avocado into halves lengthwise and remove seed. Arrange half shells in a shallow pan containing 1/4-inch warm water. Fill shells with hot egg mixture. Sprinkle tops with bread crumbs. Heat in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Raisins Spice Pie

This tempting raisin pie, fragrant and spicy-sweet is brightly dressed in a new recipe which combines dark, seedless raisins with canned mandarin oranges from Japan!

These plump, golden segments—containing neither seeds, rind nor membrane—bring a delicious flavor, and brilliant color to your pie that will make it a family favorite and a prized party dessert.

Both raisins and mandarin oranges are high in nutritive values, making this a dessert as good for you as it tastes and looks!

For variety, pile the filling into fluted tart shells, saving some orange sections for colorful garnish. With either the pie or tarts, a bowl of whipped cream adds a final luxurious touch.

MANDARIN ORANGE AND RAISIN PIE

2 11-oz. cans mandarin oranges
2 cups seedless raisins
1 cup granulated sugar
2 tbsps. cornstarch
2 tbsps. water
2 tbsps. lemon juice

MANDARIN-RAISIN PIE
Top With Orange Slices

1 tbsps. grated lemon rind
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 9-in. baked pie shell (or 6 baked tart shells)

Drain juice from oranges and add enough water to make 1 cup. In saucepan cook raisins with sugar, juice and water for 5 minutes. Mix cornstarch smooth with 2 tablespoons water; stir into raisin mixture along with lemon juice, rind, salt, butter and oranges (reserve enough for pretty garnish). Cook, stirring until mixture thickens and clears. Cool. Turn into pie shell. Makes 6 servings. Or turn into 6 tart shells.

Doff Hat to Potatoes

This is the month when we doff our hats to those diligent growers of Idaho's famed russet potatoes and sweet Spanish onions, the men who make every effort to produce the finest of these vegetables—standby in everybody's meal planning. Why not do them honor and make use of these economical vegetables in a Sunday night supper featuring French onion soup and jellied potato salad, dishes good singly or in combination for many another meal.

The huge yellow-bronze or creamy-white sweet Spanish onions with their crisp crackly skins have a mildness not common to the onion family, which makes them good both cooked and raw. Use them as a main dish rather than as a lusty seasoning agent.

FRENCH ONION SOUP, IDAHO STYLE

(4 to 6 servings)
3 to 4 large sweet Spanish onions
1/2 cup butter
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. coarse-grind black pepper
6 cups hearty beef stock
French bread or rolls
Parmesan cheese

Cut peeled onions very thin and on the bias to avoid rings. Cook them in the butter (or use 1/4 cup each butter and olive oil) very gently until tender and limp but not browned, lifting carefully and turning occasionally, using a broad spatula or turner. Add seasonings, beef stock, which may be made from bouillon cubes, meat stock base, or use canned consommé or bouillon. Simmer, uncovered, 15 to 20 minutes. Taste for seasoning. Some like to add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce or, just before serving, a tablespoon or three of sherry, claret, or dry white wine, or brandy.

While the simmering is going on, cut French bread in 1/4-inch slices. Toast on one side. Spread untoasted side with butter. Place, buttered side up, on cookie sheet. Sprinkle slices heavily with grated Parmesan cheese. Toast until lightly browned, about 3 inches under heat source of oven. Pour soup into soup plates or individual casseroles. Float a piece of the cheese-up toast on each portion, dusting on more cheese, or passing separately.

JELLIED POTATO SALAD MOLD

(6 to 8 servings)
6 cups potato salad, your style
1 env. (1 tbsps.) plain gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/2 tsp. salt

Make up your favorite potato salad, using potatoes which will cook mealy and dry, as "Idaho" do. Hot or cold, this variety has a flavor all its own. Taste tip: cook potatoes in their jackets, skin and cube while as hot as can be handled. Mix in salad dressing—French, boiled, or mayonnaise, or oil and vinegar or white wine to moisten. Allow to cool. Then mix in salad dressing and other ingredients as desired. Chill well. Won't hurt a bit to make extra potato salad. Always good eating!

Make lemon gelatin by softening gelatin in cold water, add remainder of ingredients. Chill. When it is a thick syrup, pour about a cup of the gelatin into a well-oiled 1 1/2-quart ring mold or similar sized mixing bowl or fancy mold. Carefully spoon in the potato salad, allowing room to pour in all or most of the remaining gelatin. Mix lightly. Any leftover gelatin and salad may be molded in custard cups. Chill until firm. To serve, turn out on crisp salad greens on a chilled plate. Garnish as desired.

Dash of Imagination Adds Worth to Dish

By PATRICIA DEATON

Beginners may experiment with pinches of these five seasonings—rosemary, sweet basil, sweet marjoram, tarragon and thyme. Rosemary has a spicy odor and gives special character to poultry, stews and sauces. Sweet basil has a cloverlike flavor and is often used instead of pepper in tomatoes.

Sweet marjoram adds new flavor to potato salad, creamed potatoes and string beans.

Tarragon has its own peculiar sweet taste, resembling licorice, and is good in green salads, salad dressings, salad vinegars, fish sauces, tartar sauces and some egg dishes.

A dash of imagination—with a pinch of herbs—can change plain food into a dish worthy of expert chefs.

Start with about one-fourth teaspoon of dried herbs in a dish for four. When using fresh herbs, cut or chop the leaves very fine. Use three or four times as much fresh herbs as dried herbs.

Cook herbs for a short time only. Delicate flavor and aroma are lost when they are heated too long.

For soups and sauces, tie fresh herbs in small bunches, or ground herbs in a cloth bag. Add them during the last half hour of cooking.

In uncooked foods, such as vegetable juice cocktails, add dried herbs, tied in a bag, several hours before serving. Remove herb bag at serving time.

Heating in cooking fat is the best way to draw out flavors of many herbs.

LEAVENINGS

Leavening agents can certainly become confusing. They are the substances that form bubbles of gas which expand when a batter or dough is heated. This action makes light baked products and affects the grain and texture, at the same time.

Yeast, baking powder, soda and food acid are leavening agents. There are also physical leavening agents such as steam and air. Egg whites are an example of air and these agents make products rise.

If you use too little leavening, your product will have a peak, a tough crust, and a close, compact grain. Too much, causes the product to fall or have a gummy crust, coarse and irregular grain, or dry and crumbly texture.

Yeast is a tiny plant that produces a gas from sugar when temperature and moisture are favorable for its growth. It comes in two forms—active dry yeast and compressed. This yeast must be softened in warm water for 5 to 10 minutes.

There are three headings for baking powder. SAS-phosphate, phosphate, and tartrate. The SAS-phosphate is a double-acting type and frees only a small amount of its gas when combined with liquid. The major portion is released later when the product is heated.

The phosphate type baking powder gives off part of its gas when combined with liquid, and part when it is heated. Tartrate baking powder reacts almost entirely when you add the liquid to the dry ingredients. The gas formed then expands when the batter or dough is heated.

The types are marked on the baking powder cans.

Baking soda gives off gas when you mix it with a food acid such as buttermilk, sour milk, molasses, vinegar, or lemon juice. One-half teaspoon soda plus 1 cup sour milk is equivalent in leavening powder to 1 teaspoon double acting baking powder.

Self-rising flour is all-purpose flour to which baking powder and salt have been added during the milling process. The flour is sifted many times during milling and these ingredients are thoroughly mixed with flour.

This type of flour assures uniformity, correct proportions of baking powder and salt. It also, saves you time in assembling ingredients.

ALL ABOUT HAMS

There are two kinds of ham being sold in most retail stores today. They are FULLY-COOKED and COOK-BEFORE-EATING.

Fully-cooked hams may be served without further heating, or may be reheated, if desired. Canned hams are fully cooked.

Cook-before-eating hams, as the name implies, require additional cooking before they are served.

There is a third kind of ham available in some localities. This is Country Style ham and is heavily cured. It requires soaking and simmering in water before baking.

Hams are available in a number of styles such as bone in; skinless, shankless; semi-boneless; boneless; boneless-skin-less, and boneless-skinless canned hams.

Fully-cooked hams (including canned hams) may be reheated in a 325-degree oven to an internal temperature of 125 to 130 degrees.

Time required to reach this temperature is 18 to 20 minutes per pound for half ham. It ranges from 22 to 25 minutes per pound for half ham, and 30 minutes per pound for roll-shaped, boned ham.

be approved by meat inspectors and will carry in large letters the treatment "Perishable—Keep Under Refrigeration."

Pork Products Soon Available

Ready-to-eat cured pork products in small cans will soon be available in the refrigerated cases of grocery stores. They have previously been available only in large cans holding three pounds or more.

These cans will be handy for small families who want to buy for only one or two meals.

Refrigeration is required for these new products until they are served. This is mainly because these products are not heated to as high temperatures as the all-meat products in small containers that now sell from grocery shelves without refrigeration. Labels on the small cans will

Omelet Pan Offers Short Cut

A typical omelet pan has a handle and sloping sides so that the omelet can be lifted and rolled easily with the spatula. The pan should be made of metal that will spread the heat evenly. In homes where omelets are made often, the special omelet pan is never used for any other purpose.

Once seasoned with unsalted shortening, the pan is not washed but is rubbed clean with coarse salt.

Try French Potato Puffs

French Potato Puffs are a delightful vegetable when served for company dinners with French-cut lamb chops. You'll also find them equally at home with your best meat loaf.

These little potato balls are crisp and golden on the outside, soft and creamy on the inside and wonderfully flavored with instant minced onion.

Prepare the seasoned potato mixture early if you wish, but be sure to bring it to room temperature before frying. There's no need to worry about strong onion flavor when instant minced onion is used. Even on standing, this mild, sweet, fresh flavored moisture-free onion remains the same.

Shape the potato base into small balls and fry a few of them at a time in hot, deep fat. Drain and sprinkle them lightly with salt. Keep hot in a low oven until serving time.

FRENCH POTATO PUFFS
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¾ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. sugar
½ cup water
1 tbsps. instant minced onion
1 egg, beaten
1 cup unseasoned mashed potatoes (packed)
Fat for deep-fat frying
Salt

Melt butter; stir in flour, salt, sugar, water, instant minced onion and egg. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture becomes thick and follows spoon around the pan. Remove from heat and stir in potatoes. Heat fat to 370 degrees F. (or, when a 1-inch square of bread will brown in 60 seconds.). Using about 1 tablespoon potato mixture each time, shape into balls. Fry a few potato balls at a time in heated fat until rich golden brown. Drain potato balls on absorbent paper and sprinkle lightly with salt. Keep warm in slow oven until ready to serve. Allow 4 or 5 potato balls for each serving. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

NEW CASSEROLE TREAT THAT'S FULL OF MEAT

Chef Boy-Ar-Dee Meat Ball Stew really satisfies Here's why:

- It's chock full of juicy beef meat balls—12 to a can.
- It's loaded with tasty vegetables—tender carrots and peas, snowy potatoes.
- Chef's rich, brown beef gravy is heartily delicious.
- This complete casserole meal is ready to heat and serve in minutes!
- Costs only about 15¢ a serving, an unbeatable value!

Seabrook Farms Offers Two Couples Prize Vacations!

WIN A SECOND HONEYMOON IN GAY HAWAII

Pan Am, world's most experienced airline, jets you there for six unforgettable days!

Enter Seabrook Farms exciting "Second Honeymoon" contest, and win an expense-paid trip to Hawaii. Two lucky couples will fly an American Airlines 707 Jet Flagship to the West Coast, board a giant Pan American Intercontinental Jet Clipper, and be in Hawaii in less than 12 hours. There you'll be honored guests (including meals) at the plush Hawaiian Village Hotel for six balmy days and five romantic nights. Seabrook Farms gives you $250 extra, for side trips and incidental expenses. Each couple can choose their own time for "the vacation of your dreams in Hawaii."

200 ADDITIONAL WINNERS! A Silver Double-Vegetable Dish in French Gadron design, to the next 200 winners, monogrammed with family initial.

CONTEST RULES: 1. On entry blank, tell us in 25 words or less why you would like a Second Honeymoon. 2. Mail your entry, along with the front panel (or a reasonable facsimile) from any Seabrook Farms Vegetable package to: Seabrook Farms Co., "Second Honeymoon Contest", P. O. Box 280, New York 13, N. Y. Submit as many entries as you wish, but each entry must be accompanied by a front panel from a Seabrook Farms package. 3. Entries will be judged by a board of impartial judges on the basis of originality and aptness of thought. Decisions of the judges will be final. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties. Winners will be notified by mail. Prizes are transferable, but not redeemable in cash. Prize trips must be redeemed by December 31st, 1960. 4. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight March 31st, 1960. All entries become the property of the Seabrook Farms Co. None will be returned. 5. Contest open to residents of continental U. S., 18 years of age or older, except employees of Seabrook Farms, participating airlines, their advertising agencies and their immediate families. Contest is subject to Federal, State and local regulations.

Glazed Brioche Turns Menu Lag

Want to curtail that mid-winter menu lag? How often do you wish for a new idea for a special treat at dinnertime? This recipe for honey-glazed brioche will turn the trick in a hurry.

Brioche is a traditional yeast dinner roll, like a Parker House roll, but this one has an extra topknot of golden dough. It is made with enriched corn meal that gives it a delicious fresh corn flavor and interesting texture.

You'll delight in working with this springy yeast dough and your sure reward will be a vote of approval from each member of the family.

There's just the right glaze to complete it, too—equal parts of butter and honey are mixed and then brushed on each little roll before baking. Sprinkle some sesame seed on if you wish and pop into a hot oven.

What a delicious aroma will waft through the house while the honey-glazed brioche is baking. Serve them tonight for dinner—and, I might add, they are delicious for a modified continental breakfast of just rolls and coffee.

HONEY-GLAZED BRIOCHE (Makes 2 dozen)

Dough

1 cake compressed or
1 pkg. dry yeast
1/4 cup lukewarm water
1 cup scalded milk
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 tps. salt
3 1/2 to 3 3/4 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup enriched corn meal
1 egg

Glaze

2 tbsps. butter or margarine, melted
2 tbsps. honey
Sesame seed (optional)

For dough, soften yeast in lukewarm water (use warm water for dry yeast). Pour scalded milk over shortening, sugar and salt; stir occasionally until shortening melts. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in 2 cups flour. Add corn meal, egg and softened yeast. Stir in enough more flour to make soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead until satiny, about 10 minutes. Round dough into ball; place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 1 hour.

Dreamer's Delight Has Gourmet Touch

A gourmet's dream can be a homemaker's delight! Heat-to-serve concentrated cream of mushroom or celery soup with an equal volume of milk. Blend in grated Swiss cheese and continue heating until cheese melts.

Punch dough down; turn out on lightly floured board or canvas. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough in 3 parts. Shape 1 part into 24 small balls. Shape remaining 2 parts into 24 larger balls; place larger balls in greased muffin cups. Make a depression in center of each larger ball; press smaller ball into depression.

Brush with honey glaze (made by combining butter and honey); sprinkle with sesame seeds, if desired. Cover; let rise in warm place until double in size (about 45 minutes).

HONEY BRIOCHE

Note Their Golden Topknot

Bake in preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.
